POINCARE DEFIANCE WINS BIG VICTORY BY DEPUTIES' VOTE

FRANCE IN RUHR TO "STAY"

This Is Answer to Plea for a Different Method Than That of Coercion.

HAS HOPES FROM EXPERTS

Blames Our Failure to Ratify Treaty as Leading Cause of Trouble.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—Premier Poincaré won another victory for his foreign policy in the Chamber of Deputies tonight when the members gave the Government a vote of confidence by 415 to 151. The vote followed a review by the Premier of his foreign policy of the last two years, in which he expressed his attitude toward and his hope in the committee of experts presided over by General Dawes.

The Premier's address was in reply to the attack of Edouard Herriot, the Radical leader, on the Government's foreign policy. M. Herriot declared for co-operation, and had announced that should the Radicals be successful in the May elections they would seek an equitable settlement of the reparations problem. But he declared that this settlement would not be sought by coercion.

Stating the position of the French Government toward the efforts of the committee of experts to balance the German budget, the Premier declared that any plan advanced must contain from the outset provisions for reparations. This statement confirms the forecast of the French position given in these dispatches.

Premier Poincaré said that he placed hope in the committee of experts, and desired to see it make the first step toward a settlement of the whole issue of reparations.

Stands by French Program.

"The committee, which will work within the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles," he said, "has an important task to accomplish which will constitute the first move toward that general arrangement which the French Government some time ago prepared."

Then the Premier stated that France had demanded 26,000,000,000 gold marks as her share of A and B bonds, leaving Class C bonds to be dealt with later in the light of whatever settlement of the interallied debts might be made, namely, that France would ask as much of that part of the German debt as she needed to meet the claims of England and America on France.

"After their inquiry the experts will indicate to the Reparation Commission the payments that they think Germany can make during the period of preparation for the larger payments. It is for the Reparation Commission then to make the decisions which will maintain the peace of the world; to fix the figures for the German annuities until 1926, and to examine the possibility of floating loans guaranteed by the products of the controlled guarantees."

France, the Premier asserted, did not oppose an international loan to Germany, and held that part of such a loan should go to Germany, if needed, but that the larger part of the loan ought to serve for the payment of reparations. He reiterated that France would quit the Ruhr only when paid, and said that he was in full accord with the Belgian Government in that stand. France, he stated, also was fully supported by the nations of the Little Entente.

Herriot Angles in Vain.

Premier Poincaré stood by his Ruhr policy, although at various times during his three-hour speech M. Herriot angled in vain to get him to admit some closer plan of co-operation with the Allies. But the Premier stood pat. Between him and M. Herriot there is a strong personal respect, and there is political agreement as to internal affairs, but their conceptions of how France can best secure the fullest payment of reparations remains opposed. Premier Poincaré's conception of accord with the Allies is, bluntly, that they should agree with what France does, because France's interest is the greatest. M. Herriot's idea is that there should be an agreement between the Allies on all methods of obtaining payment from Germany.

Although the Government won a handsome vote of confidence today, it should be borne in mind that such a vote is sometimes as much of a vote against Germany as of favor for the existing Government. Poincaré's speech was a reply to Paul Reynaud, as well as M. Herriot, Reynaud's proposal from the opposite end of the House was that payment be secured by an industrial agreement with the Germans.

"We have always desired and sought the interallied accord which M. Herriot seeks," M. Poincaré said. "But it is not admissible that we should be compelled to do nothing unless we have the unanimous approval of the Allies. That would put us at the mercy of powers which are least interested in reparations. Such, at least, has been the claim of our English, if not our American, friends."

Says England Deserves Reproaches.

The Premier insisted that France has shown more than enough patience with Germany, and if M. Herriot's reproaches are directed against any one

League Jurists Meet to Study Covenant Interpretations

GENEVA, Jan. 18.—The special commission of jurists appointed to study interpretations of the League of Nations covenant and points of international law connected with it assembled here today under the Presidency of M. Adachi of Japan. Its deliberations will be private, but it hopes to have a report ready for submission to the March session of the League Council.

The commission came into being last September after Italy had refused to recognize the competency of the League in the Greco-Italian dispute.

The idea of holding the March session of the council in Rome, as suggested by Premier Mussolini, has been abandoned, because the Italian elections are to take place about that time, and it is now planned to hold the December meeting in Rome.

TROTSKY, VERY ILL, LOSES TO HIS FOES

His Defeat and Absence Start Rumors of His Arrest, Which Prove Unfounded.

HAS TWO MONTHS' LEAVE

Meanwhile His Soviet Opponents Rout "Insurgents" in Communist Organization.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Jan. 18.—A report that Trotsky had been arrested, though quite untrue, is capable of a more reasonable explanation than similar anti-Bolshevist rumors in the past. The facts of the case—based not merely on the "official communiqué," but on personal investigation by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent—appear to be as follows:

Trotsky is definitely eliminated from all Bolshevist activities, whether of the Communist Party or the Soviet Government, for at least two months; not, however, by the action of any of his colleagues, but by illness.

As pointed out in previous dispatches, Trotsky has been the leader of "insurgent" critics of the Communist Party machine, whose principal members, Stalin, Zinovief, Kamenief, Bukharin, have successfully counter-attacked him and other insurgents in speeches and articles of a virulence that might well lead any one unfamiliar with the internal Bolshevist controversies to imagine that a real split was likely to occur at any minute, especially in view of the false parallel of the French Revolution.

On the latest occasion the controversy actually became so hot as to mislead some of the Communists themselves, and the report of Trotsky's arrest was readily credited, especially when it became known in Moscow that three or four weeks ago Trotsky had left his apartments in the Kremlin and gone to his country house outside the city.

In reality, the move was due to weakness of both body and spirit, the result of a mysterious malady developing during the past three months, whose most marked symptom was a wasting, intermittent fever.

Depression overcame Trotsky's hitherto indomitable energy and he virtually abandoned the field to his adversaries. The news of his departure provoked a crop of rumors, even among the Communists themselves, which the Political Bureau promptly took occasion to contradict by an announcement saying that although it did not see eye to eye with Trotsky on certain points, it was utterly unthinkable that they contemplated depriving the Communist Party or the country of his valuable collaboration with the Political Bureau, as heretofore.

A proof that this is not just a platonic declaration on the part of the Political Bureau is offered by the fact that the Petrograd Communist Party, which is under the influence of Zinovief and opposed to Trotsky most strongly in the party discussions, voted an almost identical resolution, emphasizing the value of his collaboration. Their example was followed by numerous other party organizations throughout the country who also had supported the machine leaders.

His Followers Assure Themselves.

This calmed the rumors for a time, but they were revived by an official announcement of Trotsky's retirement from all work for a full two months, owing to illness.

Trotsky yesterday was elected, along

HEINEN AND OFFICERS CLASHED ON GUIDING SHENANDOAH IN GALE

DAMAGE IS ONLY $80,000

But, $50,000 Worth of Helium Gas Was Lost When Nose Cap Was Torn Off.

Orders Received From Capital to Rush Repairs for Voyage, Now Scheduled in June.

Differences of opinion which arose between Captain Anton Heinen, German Zeppelin consultant to the navy, and Lieutenant E. H. Kinkaid, assistant navigation officer of the Shenandoah, over the piloting of the leviathan of the air during the runaway flight last Wednesday night and Thursday morning, were brought to light yesterday at a hearing before a special board of inquiry appointed by Rear Admiral Scales to determine the cause of the accident and the extent of the damage.

Declining at first to answer as to whether he had any complaint as to events on the flight, Lieutenant Kinkaid later admitted that Heinen had been critical of the manner in which he was trying to guide the craft in outriding the gale which had wrenched it loose from the mooring mast at Lakehurst.

"While I was steering I kept in mind the condition of the rudder, which had been badly damaged, and sought to pilot the Shenandoah in such a way as to eliminate heavy strain on the rudder," he said. "Captain Heinen was indignant that the direction I was keeping was not exactly what he wanted."

Lieutenant Kinkaid told the board, which met in the hangar at the Lakehurst air station, that he felt it was a question of navy men being responsible for saving or losing the dirigible. He therefore acted accordingly, he added. Lieutenant Kinkaid indicated that relations between Heinen, who is a civilian employe of the navy, and himself still were strained.

Angered by a Newspaper Story.

"He apparently was peeved this morning over an article in one of the newspapers which attributed to me the statement that he was a consulting engineer to the navy at a salary of $500 a week," Lieutenant Kinkaid said. "I never mentioned his salary in my interview, but simply mentioned that he was employed."

It was learned yesterday that another officer on the craft had taken the responsibility of keeping the Shenandoah at a higher altitude than that desired by Captain Heinen while the ship was being buffeted by the wind. Captain Heinen, it was reported, believed the craft could outride the elements at a considerably lower altitude, minimizing the chances of colliding with trees or high buildings which might loom up in the inky night.

Commander Ralph D. Weyerbacher, builder of the Shenandoah, estimated that it would cost not more than $80,000 to restore the airship. He said, however, that if changes and modifications which he would advise were adopted, the cost to the Government would be much greater.

While the hearing was in progress orders were received from Washington, from the Navy Department to begin immediately preparations for the flight to the North Pole in the latter part of June or early in July. Commander Weyerbacher said it would require several weeks to repair the craft, work on which would be started today. He issued orders which brought the 300 "gobs" to the hangar for the purpose of moving the dirigible from the south side of the hangar to the supporting posts on the opposite side. Today the helium gas tanks will be deflated of 1,720,000 cubic feet of gas, which will be stored in tanks. It was said that helium valued at $50,000 had been lost when the two forward gas envelopes were torn away with the nose cap.

Will Recommend False Nose.

Commander Weyerbacher said he would recommend that a false nose be put on the Shenandoah as a safeguard against a recurrence of Wednesday's mishap.

"My examination of the Shenandoah has developed nothing to indicate that there is any fault with the design, con-

W. H. Vanderbilt Takes Bank Office Boy Job; $20,000,000 Heir Keeps Boston Social Ties

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 18.—William H. Vanderbilt, son of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and heir to $20,000,000, likes the banking business so well that he has determined to learn it from the ground up. To do this he has become an office boy for Lee, Higginson & Co., the State Street bankers. In this move he has the full sanction of his bride of November, the former Emily O'Neil Davis.

Mr. Vanderbilt and his bride are living at 8 Louisburg Square, Beacon Hill. They have five servants and a butler.

Mr. Vanderbilt has no trifling notions about his new job. He arrives on the dot, hangs his coat and hat up in the place set apart for office boys and takes his place on the bench with the four others. He answers telephone calls, runs errands and does everything expected of a boy in a banking house. He asks for no favors, balks at none of his duties and is determined to work himself up by his own merits.

Outside office hours Mr. Vanderbilt is another individual. Then he lives the social life that becomes his position and fortune. But he never permits society to interfere with business. No matter how late he may be out at a theatre or a dance, he makes it a point to be always on time the next morning at the office. He frankly admits he finds work no hardship.

Both Mr. Vanderbilt and his bride like Boston. "We are enjoying Boston immensely," he said. "Of course, we have hardly had time to get adjusted to our new surroundings, but we find them very pleasant. I have a job, a chance for advancement, a beautiful home and a wonderful wife. What more can a fellow ask!"

McAdoo Extols Bok Referendum On the Plan for World Peace

Praises the Purpose of the Award as Concentrating American Thought on a Practical Solution and Urges Wide Consideration of It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury and candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, is strongly in favor of the referendum now being conducted on the winning plan in the competition for a prize of $100,000 offered by Edward W. Bok of Philadelphia for the best practical plan by which the United States might co-operate with other nations to prevent war.

It became known in Washington tonight that Mr. McAdoo has written a letter to a friend in the Eastern States in which he praises the purpose of the Bok peace award to concentrate American thought and the ability of the American people upon a practical plan for world peace. Mr. McAdoo especially likes the idea of holding an informal public referendum for the purpose of ascertaining American opinion "upon the principle involved in the issue," and thinks the largest possible number of people should take part in the referendum and give their unprejudiced decision after careful study of the winning plan.

Mr. McAdoo's letter reads:

"Jan. 5, 1924.

"The Bok peace award has a noble purpose not alone to stimulate and concentrate the best thought and ability of the American people upon a practical plan for world peace, but also to secure through an informal referendum an index of American opinion not specifically upon the plan itself but upon the principle involved in the issue.

"This referendum should be participated in by the largest possible number of people who will study the plan and give an unprejudiced decision.

"That the peace of the world can be conserved through intelligent co-operation of the nations I have never doubted. The progress of civilization has been a continuing story of the conquest of the supposedly impossible, and those who say that world peace is impossible refuse to concede the conquering march of progress and the irresistible power of Christian effort once it has been aroused and focused with the white heat of truth upon the gravest menace to the future of mankind.

"The preservation of Christian civilization rests absolutely upon the capacity of civilized nations to co-operate in some effective manner to preserve peace and to reduce the crushing burdens of military and naval armaments through a practical plan for their definite elimination. The world is going through one of those profound epochal changes where destiny will be molded by the decree of wisdom or of blindness exhibited by the statesmen and people of this generation upon whom the responsibility of grave decisions rests.

"What is imperatively demanded now is the enlightenment of the people on this vital question. Truth has been mangled in the discussions and the interjection of partisan politics has been a calamity to humanity. Therefore, any rational method which will secure an unbiased exposition of public opinion will serve a great purpose, because no plan of vital co-operation between the nations, so far as American participation is concerned, can be made permanent and effective unless supported by public opinion.

"W. G. McADOO."

The name of the friend to whom Mr. McAdoo wrote this letter could not be learned, but it is understood to have been a resident of the East. It is expected that Mr. McAdoo's declaration will arouse considerable comment.

STUDENTS ATTACK COLLEGE PRESIDENT

HE CHARGES CO-ED DRINKING

Former Brooklyn Pastor Denies Allegations of Inefficiency—Faces Bishop's Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBION, Mich., Jan. 18.—Made the target of hymn books hurled by 550 hissing and booing students who shouted for his resignation, President John W. Laird of Albion College retreated today from the pulpit where he had attempted to conduct chapel exercises.

The disorder was followed by the reading of a resolution, framed at conferences of students and alumni, in which Dr. Laird's resignation was asked on grounds of inefficiency, failure to cooperate with the Faculty and an alleged attack upon President Emeritus Samuel Dickie.

Later President Laird said that today's trouble was not due to the causes charged in the resolution but to the expulsion of a girl student for drinking and smoking. He denied allegations against his character and asserted his readiness to face any inquiry.

As result of the turbulent day, both sides of the controversy will be heard Monday in Detroit, when the Board of Trustees of the Methodist institution meets with Bishop Theodore S. Henderson to begin an investigation.

Students Declare Their Grievances.

Charges against Dr. Laird as made by Wilbur Diehl, a senior and Chairman of the Students' Investigation Committee, after the President had abandoned the chapel platform, were:

That his policies had been such that faculty had repudiated him.

That the heads of the five departments are so indignant at the actions of Dr. Laird that they had determined to resign their places if Dr. Laird was still in charge at the beginning of the second semester.

That Dr. Laird had conducted himself in an unchristian manner.

That he had heaped insults on Dean Robert Williams, whom he brought with him from the East three years ago, and that he had charged Dean Williams was seeking his place and was desirous of undermining him in the college.

That he removed Dean Williams's secretary from office and had not replaced her, causing the Dean to do his own clerical work.

That he had attacked the character of President Emeritus Samuel Dickie, and had called Dr. Dickie a contemptible cur and had made the statement that if Dr. Dickie were younger he "would knock his block off."

Diehl also announced that at a meeting of their representatives in the college chapel just before the regular exercises five fraternities had decided unanimously to demand the removal of Dr. Laird under threat that unless he is out at the beginning of the second semester, next month, their members will not return to college.

Charges Co-Ed Smoking and Drinking.

Dr. Laird said tonight that the chapel demonstration was prearranged by disgruntled students, whose animosity he had incurred by dismissing a co-ed for drinking and smoking.

"I decline to reveal her name," he said. "She confessed her guilt. Similar charges are being considered against

CENSORS SAY FILMS OFTEN GLORIFY VICE

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Declaring that vice is glorified and virtue, sobriety and observance of the law made unattractive in many films, the New York State Motion Picture Censorship Commission tonight submitted its annual report to Governor Smith.

The report asserts that the "motion pictures can be made a wonderful force with the education of our people, and under proper regulations will accomplish great good."

Pointing out that the penal law regulating legitimate theatrical performances cannot be applied to motion pictures, the report says that "undoubtedly the greatest evil is the exhibition of pictures showing the method of committing crime and escaping punishment." It continues:

"Others are intended to appeal to sex instincts. It has been said that the motion picture gives a false idea of life. People living in immoral relations are shown to be surrounded with luxuries which girls and boys who have to work for a living cannot afford. In this manner the life of the American people is misrepresented. Vice is glorified and virtue, sobriety and observance of the law are made unattractive.

Difficulties in Regulation.

"The claim is often made that the law concerning the regulation of theatrical performances is adequate to punish those who produce and exhibit objectionable motion pictures. It has, however, been clearly proven that the motion picture cannot be regulated through the same agencies as the ordinary theatres. The universal demand for regulation all over the world is a sufficient answer to this argument.

"If it were possible to prevent the exhibition of objectionable films through the agencies which exist without a general statute, some locality in the country would have been able to do so. Again, the ordinary processes of the law are so slow that before a picture could be suppressed it would have a long run, and much notoriety and great harm would result."

The commission found it necessary to make 2,881 eliminations in 586 films, dropping or rearranging 2,260 scenes and eliminating 621 titles. Twenty-nine scenes or titles were regarded as sacrilegious and 26 as obscene. In 382 instances the commission decided that a scene tended to incite to crime, while 238 scenes were rated as inhuman.

The report points out that the total receipts collected by the commission during the three years of its existence were $476,233.06. The total amount expended by the State to maintain the commission for the same period was $200,288.28, leaving a net profit for the State of $275,944.78.

Found Immoral Foreign Pictures.

"During the year there seems to have been a great influx of foreign pictures," the report said. "There is no agency which has any jurisdiction over them except our commission, and many of them contain indecent, immoral and sometimes sacrilegious matter. In fact, in some of them, assaults have been made upon religious sects. The majority of the producers and exhibitors, we are

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Jan. 18.—The "enemy" fleet tonight rules the Caribbean. The shattered American fleet lies huddled in Cristobal harbor and the mimic war has ended with a vivid demonstration of the indefensibility of the Panama Canal without radical reinforcement of its armaments. This is the final outcome of the joint manoeuvres to determine the defensibility of the Canal Zone, and while purely theoretical, the manoeuvres were marked by spectacular major engagements, with much of the grim beauty of a real naval clash of first-class powers.

Admiral Robinson, charged with getting through the canal from the Pacific and joining the hypothetical Atlantic fleet, brought to bear every resource at his command and played his hand gallantly, but the cards were stacked against him from the start because the coast defenses were outranged and the men and material of the mobile army were unable to prevent the serious crippling of such guns as were available.

Admiral McCully, commanding the "enemy," seizing the advantage of the foe's weakness, struck sudden and brilliant blows in the morning hours before expected and pounded the defenders to smithereens while they were massed in the cramped harbor unable to manoeuvre and struggled vainly to concentrate an effective fire on the attackers.

Part of Admiral Robinson's fleet was still in the canal when a great black cloud from the "enemy," enjoying the windward advantage, suddenly rolled in, changing the gentle blue tropic landscape to a grizzly gray picture of Northern waters. As the deep blue waters darkened while smoke thickened overhead, Admiral Robinson on the flagship California, unwilling to let his fleet die like rats in a trap, ordered his submarines and destroyers to up anchor and steam at full speed through the hostile fire to open sea. Meanwhile behind the breakwater he endeavored to manoeuvre five first-class battleships—all that got that far—into effective firing positions. It was a hopeless job for the most skilled commander. Behind the breakwater one or two managed to swing around for a broadside and bring all the starboard or port guns to bear, but the others were forced to fire only the forward batteries.

From the verandas and seaward windows of the Hotel Washington excited spectators saw the great guns slowly elevated to firing positions, watched the tense figures in the fighting tops and gun stations directing the operations, saw the white-clad gobs straining to execute orders, and then watched the puffs of saluting powder issue from the one-pounders mounted alongside the fourteen-inch guns. [The actual firing was by these small guns. The big ones were in operation theoretically.] By then the supporting craft had deployed outside the breakwater and had put up a smoke screen of their own. This was whipped by the trade winds back upon the defenders so that night came suddenly as it does at evening in the tropics, and searchlights stabbed through the murk like gun flashes.

Like Voiceless Monster in Death Grapple

The battle then took on an uncanny aspect because of the muted guns, as if some voiceless monster were in a death grapple in the midst of a rolling sea, and went on for two hours.

The Black "enemy" fleet, driven in by Admiral McCully to deliver its last punishing blow, fired broadside salvos at 600 yards from its sixteen-inch guns, and as the radio news of their firing reached Admiral Coontz and General Hines, the joint chief umpires, they knew in advance of assessing the detailed damage that the question for

Want Beloit College Made A Melting Pot of Races

BELOIT, Wis., Jan. 18.—A proposal to make Beloit College an institution for bringing together representatives of all the races of the world in an attempt to effect racial understanding which would make for world peace has been made to members of the Board of College Trustees by Dr. George L. Collie, dean of the college, who is a widely known anthropologist.

The proposal was made public in an address to Dr. Irving Maurer, the new President of the college.

Dr. Collie's plan is to bring selected students here from all the races and subdivisions of races. It would constitute an ethnological laboratory with a student personnel as follows:

Americans, 40 per cent.; Europeans, 20 per cent.; Asiatics, 20 per cent.; South Americans, 10 per cent., and Africans, 10 per cent.

AMERICAN SHIPS SHELLED AT TAMPICO

The Virginia and a Sinclair Tanker Run Blockade of Rebel Gunboats.

OBREGON MEN AT BORDER

Await Permission to Cross, Which Acting Governor of Texas Withholds.

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 18.—A radio message picked up by station WEAY stated that the steamship Virginia, a merchantman, and the Eugene V. Thayer, a Sinclair Oil tanker, ran the blockade of the harbor at Tampico early this morning under severe shellfire and came through into the Gulf.

The message did not state whether the ships were damaged, but reported that the bombardment had been severe.

According to information received today by Houston oil companies having interests in the Mexican fields below Tampico, yesterday's bombardment was not in the direction of Tampico and that city is in no danger. Some fifteen shells were fired, but out to sea.

It is generally believed that neither the rebels nor federals have any wish to destroy or interfere with the oil field operations and that hence Tampico is safe.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 16 (Associated Press).—The bombardment of the vicinity of Tampico by rebel warships yesterday resulted in one fatality—a Chinese killed in the Chinese settlement on the north shore, about a mile from the city, according to Tampico advices, received here today. The rebel vessels, the messages state, were the gunboats Zaragoza and Agua Prieta. They withdrew when the land guns answered the warships' fire.

The work of fortifying the heights about Tampico is continuing and the shore detachments have been reinforced, a military train arriving with a Yaqui battalion on board, being immediately sent to La Barra, at the entrance to the port.

The six merchant ships, the steamer Maasdam of the Holland-America Line and five tankers, which were stopped by the rebels as they attempted to enter the port, were later permitted to proceed into Tampico harbor, the messages add.

The Maritime Association, at a meeting attended by the foreign Consuls and representatives of the oil companies, decided to stop traffic into Tampico for the present, special dispatches state.

Troops Ready to Cross Border.

BISBEE, Ariz., Jan. 18.—Fifteen hundred Mexican troops from the interior arrived at Naco, Sonora, Mexico, early this afternoon and are awaiting permission to cross the international boundary for transportation across the States of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas to a point along the Texas border, where they will re-enter Mexico.

The troops are Mayo Indians from the southern part of Sonora, under command of General Jesus Maria Aguirre, and have been in considerable fighting during the last month.

United States immigration officials announced today that they had received no orders to permit the passage of troops through American territory. Officials of the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad received orders for troop trains and are ready to furnish transportation if such permission is granted. Although railroad men refused to give

Kreutzer Sonata on Violin Takes Place Of Ether in Operation on Woman's Eye

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The Kreutzer Sonata probably never was played under more unusual circumstances. Jan Rubini, a Russian violinist, played it today in the operating room of a physician's office as an anaesthetic.

The patient was Mrs. Irene Veazell. The physician was Dr. Henry J. Schireson. Mrs. Veazell was suffering from malignant oedema of the eye. In operating for this complaint, Dr. Schireson explained, local anesthetics were undesirable, tending to cause dilation of the pupil of the eye. As the eyelid must be opened, the operation is exceedingly painful. Dr. Schireson decided to experiment in musical therapeutics. The patient was placed on the operating table and the violinist called in.

"I have performed many operations, using autosuggestion," said the surgeon, "but this is the first time to my knowledge that the wizardry of music has been used. My patient is unusually fond of music and susceptible to its influence."

The nurses and assistants took their places at the operating table. The surgeon dabbed a bit of iodine on the patient's eye and nodded to the violinist. Rubini drew the bow across the strings. The melody of the Kreutzer Sonata sounded through the room.

"Do you feel any pain?" asked the surgeon as he made an incision. "Not in the least," was the woman's reply. "The music is beautiful." As the operation continued the Kreutzer Sonata melted into Schubert's "Ave Maria."

As the scalpel cut deeper the violinist increased the tempo. From "Ave Maria" he swung into the "Souvenir," by Drdla. Then he played the "Spanish Symphony" and Fritz Kreisler's "Caprice Viennoise."

The operation lasted half an hour. When it was over Mrs. Veazell, her eye plastered and bandaged, sat up and smiled. Music as an anesthetic had been a pronounced success.

MEXICAN CRISIS BEFORE CABINET; NO WARSHIPS SENT

HUGHES SEES NAVY HEAD

Protection of American Lives and Property Will Guide Future Course.

OIL MEN IN CONFERENCE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Despite the fact that the Mexican situation was the subject of extended discussion at the Cabinet meeting today, and of conferences between President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes and between officials of the State and Navy Departments, an air of mystery surrounded the day's developments and no information was vouchsafed, as to future governmental action.

There appeared to be little doubt, however, that the struggle between the Obregon Government and the de la Huerta revolutionists for supremacy in the Tampico oil region, the establishment of the rebel blockade of the port of Tampico and other aspects of the program have developed a situation which, although not critical at the moment, is being carefully considered by the Administration.

Whatever course this Government adopts will be determined in the light of its effect on American life and property in Mexico. It is not likely any official announcement regarding further action will be authorized until after the arrival of the cruiser Richmond at Vera Cruz. The Richmond was detached from the American naval forces at Panama two days ago when the cruiser Tacoma, struggling with a strong "norther," was jammed upon the rocks of Blanquilla reef, two miles outside of breakwater at Vera Cruz.

The Richmond, due to reach Vera Cruz at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, is a modern vessel, armed with twelve 6-inch guns of high calibre and equipped with a powerful radio installation which will enable this Government to establish direct communication with Vera Cruz.

Tacoma's Crew to Be Considered.

The stranding of the Tacoma, which is expected to become a total loss, has greatly complicated the situation, and any further action the American Government determines to take with respect to the Mexican problem will also consider the welfare and safety of the crew of the battered Tacoma.

Three of the Tacoma's compartments are flooded. She is grinding on the reef in only two fathoms of water. Naval officials think she cannot be saved. Her captain, six other officers and 42 enlisted men are still on the Tacoma endeavoring to care for what remains of the vessel, but 247 other enlisted men under command of the executive officer have been sent ashore at Vera Cruz.

The revolutionary forces sent a tug to the Tacoma for rescue work. Agents of the de la Huerta faction in Washington assert that the American seamen landed at Vera Cruz will be made comfortable and receive every consideration despite the fact that the American Government is supporting the Obregon Government in the latter's effort to crush the rebellion. When the Richmond, a 33-knot cruiser, which for two days has been speeding from Colon to Vera Cruz under forced draft, arrives at Vera Cruz she will undertake the care of the Tacoma's stranded seamen.

Oil Men Confer With Hughes.

After the Cabinet meeting Secretary Hughes conferred with Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt and also at length with representatives of the Association of Petroleum Producers in Mexico, headed by Guy Stevens. No statement was made by the department as to the nature of the conference, and members of the delegation declined to discuss their visit, saying any statement must come from Secretary Hughes. It was assumed, however, that the oil men had presented to the Secretary such information as they possessed concerning the status of their properties in the zone of the rebellion and had given their opinion as to the dangers which may threaten them.

It is understood that the rebels are in control of the Doheny wells at Cerro Azul, in a region thickly populated.

The State Department lacked information from the American Consul at Tampico of the reported activities of the rebel gunboats in shelling the vicinity of the city yesterday and putting the blockade into effect. It was stated, however, that there was apparently no interruption in cable communication with Tampico, as reports from the Consul had been frequent. The blockade with respect to outgoing ships was to become effective Jan. 21 and for ingoing vessels on the 19th.

It had been announced earlier in the day that a statement would be forthcoming from the State Department during the course of the afternoon and a similar statement was scheduled to be made at the Navy Department. At the appointed time, however, the State Department merely announced that the scout cruiser Richmond was proceeding from Panama to Vera Cruz.

No reply has been received from de la Huerta on the American protest against the Tampico blockade, but it is understood to be the contention of the revolutionary forces that they are justified by the rules of war and international law in establishing the blockade so long as it is conducted in accordance with accepted principles.

been sent from Vera Cruz to Washington to act as confidential agent of the de la Huerta faction, arrived in Washington tonight, and declared it to be the purpose of the revolutionists to afford full protection to American and foreign nationals and their interests within territory controlled by the rebel forces. It was stated that both with respect to the Tampico blockade and other matters, the revolutionary faction was determined to proceed with due regard for the legitimate rights of foreigners. Señor del Castillo was former Speaker of the Mexican House of Representatives, recently served as Mexican Minister to Germany, and said he has been sent to this country as de la Huerta's personal representative. He expects to remain here during the revolutionary period.

Order to Warships Was Expected.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—For a time today it appeared that some action to insure the freedom of American commerce with the port of Tampico was impending, but developments of an undisclosed character later prompted an authorized statement at the White House that the President was not expecting any difficulties on account of the Tampico situation.

Foreknowledge that the State Department was preparing to issue some statement with relation to the Tampico blockade led to the strong impression that the sending of American war vessels to Tampico for the protection of American commerce and other interests was under contemplation. Cabinet officials did not deny that the question had been discussed during the day.

It has been emphasized in connection with the warning from the State Department to Adolfo de la Huerta, revolutionary leader, against interference with American shipping passing in and out of Tampico, that the Washington Government had made no threats. In view of the evident desire in Washington to avoid, if possible, any clash with the rebel faction, it is conceivable that the State Department reiterated in an official way the purpose of the Richmond's visit to Vera Cruz.

Secretary Hughes was in conference during the day with representatives of American oil interests in the Tampico region and other fields, but no word of what occurred was obtainable. It was evident that Mr. Hughes had indicated his desire that there should be no public discussion of the conference.

The visit of the oil men, however, served to emphasize the delicacy of the present situation in Mexico. American holdings there represent very great investments and there are many Americans working in and about the oil fields. Whatever course the Government pursues with relation to the revolutionary outbreak in Mexico must be decided upon only after the fullest consideration of its possible effect upon both American life and property. The major purpose of the administration is to safeguard American interests and it is seeking to reach a wise solution and avert any overt act by disgruntled revolutionists against those interests.

The grounding of the Tacoma and the necessity of placing most of her crew ashore in rebel controlled territory undoubtedly has added to the complications of the situation in many ways. Not only must the welfare of the shipwrecked men be considered, but until the Richmond arrives on the scene there is no American controlled means of direct communication with the rebels' capital city.

Lack of that means, which the wireless equipment of the Richmond will supply, may be somewhat embarrassing in negotiations with the de la Huerta leaders for the purpose of keeping Tampico open to commerce.

Mexico City Gives Free Hand.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—The Foreign Ministry has instructed its representatives abroad to notify foreign Governments that the military groups which revolted against the Mexican Government in Vera Cruz and Jalisco have both in the Pacific and in the Gulf of Mexico several ships belonging to the Mexican Navy. Steps are being taken to seize these ships, but, as they are at present not under control of the Mexican Government, Mexico, the notification will state, disclaims any responsibility for acts committed by the warships in violation of international laws. Certain quarters here interpret the foregoing statement as implying the Mexican Government's intention to leave foreign ships at liberty to attack or defend themselves against the rebel craft violating international laws, citing the Tampico blockade as an example of such violation.

REBELS HOLD UP AMMUNITION TRAIN

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 18 (via Galveston).—Rebels held up a passenger train at Aragon station early Thursday morning. The express car was robbed of 40,000 pesos.

After forcing passengers to leave the train the rebels placed signals for a clear track in order to attack a freight train carrying ammunition which was following the passenger train from Laredo. The engineer of the freight train, when attacked by the rebels, unable to see the passenger train, opened the throttle in an effort to escape, and the engine of the freight train ploughed half way through the Pullman coach attached to the passenger train.

The freight train carried a number of pieces of artillery, machine guns and ammunition shipped from the States. The rebels, after searching the freight train, dismantled the cannon and carried off machine guns and ammunition in large quantities. What they were unable to carry away was burned, together with two freight cars.

Americans traveling on the train state the rebels numbered nearly six hundred. The passengers were not molested.

Wrecking crews have cleared the track and trains are now running.

The War Department reports all quiet on both fronts. Reports from Penjamo say skirmishes between the rebels and Government forces are occurring almost daily, but no real fighting. A de Haviland plane, which was purchased from the United States, made its first trial flight from Irapuato to Aragon, where the rebels wrecked the train. Returning, it had a slight accident in landing. Colonel Ralph O'Neil, accompanied by the Chief of Staff of President Obregon, made the flight.

General Garcia in the War Department stated this afternoon that all was quiet at Tehuacan and Puebla. He estimated that General Guadalupe Sanchez had about 4,000 men at headquarters at Esperanza and that General Maygotte, together with the other rebel Generals, had about 1,500, with a few troops stationed in the city of Oaxaca.

Rebels Return to San Marcos.

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 18.—The important railway junction of San Marcos, east of Mexico City, has been captured by rebel forces, wireless advices received here today state.

Rebel forces under the direction of General Guadalupe Sanchez broke through the Federal lines and took the city, the reports state.

General Martinez at the time of the rebel attack had the bulk of his forces massed between Puebla and Tehuacan, apparently following rebel troops defeated several days ago by General Francisco Urbalejo.

The report states that the rebel attack was part of a general movement against Federals in order to relieve the pressure upon the front of General Enrique Estrada, rebel leader in Jalisco.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—The last three days have seen considerable fighting at different points within the quadrilateral formed by the railway lines extending from Puebla to Tehuacan, thence to Esperanza, to San Marcos, to Puebla.

The main Federal column under General Martinez is still holding Tehuacan, although cut off from Puebla. However, the road has been cleared of rebels by General Urbalejo who at present is at Tecamachalco, midway between Puebla and Tehuacan. General Urbalejo is endeavoring to repair the greatly damaged railway so as to reach Tehuacan and reinforce General Almazan, whose cavalry forces, ordered to advance upon Esperanza, have reached Miahuatlan.

Almazan has been fighting for two days in the vicinity of Miahuatlan, where the rebels succeeded in cutting him off from Tehuacan. Meanwhile the rebels approached San Marcos for the purpose of recapturing that important junction, but immediately withdrew toward Esperanza when warned of Almazan's presence in the region of Miahuatlan.

(Wireless despatches received at El Paso today said San Marcos had been captured by the rebels.)

War Minister Serrano is at Puebla directing the Federal operations, and has ordered the regional forces under General José Maria Sanchez at Tepeaca to protect Urbalejo's rear.

RIO GRANDE CITY, Texas, Jan. 18.—Jesus Martinez, member of a rebel band of ten men, was captured yesterday and immediately executed, according to officers of the Federal garrison at Mier, on the border near here. Martinez was caught after a skirmish at Ascacabano, sixty miles inland from Mier, it was stated. The other men escaped in the direction of the border.

TELL OF ASSASSINATION PLOT.

Couple Say They Were Sent to Kill President Obregon.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 18.—Maria Luna, a Mexican girl born in Texas, and Dr. Joaquin Becerra, both sentenced to death at Guadalajara for killing a rich jeweler, arrived in Mexico City last week and were arrested on Thursday afternoon.

When questioned by the police, they said that they had been released, with instructions to proceed to Irapuato and attempt to kill President Obregon. The police found hidden on the woman a number of letters to various rebel sympathizers in Mexico who are under close surveillance.

EUROPEAN AID FOR REBELS?

English and German Interests Said to Be Supplying War Material.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 18—Reports continue to be received here that German interests under Hugo Stinnes and English oil interests are backing the rebels.

A Government official who recently arrived from Tampico states that it is common knowledge that English ships had landed immense quantities of arms for the rebels and that German ships owned by Stinnes were enroute with artillery.

American oil men here say it is not the first time they have heard the story but they are unable to confirm it.

DE LA HUERTA AGENTS ARRESTED IN TEXAS

General Aguilar Also Taken Into Custody When About to Sail for Vera Cruz.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 18.—Ruben Vizcarra, representative of de la Huerta, and former President of the Mexican Chamber of Deputies, and Torebelo Villaseñor, former Governor of Guanajuato under Carranza, were taken into custody here today in raids by agents of the Department of Justice, and deputies from the United States Marshal's office. Vizcarra and Villaseñor waived preliminary examinations and were remanded to the county jail in default of $5,000 and $2,500 bonds respectively.

Both men were arraigned before United States Commissioner Ewards on a complaint charging them with confederating to enlist and set on foot a military expedition against the Mexican Government. The arrest of the revolutionary leaders in San Antonio grew out of the apprehension of three Mexicans at Eagle Pass on Wednesday.

Several hundred proclamations were seized at the Revolutionary headquarters.

Within the last few weeks, it was revealed, numerous military expeditions have been crossing the border from Del Rio to Brownsville. Numbers of the parties have crossed safely, but four or five have been broken up by agents of the Department of Justice. In every instance it was indicated that the expeditionary bodies originated in San Antonio.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18.—General Candido Aguilar, son-in-law of Venustiano Carranza, late President of Mexico and Secretary of State in Carranza's Cabinet, tonight was in the House of Detention here under charges of violating the neutrality laws. He declined to deposit $10,000 bond for his release and refused to permit others to make bond for him.

The General was arrested today aboard th steamer Nacarao shortly before the vessel was to sail for Vera Cruz, stronghold of Adolfo de la Huerta, revolutionary leader, at the request of Federal authorities in San Antonio.

Government officials here said tonight that in the absence of information from San Antonio they could give no details concerning the charges against the General.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Department of Justice officials here said today the arrest of Ruben Vizcarra and Torebelo Villaseñor in San Antonio was on charges of violating the United States neutrality laws. They had not been informed of the arrest in New Orleans of General Candido Aguilar.

William J. Burns, chief of the department's Bureau of Investigation, said no orders had gone forward for general raids on agents of the de la Huerta group, but that local officials had been on the alert since the beginning of the Mexican insurrection, with instructions to enforce the laws. Federal officials on the border have been especially watchful of persons coming from Mexico into the United States.

the destination of the cars, staff officers reported they believed the troops would be sent into Mexico via Juarez, opposite El Paso.

Almost simultaneously with a movement of the Indian troops through Sonora, 37 marines left Nogales, Ariz., through American territory on a mission to New Orleans, it was announced here.

The movement of the marines caused one official in Nogales to make the erroneous announcement that the Mayos were transported across the border during the night.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 18.—Permission to transport Mexican Federal troops across Texas was refused today by Acting Governor T. W. Davidson in a telegram to Secretary of State Hughes. Possibility of trouble with Mexican residents on the Texas border prompted the refusal, the Acting Governor said.

If the Federal Government shows that the demand for the passage of the troops is urgent and guarantees ample protection to Texas citizens, the request will be reconsidered and every effort will be made by officials of Texas to co-operate with the national authorities, according to Mr. Davidson.

Efforts to have Acting Governor Davidson rescind his action were made this afternoon by Colonel F. A. Chapa and former Adjt. Gen. James A. Harley of San Antonio, who came here as representatives of the Obregon Government. Mr. Davidson told Colonel Chapa and Mr. Harley that he would give their request careful consideration.

An overwhelming protest from residents along the border against the proposed troop movements has been received here, Mr. Davidson stated. The possibility that bridges and railroads might be dynamited was suggested by those opposed to the passage of the troops.

EL PASO, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—Advisability of detraining Mexican Federal troops at the New Mexico-Mexico border at a distance of approximately eight miles from the city of El Paso was being discussed in Juarez today following receipt of information that passage of troops through Texas had been disapproved by Acting Governor Davidson.

Neff Refuses to Give Answer Now.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 18. — Governor Pat N. Neff of Texas, who arrived here today to attend the unveiling of the head of Robert E. Lee tomorrow on the Stone Mountain memorial, tonight declined to comment on the action of the Lieutenant Governor of Texas in refusing passage through American territory of Mexican troops.

"It would not be proper for me to comment on the situation in Texas while I am not on Texas territory," he said. "I am kept informed as the situation develops and was advised immediately when the Obregon Government officially made the request."

The Governor added that he would not declare his policy until he reached Texas.

Governor Neff's Decision Awaited.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—At the White House it was stated today that the Acting Governor of Texas had replied to the request of the State Department that a force of Mexican troops be permitted to pass through the State by saying it was feared the passage might be accompanied by some danger. The White House spokesman stated that the wishes of the State Executive would, of course, be respected, and if the decision of the Acting Governor proved final the Government of Mexico would be informed that this Government found it inexpedient to grant the request to be permitted to move troops through Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

The White House spokesman added, however, that the reply of Acting Governor Davidson might have been prompted by an unwillingness to assume responsibility without conferring with Governor Neff, who is temporarily out of the State, and President Coolidge still apparently is hopeful that permission will be granted for the troops to pass through Texas after the return of Governor Neff.

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS NAME PREFERENCES

Advisory Convention Suggests Sprague for Senator and Jones for Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 18.—The Democratic State Advisory Convention met here today and recommended to Democratic primary voters the nomination of this slate:

For United States Senator—COLONEL A. A. SPRAGUE, Chicago.

For Governor—JUDGE NORMAN L. JONES, Carrollton.

For Lieutenant Governor—FERDINAND GARESCHE, Madison.

For Secretary of State—ANDREW OLSON, Moline.

For State Auditor—STATE SENATOR EDWARD J. HUGHES, Chicago.

For State Treasurer—JOHN C. MARTIN, Salem.

For Attorney General—THOMAS DONOVAN, Joliet.

For Representatives at Large—MRS. MARY HART, and ALBERT A. ALBERT, Paris.

The eight delegates at large to the National Convention were named as follows: Mayor William E. Dever, Chicago; George E. Brennan, Chicago; Robert M. Sweitzer, Chicago; Roy D. Keehne, Chicago; Mrs. Anna L. Smith, Chicago; Bruce Campbell, East St. Louis; Frank Quinn, Peoria; Henry S. Dixon, Dixon.

The convention was one of the most peaceful and harmonious Democratic meetings in Illinois history, and to a large extent was a ratification of the slate picked by George E. Brennan and his Chicago and down-State lieutenants.

WANT QUOTAS INCREASED.

Bankers Are Told More Foreign Labor Is Needed by Agriculture.

Quotas from all European countries should be materially increased, according to a report of the Committee on Immigration of the American Bankers' Association's Commerce and Marine Commission, made public yesterday.

"Those who intend to settle upon the land should be admitted regardless of whether any particular quota has been filled," the report said. "No more visas should be given by any American consular officer than a pro-rated monthly allowance as to which he should be advised by the Department of Labor and which should check the evil of wholesale deportations. A Government commission should be appointed, or co-ordinate bureaus of the Department of the Interior and Agriculture should be deputed, if not with the responsibility of soliciting agricultural immigration, at least with the purpose of directing the immigrant and his family to the land and putting at his disposal the appropriate governmental agricultural services to that end."

Discussing the economic features of immigration, the report said: "The native-born American, educated to seek a higher standard of living, naturally gravitates to the 'white-collar' professions, leaving the country dependent upon foreign labor to wield the pick and shovel."

WILLYS OVERLAND ELECTS.

J. P. Cotton of New York and H. C. Tillotson of Toledo Made Directors.

Two new directors have been elected to the board of the Willys Overland Company. They are Joseph P. Cotton of this city, attorney for the first preferred stockholders of the Willys Corperation, and Harry C. Tillotson of the Tillotson Carburetor Company of Toledo.

No dividend action has been taken on the preferred stock, but, according to advices received from Toledo, it is expected within the next few months, in order to clear up at least a part of the back dividends. The annual report for 1923, expected shortly, will show a profit and loss surplus of nearly $30,000,000 due to marking down the common stock from $25 to $5 a share. The company announced that 18,000 cars were disposed of this month, a 50 per cent. increase over the same month last year. The company entered 1924 without any bank loans.

BETTER WEEK IN DRY GOODS

But Orders Fall Below Those of Year Ago—Customers Are Fewer.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods, although not quite equal in volume to the corresponding period a year ago, showed a considerable increase over last week.

"Orders from salesmen on the road were slightly less than last year during the same period, but were greatly in excess of the total for the preceding week.

"There were fewer customers in the market than for the same period in 1923.

"Collections were somewhat better than during the corresponding period last year."

WOULD QUESTION DE VALERA

Finerty Asks Free State to Produce Him Before Consul.

DUBLIN, Jan. 18.—John F. Finerty, National President of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, who is acting as counsel for Eamon de Valera, has asked the Free State Government to produce de Valera and Austin Stack before the American Consul tomorrow morning, so that their testimony may be taken in the suit involving funds collected in the United States for the Irish cause.

Mr. Finerty came to Ireland after Justice Robert F. Wagner of the Supreme Court of New York, signed an order permitting testimony of de Valera and other Irish republican leaders to be taken by a United States Consul or Vice Consul.

WOMAN IS CRUSHED UNDER ARMORED CAR

Despite Injuries They Remain in Overturned Car Until Police Reserves Arrive.

When a motor truck upset an armored car containing $15,000 in cash and two guards at Broome Street and South Orange Avenue, Newark, yesterday, Mrs. Angelina Cattamo, 38 years old, of 350 South Ninth Street, was caught under the vehicle and killed. She was waiting for a street car when the armored car, operated by Walter Bliek of 230 Cross Street, Harrison, and owned by the Mayhew Dispatch Company of 2 Rector Street, Manhattan, was struck by a truck operated by Charles L. Collins, a negro, of 62 Wright Street, Newark.

Belik was thrown to the street. Michael Burns and James Cummings, the guards, despite scalp wounds and bruises, remained in the overturned vehicle with their rifles trained on the approach from the driver's seat. They did not come out until the appearance of detectives and reserves from Police Headquarters.

After the injuries of the guards were attended, the money was transferred to a police patrol wagon and delivered to nearby industrial plants. Collins, the chauffeur of the truck, later was paroled on a manslaughter charge, pending an investigation of the accident.

Joseph Devlin, 20 years old, of 19 Eighty-eighth Street, Woodhaven, was killed by an automobile yesterday at Jamaica and Manor Avenues, Woodhaven. Ambrose Sane, driver of the automobile, of 103-61 104th Street, Richmond Hills, told the police that Devlin and several other young men were skylarking on the sidewalk when Devlin stepped into the road in the path of his car. He was held blameless for the accident by the police.

William A. Osborn, 66 years old, a retired Captain of the United States Coast Guard, who lived at 608 Ninth Avenue, Belmar, N. J., was fatally hurt when he drove his automobile in front of a freight train at a Pennsylvania railroad grade crossing near his home. He died soon after his removal to the Ann May Hospital at Spring Lake. Nicholas Purcillo, flagman at the crossing, who, according to detectives, was not at his post when the accident happened, was arrested on a technical manslaughter charge by direction of County Prosecutor Sexton.

Raleigh Weintrob, head of the Paterson Coal Company, and an aviator with the A. E. F., died yesterday in the Paterson General Hospital of injuries received the night before when the automobile in which he and another man were riding near his home was struck by a train on the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad. He was 38 years old, and lived at 86 Fair Street. He formerly was the principal of two public schools in Paterson.

Pierre Kaver, 8 years old, of Elmont, L. I., was injured fatally when he was struck by a motor truck on the Hempstead-Jamaica Turnpike near his home. Frederick Kraph, the chauffeur, of Rosedale, L. I., took the boy to the Nassau County Hospital at Mineola, where he died.

Charles Smith, 18 years old, of Washington Avenue, Seaford, L. I., was fatally hurt when he drove his motor truck in front of a Long Island Railroad express at Copaigue, L. I. He died half an hour after the accident in the private hospital of Dr. Theodore D. Reed in Amityville.

Mrs. Mary Rahill, 30 years old, of 523 West Forty-sixth Street, was probably fatally injured yesterday while crossing Tenth Avenue at Fifty-sixth Street by a taxicab traveling, according to witnesses, as from thirty-five to forty miles an hour. The chauffeur looked back after striking the woman, but put on more speed and disappeared. She was taken unconscious in another taxicab to Roosevelt Hospital, where it was said she had received internal injuries and a fracture of the skull.

Arthur Hackett, five years old, of 36 South Fourth Street, Ridgefield Park, N. J., was taken in a critical condition to the Englewood Hospital after he was struck by an automobile near his home. The car was operated by Edward H. Terhune of 8 Mount Vernon Street, Ridgefield Park. Terhune reported the accident to the police and was released in $1,500 bail.

STEAL $18,500 IN DRESSES.

Burglars Raid Four Costume Houses —Janitor Arrested.

Burglars entered the workroom of four dress goods firms at 133 West Twenty-first Street early yesterday morning and broke a hole through a six-inch wall to another establishment at 141. Entrance to the building was gained by forcing a window on the second floor occupied by Jacob Heim. After taking dresses valued at $5,000, they went to the rear of the fifth floor, got into the workrooms of Wein & Forstot and took dresses worth $5,000.

The Kingston Dress Company, which occupies the front part of the fifth floor, is separated from the back part by a wooden partition eight feet high with wire netting to the ceiling. The wire was cut by the burglars and garments valued at $1,500 taken. A large hole was drilled through a wall to the Bromberg Costume Company, where the robbers gathered $7,000 worth of merchandise.

Issue World's Smallest Newspaper.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The smallest newspaper in the world has made its appearance here. It is published by the National Institute for the Blind as a weekly and is printed in Dr. Moon's embossed type. It is called "The Moon," and is made up of six large pages measuring eleven inches by fourteen, containing only 760 words.

PROPOSES 'JOLLY SHIP' TO SLAKE CITY'S THIRST

Promoter Offers Stock in Floating Cabaret Enterprise Just Outside Three-Mile Line.

A rather expensive looking little booklet, with an illustrated cover of a nymph sitting in a pale green cocktail glass and puffing a cigarette with gold smoke, came to the office of The Times through the mails last night. It announced the organization of the Jolly Ship Company, Inc., the main purpose of which appears to be to assuage the thirst of New York in a perfectly legal manner.

The Jolly Ship, according to a letter signed by Francis Sproule, "fiscal agent," is to be a sort of floating cafe and cabaret, which will lie outside the three mile limit or the twelve mile limit, as the case may be, and dispense wines, whiskies, mixed drinks, music, dancing, French cuisine, etc., to customers from ashore. It is to float off New York City during the summer, and off Palm Beach and Miami in the winter.

According to the announcement, the Jolly Ship will be 285 feet long, with a bar at each end of the lower deck. There will be "a famous French chef, thirty pretty French maids for wine service, a full quota of colored waiters and music by one of New York's famous jazz bands," to quote Mr. Sproule. The company will run its own passenger boat between New York and the Jolly Ship every four hours, day and night, he says, and keep undesirable drinkers away. "Peace and joy shall reign."

Mr. Sproule explains that he is willing to let "a limited number" of shares go to the public—at par, $100 a share—but the stock must be taken in sixty days. The company is announced as incorporated "under the laws and flag of Cuba," and it is asserted that half of the first year's profits will be used to build "a mammoth floating palace of 50,000 tons—costing $5,000,000."

Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Jones in Washington said last night that several similar projects had been heard of, but never put into effect. Mr. Jones said that there was no law to prevent such a floating café, providing it did not transport illegal beverages ashore or violate any treaty with Cuba.

BRINGS IN 20 FROM WRECK.

Wife of Skipper Among Those Rescued by the Henry R. Mallory.

Th steamship Henry R. Mallory arrived yesterday from Galveston with sixty-two passengers, and the nineteen men and one woman who were rescued from the Danish freighter Normannia at midnight on Wednesday off Frying Pan Shoals during a gale. The woman was Anna Blom, wife of Christian Blom, master of the freighter, who stuck by his ship with six members of the crew until yesterday afternoon, when the freighter went down and he was taken off with his men by the tanker Charles Harwood.

Captain H. W. Barstow of the Henry R. Mallory said he was ten miles northeast of the Normannia's position when he got her S O S at 7:30 on Wednesday night and replied that he would be alongside in less than an hour. Arriving at the position Captain Barstow said he could see nothing of the distressed freighter and was circling around when the lookout man sighted a light being flashed on the starboard bow. The operator on the Mallory asked the Normannia to send up two rockets, which was done. Captain Barstow said he had his searchlight rigged to play on the stern of the freighter so that he could manoeuvre as close as safety for his own ship would permit, which was about a quarter of a mile.

About 8:30 a yawl put off from the disabled ship with Iwulhman Hansen, the second mate, and three seamen, who pulled alongside the Henry R. Mallory and said thir ship was bound from Jamaica for Charleston with mahogany and that the hold and engine room were full of water. Hansen asked for a tow, but Captain Barstow told him he would take off the crew. The men were taken aboard and radio messages exchanged. Captain Barstow thn sent his third officer, W. P. Dukin, in charge of a lifeboat to bring off the remainder of the crew from the sinking freighter, which was accomplished after nearly four hours' hard work.

Mrs. Blom tried to remain on the Normannia with her husband, she said, but he insisted that she leave, and said that if she did not go he would drop her over the side into the boat.

Th Normannia developed a leak on Wednesday through the strain on some of the plates. By 3 o'clock in the afternoon there was six feet of water in the hold, and the fires in the boiler room were out. Then the Captain sent out his first S O S.

Mrs. Blom saved her two dogs and managed to find time to get some tobacco and cigarettes for the men and some clothing for herself befor she left th Normannia. She had a radio message from her husband early yesterday stating that he was safe with his six men on the tanker Charles Harwood.

FORMER JUDGE EXECUTED.

Faces Firing Squad in Salt Lake for Wife Murder.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 18.—Omer R. Woods, former Probate Judge, convicted wife murderer, was executed by a firing squad at the Utah State prison here at 8:17 o'clock this morning. He met death calmly and protested his innocence to the end.

The killing of Mrs. Woods occurred in an apartment house here Jan. 9, 1922.

"Fear is nothing to me," Wood said, last night. "I am at peace with the world and will walk to my death with a firm step. I have only to regret that I must meet death in this manner, but I have nothing to fear. My wife knows I am innocent and when I meet her in the hereafter, if there is one, she will greet me with open arms."

A brother of Woods from Washington, D. C., was at the prison and claimed the body, which will be sent to Tennessee for burial.

'ENEMY' SHATTERS FLEET AT PANAMA

which the manoeuvres were held to answer was decisively settled.

The Pacific fleet was smashed to bits while lying helpless in Cristobal harbor with some ships still going through the canal, and long before they could take to sea to deploy. Fort Randolph, eliminated by the marines' daring landing yesterday, was silent during the engagement. Fort Sherman offered the utmost resistance, but the defenders' combined land and sea gun power was hopelessly weak. Bombers, scouts and pursuit planes took to the air in great groups to support the defenders but they were unable to render sufficient assistance to neutralize the tactical advantage of the foes. The manoeuvres, however, did not prove the air force inadequate as anticipated.

"Enemy" Withdraws Victorious.

At noon, Admiral McCully, satisfied that the foe was impotent, withdrew at full speed toward his base. Admiral Robinson then marshaled his full force in battle array, and without waiting for the coming of the remainder through the Canal, sailed to sea, but the umpires recalled him and the fight was over.

Aside from the main engagement, two sensational exploits of the last few days' combat were revealed today.

The "enemy," just after contact was established and under cover of a smoke-screen, sent ashore a small force on Chiriqui Lagoon. Disguised, these men proceeded overland and reached vital parts of the canal, including the Gatun locks, and hurled theoretical explosives calculated to make the interocean waterway impassable.

Late last night the transport Henderson of the "enemy" train slipped into the canal behind a commercial ship running the gauntlet of ship and shore fire and the commander gallantly "sank" the vessel. The umpires held that the entrance was partly blocked.

Before dusk tonight Admiral Robinson's fleet, all in good order—the hypothetical damage being invisible—with the Stars and Stripes snapping in the breeze, with sturdy battle gray sides unchanged, and with big guns looking angry and menacing, steamed back into Cristobal harbor, where, framed by the palm trees fringing the sea wall, it made a martial picture, inspiring every American who viewed it. Tomorrow the friendly "enemy" is expected to make port, all his "casualties" wiped out by the decision of the war lords of the umpires' office. In the ensuing couple of days conferences will be held over the lessons taught by the mimic encounter and then the fleet will take aboard fuel and supplies and bid the army adieu and sail for its own separate manoeuvres.

CALLS ON FOSDICK TO QUIT THE CHURCH

Dr. MacLennan Says He Is a Usurper and Not Wanted in the Presbyterian Fold.

ASSAILS ALL MODERNISTS

Pastor of Bethany Makes Plea at Mass Meeting for Loyalty to Historic Faith.

The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Baptist, and special preacher in the First Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Eleventh Street, was called on last night to "leave the Presbyterian fold" by the Rev. Dr. A. Gordon MacLennan, pastor of Bethany Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, known as "John Wanamaker's Church."

The occasion was a mass meeting "in the interest of historic Presbyterianism," held in the Harlem-New York Presbyterian Church, Mount Morris Park West and 122d Street. It was the second gathering held recently under auspices of the Fundamentalist group of the Presbytery of New York. The Rev. Dr. Frederick W. Evans, pastor of the church, presided. Other Fundamentalist preachers sat on the platform.

Dr. MacLennan was the author of the report which called for an investigation into the preaching of Dr. Fosdick. The investigation was held recently and action on it will be taken on Feb. 4.

Dr. MacLennan said: "Dr. Fosdick is a foreigner within our gates, without standing or credentials that have been considered; one who is considered a usurper and whom the Supreme Court of our Church has told very plainly he was not welcome.

"I have heard of men who tried to hide behind their wives's skirts, but I never before knew of a man—a Christian minister—who tried to hide behind his friends. I am a Canadian, but I have first papers, and am due for the final. If the Supreme Court should mention me by name and say that I was an unwelcome resident, I would most certainly go back. Such is Dr. Fosdick's position in relation to the Supreme Court of our Church. The conclusion I need not draw.

"What Dr. Fosdick should do in all decency and respect to his calling is to leave the Presbyterian fold—no matter what his friends might say.

"I will not comment on the action of the Committee of the New York Presbytery in this matter until the Presbytery has taken action on the report. The report itself is only what was expected, and so contained no surprise. What would you expect the German Cabinet to report on the character of the German Kaiser in 1916? That is the answer to the Fosdick report."

Dr. MacLennan said that Dr. Fosdick should be forever grateful to Nolan R. Best, editor of The Continent, a national Presbyterian weekly, for the manner in which, when a member of the committee in Indianapolis, Mr. Best defended him.

"Very early in the meetings," he said, "it was apparent that the debate on this question would narrow down to one between the editor on one side and myself on the other. And may I add in passing that it would be ingratitude should the distinguished preacher of the Fleet Church ever forget the valiant fight made in his defense?"

Dr. MacLennan characterized as "disloyal" all the 150 Presbyterian ministers who recently signed the "Affirmation Against the Five Points of Doctrine."

"I cry shame, thrice shame, on the Presbyterians of the twentieth century," he said. "We owe it to the present generation to keep from being dragged into the slime of Modernism, and we should hand on our historic faith loyally to the next generation."

HONORS FOR "SMOKY JOE."

Friends Celebrate His Forty Years With the Fire Department.

More than five hundred neighbors and friends of "Smoky Joe" Martin, Assistant Chief of the Fire Department, crowded every room of his home at 346 East Fifteenth Street last night to celebrate with him the fortieth anniversary of his joining the New York Fire Department.

Preceded by members of the Fire Department's Glee Club and a quartet of male voices he was escorted into the parlor of his home where for over an hour members and former members of the fire fighting force recited the many occasions when he had conquered dangerous and stubborn blazes. A supper followed the speech making and then came dancing.

three or four other girls who are friends of the expelled student."

The girl is said to have confessed that she, three men students and two Albion girls, not students, had indulged in liquor and cigarettes while on an automobile trip to the home of one of the boys in Coldwater. Students maintain that the girl was expelled because she had filed a statement with Bishop Henderson last Summer in which she charged Dr. Laird with "putting his arms around her and kissing her."

Dr. Laird admits the girl filed the statement, but declares it was because she had "lied" in making her confession about the liquor and cigarettes on the automobile ride that she was expelled. He said Bishop Henderson had investigated the girl's charge and exonerated him. According to one member of the Board of Trustees, the girl will be reinstated in school and allowed to graduate with her class in June.

Statements were issued by Dr. Laird and Dr. Dickie soon after the chapel meeting closed. After declaring that he welcomed a fair and thorough investigation of his administration, Dr. Laird said:

"I stand ready to face any inquiry and deny positively any allegations derogatory to my character. Moreover, I welcome an opportunity to make some facts known. Regarding the rumors that I have submitted my resignation, or that I intend to do so, I have not submitted a resignation to any one, or told any one I would resign."

To this Dr. Dickie replied:

"In an interview in Detroit last Fall, at which Bishop Henderson, Dr. Laird and myself were present, Dr. Laird gave us his word of honor that he would leave Albion so as not to be present when the students returned Jan. 2, and that he would offer his resignation to take effect Jan. 15."

Dr. Laird, who formerly filled Methodist pastorates in Brooklyn, N. Y., and Baltimore, Md., calmly faced the rioting students in the chapel for ten minutes, but there was no cessation of the disorder. He remained silent and finally turned his back on the catcalling students, stepped from the platform and left the room.

Dean Williams immediately advanced to take charge of the chapel exercises and this was the signal for a wild demonstration for him. He was cheered for five minutes and then was permitted to speak. Throughout the service he made no reference to the demonstration.

At the close of the exercises another demonstration was started, and in the midst of this Wilbur B. Diehl of Albion, the students' leader, was lifted to the platform to read the charges which had been prepared.

TEST OF RENT LAW WON BY LANDLORDS

Justice Wasservogel Rules That Rosenman Law Does Not Protect Tenants.

Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel decided yesterday that the Rosenman act, passed by the last Legislature to extend the protection of the rent laws of 1920, does not apply to persons who took their apartments after June 1 last, when the law went into effect. The ruling affects hundreds of rent cases pending in the courts. Assemblyman Rosenman, father of the 1923 law, took exception to the decision, and said that he would introduce another bill which would leave no doubt as to the intention of the Legislature, rather than to rely on a reversal of Justice Wasservogel's decision.

The suit was brought by Hugo Oppenheimer and Anna Kossman, owner of the property at 149 East Eighty-fourth Street, against Frances Sullivan, tenant in a top floor apartmeent. She paid the July and August rent but refused to pay for the subsequent period to Dec. 1 last, on the ground that the rent of $55 a month was "unjust and unreasonable." The owners sued her and asked for judgment, which was granted by Justice Wasservogel for the reasons stated in his opinion.

Justice Wasservogel stated that the courts have ruled that tenants not in possession of their apartments when the 1920 emergency rent law was passed were not entitled to the protection afforded by the law, and that a later decision held that a law of 1922 extending the 1920 law to Feb. 15, 1924, did not change the previous rule.

Assemblyman Rosenman said yesterday that the decision of Justice Wasservogel "to my mind clearly violates the intention of the Legislature, of myself as introducer of the bill and of Governor Smith who signed it." He said that the statute provided that the rent laws were thereby extended so that "they shall be deemed to include and to apply with full force and effect to all tenancies, agreements and leases entered into or enacted subsequent to the 27th day of September, 1920." The Assemblyman said further:

"I shall introduce legislation immediately in the Legislature to repeal this decision by Justice Wasservogel so as to cover all subsequent tenancies and also to cover all tenancies which will arise in the future between now and the date to which the rent laws will be extended The interpretation of the Rosenman act made by Justice Wasservogel is, in my opinion, erroneous."

The Assemblyman said he believed he could induce the Legislature "to pass a proper remedy within a very few days."

Tenement House Commissioner Mann, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Housing, announced that the committee was making a survey of the city to establish the exact condition of the housing congestion.

The session of the committee yesterday was executive and was attended by Commissioner of Public Welfare Coler, while the Commissioner of Health was represented by one of his deputies. Commissioner Mann and his colleagues spent the session in studying a comparative table running from 1909 down to this year showing the number of vacant and occupied apartments in the city, both new and old law buildings.

Only .49 per cent. of the total of 574,613 old law apartments in the greater city were found vacant this month, and 1.17 per cent of 465,837 new law apartments were idle.

CREASY IN HIS DEFENSE.

Gives His Account of How Edith Lavoy Met Her Death.

MINEOLA, L. I., Jan. 18.—William M. Creasy took the witness stand in his own defense today at resumption of his retrial on a charge of murdering Edith Lavoy, a Freeport school teacher, in a boarding house at Freeport on June 23, 1922. The State rested its case late in the afternoon.

Answering questions of his counsel, Henry A. Uterhart, Creasy said he became acquainted with Miss Lavoy through the Standard Correspondence Club of Gray's Lake, Ill., and that he first saw her on Oct. 20, 1920. He identified twenty-nine letters written to him by Miss Lavoy between Nov. 1, 1920 and Dec. 31 of the same year. Justice Callaghan permitted him to tell of a letter Miss Lavoy wrote to him early in 1922 in response to a letter from him in which he told her his "love was changing," and that it was time for them to "cease corresponding." Creasy said in this letter that Miss Lavoy could have back the 170 letters she had written to him. At Creasy's first trial County Judge Smith refused to permit Creasy to testify regarding Miss Lavoy's reply to this letter. District Attorney Weeks objected, but Justice Callaghan told Creasy, who was still on the witness stand, to tell the jury what Miss Lavoy had written.

"She answered that letter and told me she didn't want her letters back—that I could keep them. She said she was very sorry and couldn't understand why I wanted to quit corresponding. I wrote to her again and told her I was not doing very well. I said my love was changing and that the time had come for me to tell her so. I told her, for the first time, that I had been married and divorced and said that I was not financially fixed so we could get married in July as we had planned. I thought she could forget me quicker if I told her these things."

Creasy then asked and received permission from Justice Callaghan to demonstrate just what had occurred on the night Miss Lavoy died. He walked down from the witness chair to the couch in the courtroom and explained that Miss Lavoy had gotten him a drink of water from the bathroom and a cigarette from his coat pocket. He sat for some time in the centre of the couch, smoking and she sat at one end. Her back was to the wall and she was facing him, he said. Shortly afterward he lay back and slept, for perhaps twenty minutes. He was suddenly awakened by the sharp sound of a pistol shot.

"I saw Edith there with blood streaming across her forehead. I ran out to get help. I never moved her body in any way."

Creasy said he and Miss Lavoy frequently practiced shooting with an automatic pistol in the woods, both at Tupper's Lake, N. Y., where Miss Lavoy lived, and at Freeport. After Creasy had been cross-examined by District Attorney Weeks the trial was adjourned until Monday.

URGE GIRLS' TRADE SCHOOLS

Women Educators Propose Program for New York.

An educational plan for the development of the practical arts for girls in the public schools was approved last night at a meeting of the New York City Branch of the National Council of Administrative Women in Education at the Women's University Club, 106 East Fifty-second Street. The recommendation urges that the Board of Superintendents provide at least two practical arts senior high schools, one for the Bronx and one for Brooklyn, with courses similar to those now given in Washington Irving High School; at least two additional trade schools, one for the Bronx and one for Brooklyn, similar to the Manhattan Trade School for Girls; trade schools for girls who perhaps would never graduate from an elementary school; vocational classes for girls and a practical arts junior high school.

Virginia Gildersleave, Dean of Barnard College, discussed her observations of women in higher education during her recent visit to foreign universities. She found fewer women in universities in Europe than in America.

"Two reasons may be assigned," she said, "for the smaller number abroad; the war and the financial conditions of most of the European nations, and the evident fact that women generally in Europe do not seek higher education as they do here. At the same time I found the standards of scholarship of women in foreign universities higher than here, and they take their work much more seriously."

HECKSCHER OPPOSES S. P. C. C. INSPECTION

James W. Gerard, as His Counsel, Argues Against the Society's Application.

DENIES WASTE IS CHARGED

Society's Attorney Says It Wants Opportunity to Show That It Is Worthy of Confidence.

When the application by John G. Agar, Vice President of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, for an inspection and visitation of the society by the Supreme Court because of charges made in the past year by August Heckscher, came before Justice Guy yesterday, the signing of the order was urged by Outerbridge Horsey, associated with Cornelius J. Sullivan, counsel for the society, and by De Lancey Nicoll, a Vice President.

James W. Gerard appeared for Mr. Heckscher and asserted that the requirements of the membership corporation law, under which the application is made, have not been complied with. He pointed out that such inspection and visitation shall be ordered only upon the allegation of a member of the society that "directors, officers or agents had misappropriated any funds or property of the corporation or diverted them from the purposes of its incorporation. * * *"

He added:

"No charge is made in these papers by Mr. Agar, who brings this proceeding, that the funds of this society have been misappropriated or wasted. He bases it on a statement made by Mr. Heckscher in certain letters, I believe, to the members of the Child Welfare Commission appointed by the Governor of this State, so that, technically, there is absolutely no foundation for this application."

"Do you give as narrow a construction as that to this statute?" asked Justice Guy. "Doesn't it really mean that whenever the affairs of the society are so conducted that there is even the possibility of misconduct, that any party interested may have an investigation? It does not mean the formal charges, amounting to being charged with a crime. It is in order to safeguard and protect these societies whenever there is any reason in the mind of the Court for investigating, in order to find out whether there has been improper conduct, that the Court has that power I think."

Not Now in the Statute.

"Your Honor would have to read, of course, something into this statute which has not been placed here by the Legislature," replied Mr. Gerard.

Justice Guy said he was "rather inclined" to read such a meaning into the statute. Mr. Gerard then proceeded to the merits of the case, explained the differences between Mr. Heckscher and the officers of the society, and added:

"Mr. Heckscher has not the slightest intention—and has authorised me to state here openly in court—or the slightest idea of saying that the funds of this society have been wasted or misappropriated, and I challenge the other side to say that in these letters which Mr. Heckscher has written any such charge is contained. If the charge is contained he has made it against himself as well as against the others."

Justice Guy remarked that in effect "there is a charge of waste," to which Mr. Gerard replied:

"Not even a charge of waste."

Cornelius J. Sullivan, for the society, said:

"The society, every one, from the President down, has the most kindly and generous feeling toward Mr. Heckscher, but we do think it comes with rather bad grace from him to come here and oppose the only opportunity that is open to the society to show that we are not wasteful, we are not extravagant, and that we are worthy of the confidence that is reposed in us by our benefactors."

Justice Guy announced that he would receive further papers in the case from the attorneys on Tuesday, and reserved his decision.

TUT-ANKH-AMEN TOMB RAISES DOUBT ON RANK

Evidence Is Found to Show Pharaohs From Amen-hotep III. to Hor-em-heb Were Co-Regents.

LUXOR, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—Was Tut-ankh-Amen ever a full fledged King? This question daily becomes more acute as the examination of his sepulchre proceeds. From the first the archaeologists have been puzzled by the shabbiness, both in dimension and decoration, of the tomb of this Pharaoh, who, nevertheless, was laid to rest in such state.

Nor has it escaped their notice that in this respect the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen resembles that of Khu-n-aten, his predecessor, and of Ai, his successor, whereas the burial places of Amen-hotep III., Khu-n-aten's predecessor, and of Hor-em-heb, Ai's successor, are of full royal type, with spacious chambers, splendidly decorated.

Hor-em-heb, a General, was Tut-ankh-Amen's Commander-in-Chief, and is said to have reigned for fifty-nine years; but this can only be substantiated by reckoning in with his reign those of several of his predecessors. The freedom with which the General usurped the fame of Tut-ankh-Amen by obliterating his cartouche in many places, both in the Luxor temples and elsewhere, certainly suggests that he was unwilling to allow Tut-ankh-Amen full credit for his rank.

On the strength of the mural paintings in Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb, as well as information derived from the inscriptions on the funerary furniture but not yet published, Mr. Carter advances the theory that Tut-ankh-Amen and Ai were probably coregents and that between Amen-hotep III. and Hor-em-heb the Egyptologists are probably dealing with a series of regencies rather than successive and separate reigns.

The decorations and inscriptions in the tomb of Ai, hewn out of rock in the lonely and romantic western valley of Biban-el-Moulk, show at least close connection between Tut-ankh-Amen and Ai, besides furnishing various links with Khu-n-Aten, the heroic King, whose daughter Tut-ankh-Amen is known to have married.

The mural paintings in the large central hall are done in yellow wash as in Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb. Like the paintings in the latter's sepulchral chamber, they are quite free from the conventional Egyptian art after the manner of the Tel-el-Amarna school, while there is the same frieze of crouching apes.

In Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb Ai is depicted worshiping Tut-ankh-Amen in the guise of Osiris, but in Ai's tomb the god of the dead, in white robes with high feathered headdress, has a face closely resembling the portraits of Khu-n-aten, suggesting the close connection between these three rulers.

It is noteworthy that, save in one or two instances, Ai's cartouche has been effaced and his features obliterated, probably by the hand of Hor-em-heb, who seems to have vowed oblivion to the whole Khu-n-aten - Tut-ankh-Amen-Ai connection. If Tut-ankh-Amen was not of full royal rank the question arises whether, as is ardently hoped, the complete royal regalia of an Egyptian Pharaoh will be found in his sarcophagus.

LABORITE DECLARES HIS PARTY IS SANE

J. H. Thomas, Continuing Commons Debate, Resents Aspersions on Party's Patriotism.

DEFENDS WORLD MOVEMENT

And Says Internationalists Strive Against War—Some Tories Plan a Manoeuvre.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Speeches by J. H. Thomas, from the Labor benches; by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, for the Government, and their maiden speeches by the Duchess of Atholl and William Henderson, son of Arthur Henderson, Secretary of the Labor Party, marked today's debate in the House of Commons on the vote of lack of confidence in the Ministry.

The discussion has been continued against the wish of the Government, on the ground that many Liberal members wished to explain their reasons for voting to put in a Socialist Administration, but so far most of the time has been taken up by the recognized leaders of all three parties, who have been going over and over well-trodden ground.

J. H. Thomas had a fling at Winston Churchill on account of the latter's letter calling on Liberals not to support Labor. He called him "one of the best authorities in the country on parties, inasmuch as he had sampled all of them," and said that if he was attacking the Labor Party now, he had recently described the present Government as brainless, spineless and dangerous.

Then, in a general defense of his own party, Thomas said he had no intention of apologizing for its association with internationalists. Immediately after the war, he explained, a conference was held of representatives from all countries which had fought in the war. One after another the delegates arose and told what the country of each had lost in the war. Then the Chairman asked, "Will some one tell us who won the war?"

The conference resolved to form an organization that would bring people together, so they might understand each other, for the more they understood each other, the more difficult it would be for rulers and statesmen to plunge them into war. That was why the Labor Party would not apologize for its connection with internationalists.

Clashes With Lady Astor.

Mr. Thomas discussed generally the Anglo-French relations, and amused the House greatly by a humorous account of the events which led up to the general election. Then, in scoffing at the fears expressed concerning the doings of a Labor Government, he had a little passage with Lady Astor with whom, otherwise, he is on the most friendly terms.

Mr. Thomas was holding up to scorn a declaration by the Duke of Northumberland that the first obligation of a Labor Ministry would be to corrupt the army, navy and police force.

"Shame," cried Lady Astor across the House.

"Yes," said Mr. Thomas, "but the shame and responsibility must be on those who deliberately and knowingly lie. It is no good crying shame and then sneering."

"I was not sneering," replied Lady Astor indignantly.

"Please don't interrupt," retorted Mr. Thomas. "There are people behind you less intelligent. [Laughter].

"Our first job is to corrupt the army, navy and police; then to corrupt the civil service and give all our friends jobs; then to abolish marriage ties and introduce free love. [Laughter.]

"And then, in the end, my honorable friend, Mr. Macdonald, is to be a second Kerensky. Baskets are ready for his Grace the Duke's head, and there are a number of our friends waiting to hold them up.

"But that rubbish, that humbug, deceives no one."

Then, speaking seriously, Mr. Thomas said:

"Never mind our political opinions; never mind our anxieties to fight for the party. There is in all parties, as there are, fortunately, in this country, not in one class alone, but in all classes and all creeds, decent men and women who, regardless of party, are distressed at the social position of our people—men and women who are not only distressed but genuinely anxious to find a remedy.

"We are only denied one thing, and that is our misfortune. The only thing that most of us lack is the opportunity of culture and education that some of you enjoy. I do not feel bitter toward you, for it is only my regret, and I am remedying it so far as my own family is concerned.

"We do not apologize for that side of the picture, but we do put to the House, with all earnestness and sincerity, is there any single politician, is there any party that graduates through a harder, more strenuous and more difficult school than those who sit on these benches? You all know it, and you know it is true. We may make mistakes, and shall make mistakes, as all parties do; but I have not only faith in my party, I have not only faith in those whom I represent, but I believe that if it comes about, as I believe it will, that it will be our privilege to stand at that box instead of this, the experiences and responsibility will be good for us all.

"I believe that in spite of differences we shall work with a single-minded desire to make this country worthy of the citizens who showed their patriotism during its most troubled times." [Cheers.]

Neville Chamberlain Replies.

In replying for the Government, Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, took up Mr. Thomas's defence of the Labor Party affiliation with Internationalists. He said the Labor Party was in a minority on the International, and was yet bound to accept its decisions. He urged that all parties, and not only Labor, was against war, but he warned Mr. Thomas that there might come a point when every nation must choose whether it would insist on its views being carried out by others, or whether it would take the only alternative.

Mr. Chamberlain could not resist the temptation to ask Mr. Asquith to remember that while he was "roaring inside the House yesterday another Liberal lion was roaring outside," and he reiterated Mr. Churchill's views that the Liberals were prepared to vote in direct contradiction to their election addresses.

Of the Labor Party he said that, judging by speeches from the Labor benches, the red flag of Socialism in the future was to be a very pale pink.

Then he struck a more serious note as he implored the Labor party not to discard all the results of the Imperial Conference merely on account of pecantic theories. He criticized the speech of J. R. Clynes on this subject on the ground that he was obsessed by mere population statistics, without considering the purchasing power of the peoples mentioned. He quoted figures to show that the Dominions in 1922 actually bought more British manufactured goods than did the whole of Europe, and he analyzed Ramsay Macdonald's contention that it was wrong to tax food on principle.

Why should it be more undesirable, he asked, to tax apples than boots, hats or clothes? That did not seem to him a principle which rested on either logic or common sense. Perhaps Mr. Thomas would inform him whether his Government would abolish all food taxes?

"We will announce our policy when we get on the Treasury bench," replied Mr. Thomas with dignity, while Labor cheered and the Conservatives laughed.

Mr. Chamberlain then reminded the House that Mr. Clynes had admitted that the imperial trade question should, as far as possible, be lifted above party consideration. Appealing to the Labor members, he said:

"I ask them to remember that these proposals are in the nature of a moral gesture, and that the direction in which that gesture is made may affect very seriously the future attitude of the dominions toward us. When a man has grown wealthy and influential, the friends whom he remembers most affectionately are those who were kind to him at the beginning of his career. The dominions are, indeed, at the beginning of their career. In twenty, thirty or fifty years some of them may be equal to or even greater than ourselves in population and in wealth. The turn that is given to their thoughts and their policy today will persist all through those years, and when, a generation or two hence, they are among the greatest nations of the earth, the action that is taken by the British Government today may determine what value they are going to be to the empire and what help they are going to give to the people of this country."

Duchess Makes Her Maiden Speech.

The Duchess of Atholl's maiden speech created much interest in the House. Her husband was in the Peers' gallery, waiting with evident anxiety the moment when she would arise; but the benches in the House generally were rather empty. As soon as word ran through the lobbies that the Duchess had the floor, however, there was a general rush of members to hear the member of the highest rank of nobility making her first speech as one of the commoners. They saw a lady of medium height, quietly dressed and hatless, grasping a sheaf of notes in hand, and speaking clearly, forcefully and collectedly. The Duches showed no signs of nervousness and had no difficulty in making herself heard all over the House.

She covered a large number of subjects, but had no need to refer to her notes. Most of her speech was devoted to the value of juvenile unemployment centres, the Government's proposals to help on Presbyterian reunion in Scotland and the calamitous condition of British shipping but she touched a deep chord as, in advocating the acceleration of the naval building program in aid of the unemployed, she said that as a woman and a soldier's wife, who, along with other soldiers' wives, had seen her nearest and dearest go out to fight their country's battles, she longed to see war cease throughout the world. But since so little merchant shipping was building, she rejoiced at the dockyards finding some work for unemployed artisans.

As she resumed her seat members from all over the house, including Mr. Lloyd George, Lady Astor, J. H. Thomas and General Seely gathered around to congratulate her. The House then adjourned for luncheon, and the debate continued its course without much interest all afternoon.

Some Unionists Plan a Manoeuvre.

Winston Churchill's letter has apparently been a spur which has caused an industrial group of Unionists in the House of Commons to put down a further amendment to the address, representing to the King that "an overwhelming majority of the House has been returned definitely pledged against Socialism, and it would, therefore, be a violation of the expressed will of the electorate to place in power a Government which manifestly, on its declared policy, cannot effectively carry on the Administration."

This amendment is not likely to be reached, however. The general feeling in the House, says The London Times political correspondent, is that if the Labor amendment is carried the address, as amended, should at once be agreed to, as it is felt that it would be unfair to leave the address in midair, necessitating a resumption of the debate after the new Prime Minister had met the House of Commons.

It is said that a few Unionists, however, do not agree with this course, and may endeavor to continue the debate on the address as amended. In that case closure would probably be moved from the Labor benches, and supported by the Liberals, and it is expected that most of the Unionists would refrain from voting.

If the amendment is carried the House will meet again on Tuesday, when Premier Baldwin will announce the decision of the Government to resign, and there will be an adjournment for the formation of the new Ministry. It is believed Mr. Macdonald desires an adjournment of three weeks, to give the new Ministers time to look into the work of their departments, but a number of his followers are pressing that he should meet the House as early as possible, and are urging that a fortnight's interval will be sufficient.

Such effect as Mr. Churchill's letter will have on the general political situation is likely to manifest itself later. Politicians have accepted the advent of a labor government as almost an agreed fact, but when that has been accomplished there is to be a general sifting of parties. The Liberal Party is to hold a meeting and there seems a probability of summoning a gathering of the conservative association, with delegates from all over the country to a session in London.

There is to be a meeting for the formation of a new Constitutional Association which seems to be an attempt to revive the old Centre Party idea.

In these deliberations Mr. Churchill's stand will undoubtedly be discussed with care and may conceivably herald his reappearance in the active political arena.

Meanwhile, the question of whether the Conservatives shall drop Mr. Baldwin is being eagerly canvassed in the Conservatice ranks and opinion is much divided. He will undoubtedly place himself in the hands of his party.

WOOD WELCOMES INQUIRY.

General for Fullest Investigation of Philippine Affairs.

MANILA, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—Governor General Wood, referring to the resolution introduced in Congress yesterday by Senator Ladd of North Dakota, proposing a sweeping investigation of the administration of the Philippines, said today:

"I welcome the fullest investigation of the entire situation."

Both houses of the Philippine Legislature yesterday adopted a resolution urging Congress to approve the Cooper resolution authorizing the Philippines to hold a constitutional convention to establish an independent Government.

LABORITES OPPOSE RAILROAD STRIKE

J. H. Thomas Urges All Union Men to Fight Malcontents and Keep on Working.

DECLARES HONOR AT STAKE

But the Strike Notice Which Would Become Effective Tomorrow Has Not Been Recalled.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Open opposition by the prospective Labor Government against the threatened strike of locomotive engineers and firemen, which now seems inevitable, was made known today by a manifesto issued by the National Union of Railwaymen, signed by its secretaries, J. H. Thomas and C. T. Cramp.

It gives a new definition to the word "blacklegging" and asserts that "any member of the National Union of Railwaymen who ceases work, or refuses to do any job that he would have done if there had been no strike, is a blackleg to the signature of his accredited representatives and a traitor to the decision of the special general meeting."

It also declares that the "honor and prestige of the union is at stake."

Messrs. Thomas and Cramp base their action in issuing this manifesto on the ground that the faith of organized labor is involved in an acceptance of the award of the National Wages Tribunal, on which it was fully represented.

"Up to this moment," they say, "we have refused to believe, although preparing for all emergencies, that so grave a blunder and such a blow at the very principles of collective bargaining should have been embarked upon."

Then they inform the members of their union that the statement of the effect on wages of the award, which has been put out by the railroad companies, is correct, and that if the fear of it alleged by the engineers and firemen's association was true, they would never have agreed to it.

They exhort their own members that "no intimidation or abuse of any kind must divert them from their task of duty, which is 'loyalty to their organization.'"

Politically, the attitude taken by Messrs. Thomas and Cramp will assist the Labor party in their endeavor to reassure the British public that their accession to power will not be a national disaster, as their opponents picture.

LONDON, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—The Trade Union Congress today made another attempt to avert a railway strike in Great Britain. The congress called before it for a conference representatives of all three of the railway unions, with a view to examining their grievances. After a long session the congress adjourned until tomorrow, when its efforts to straighten out the tangle will be continued.

The situation tonight still remains critical, as the strike notices, which become effective at midnight on Sunday, had not been withdrawn by the railway men's unions.

Whether the Government of Stanley Baldwin or Ramsay Macdonald will have to deal with the serious situation resulting from a strike is being discussed. The predominant opinion is that the present Government will fall heir to the difficulties that may ensue, because, although it undoubtedly will be defeated on Monday, it must, according to constitutional custom, carry on until its successor is ready to take over the reins.

Such a position could be averted should Mr. Macdonald nominate his chief Ministers and start his administrative duties immediately, but whether he will do this is regarded as doubtful.

DUCHESS WINS COMMONS.

She Makes a Strong Impression in First Speech, on Marriage Laws.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Duchess of Athol, one of the newly elected woman members of the House of Commons, made what was generally considered an auspicious debut as a debater on the floor of the House today. Her maiden speech referred mainly to the Government's professed intention to amend the law relating to maintenance and separation orders in marital cases, and other measures of special interest to women.

The Duchess urged the need for accelerating the naval shipbuilding program, especially in view of the depression in the shipbuilding trade. She said she longed, however, to see wars cease throughout the world and would infinitely rather see expenditure on merchant shipping than on ships of war.

The speech was well received by the House. Lady Astor and Mrs. Hilton Philipson congratulated her, while Miss Susan Lawrence, the new Labor member from East Ham, crossed the floor of the House and gave her a hearty handshake.

Names Chauffeur in Separation Suit

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Mrs. Hilda Westrup sued Charles Westrup of New Rochelle for a separation today, and he countercharged that she had been too friendly with a chauffeur. She denied that she had gone on rides with the chauffeur and charged her husband with abandonment.

FRANC LOSES PART OF ITS RECOVERY

Goes to 22 to the Dollar as Poincare Urges a Quick Report on Relief Bills.

OPPOSITION IS DEVELOPING

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—While Premier Poincaré and Finance Minister Lasteyrie were pleading today before the Chamber of Deputies Finance Committee for a quick and favorable report on the new taxation bills the franc started falling and lost part of the recovery which had followed the announcement of the Government's intention to add 20 per cent. to all taxes.

The official average of the dollar today was 21.995 francs, against 21.245 yesterday, while the pound advanced from the 90.575 average of yesterday to 92.95 today. Shortly after the Bourse opened, the pound went to 93.30 and then fell to around 93, while the dollar touched 22.05 and at the end of trading was 22 francs.

Premier Poincaré has made it perfectly plain that he will stand or fall on his tax-reform measures, and the indications are that he will have a stiff fight. From the practical point of view, the fate of the bills may depend on where the franc stands when the measures come to a vote. If the franc falls lower, the passage of the reforms is entirely probable, whereas were the franc to recover to, say, 18 to the dollar by the day of the vote, the Deputies, who must soon go before their electors, may not give a majority.

The Government press is waging a fight for the adoption of the increased taxation, but French industrial leaders in some manner appear to believe that there may be some doubt about the wisdom of a blanket 20 per cent. increase in all taxes, while M. Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialists, says that he will never vote to put up customs duties, for instance, which, he says, would only drive up the cost of living without bringing in more revenue.

There is a growing demand in Paris that the Deputies face squarely the issure of taxing the agricultural wealth of France, which now gets off almost scott free. Tables published today show that the Department of the Seine, which means Paris and its suburbs, has 10 per cent. of the population of France and pays 42 per cent. of the taxes.

Since the war French farmers have enjoyed unexampled prosperity, but have escaped the taxation burden. With elections in sight, however, and with the farmers having a majority of the votes in France, it is not probable that the present Chamber will undertake to impose land taxes or apply income taxes to the country's farmers.

Yesterday's advance in the Bank of France discount rate from 5½ to 6 per cent., following a half of 1 per cent. increase last week, was not so favorably received in Paris, where, it is argued, the advance tends to add an additional burden on French industry.

The official reason given by the Bank of France for the new increase is that it is intended to complete the rise of last week, the purpose of which was to make it more difficult for French exporters to borrow cheaply at home while keeping abroad the receipts from their sales. It was predicted on the first increase that the measure would not be efficacious, because the large fluctuations in exchange more than outweighed the difference made by the higher discount rate. The new increase shows that the analysis was correct. It is also believed that the Bank of France was actuated moreover by a desire to decrease the amount of domestic borrowings from its paper money resources.

The open market money rate has scarcely been affected by the changes in the discount rate. The open market remains around 4½ per cent., it being difficult to give the exact figures because, since the war, there is no official quotation of the open market money rate. While theoretically it might be expected to follow the Bank of France rate, actually it follows the rate paid on short-term Treasury notes, which at present is 4 per cent. for three months notes, 4½ per cent. for six months notes and 5 per cent. for one-year notes. The Government states that it does not intend to increase this interest rate, which accounts for the lack of change in the open market money rate.

PARIS, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—Premier Poincaré and Finance Minister de Lasteyrie supported the Government's drastic financial and economic remedies for the exchange crisis before the Finance Commission of the Chamber of Deputies today, insisting upon immediate action on the measures introduced yesterday. The Premier reiterated his determination to make the question of confidence upon the issue. He insisted that the policy of balancing the recoverable budget must not be construed as the slightest indication that France was renouncing her right to recover money from Germany.

The members of the commission took occasion to state that the ordinary budget already had been balanced, and that they considered the country's economic situation most satisfactory, but in order to remove any pretext for a "defeatist" campaign against the franc they had decided to begin at once the examination of M. Poincaré's program for covering the recoverable budget with real receipts.

The Premier said in reply to questions during the hearing, which was behind closed doors, that the Government was considering the abolition by decree of the State monopoly in matches and turning the industry over to private enterprise.

A bill imposing a surtax on the hotel bills of all foreigners who visit France has been introduced in the Chamber of Deputies.

OSTRACIZING LABOR OFFENDS MACDONALD

He Criticizes the Exclusion of His Party From the Social Amenities by Its Rivals.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The inherent objection in some quarters in Great Britain to the very idea of a Labor Government is pointedly dealt with by Ramsay Macdonald, opposition leader and prospective Labor Premier, in an article in the January issue of The Socialist Review. Beginning with a reference to the decision of the Cabinet to continue in office until defeated in Parliament, Mr. Macdonald writes:

"One of the very last qualities I should think of attributing to Mr. Baldwin is a heathen Chinese trickiness, but it is plain he has lent himself on this occasion to those who have such qualities.

"A good deal of nonsense is talked on both sides about what epople in their hearts think of a Labor Government. When all allowances are made, I cannot say that to large sections we are anything but unwelcme. Labor is an offense to their sense of the proprieties. We do belong in their minds to the hobnail breed, and Mr. Baldwin in a weak moment acted the part of his class when he arranged his interview with Mr. Asquith at the Athenaeum. It was of no practical importance, but at the same time it was not the innocent and casual thing that the Liberal press is striving to make out.

"The Labor Party has been strengthened in its suspicions and convictions by its experiences during the election, and when, knowing it was not true, the press announced that both the leader of the opposition and theleader of the Liberal Party had been seen by Mr. Baldwin, the Labor Party rightly declined to accept further assurances from quarters that had already proved themselves to be untrustworthy and tricky.

"Of course the fact that Mr. Baldwin conveyed the decision of his Cabinet by letter to the leader of the opposition, and by word of mouth to the leader of the Liberal Party, is of the highest significance. Not a word of negotiations need have passed between them, and their jocularity may have been described by flurried apologists, but it was a gesture, at any rate, and gestures are as important as speeches.

"Labor does not belong to a certain circle. I hope it never will, but will create for itself a circle where dignity and self-respect will be the atmosphere. Labor will always be a poor social imitator, but it might become a good social creator."

ASSERTS MASTERY OF VERTICAL FLIGHT

The Marquis Pateras Pescara, Holder of Helicopter Record, Seeks to Perfect Method.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—The Marquis Pateras Pescara, who last week broke his own world's records for helicopter flight by remaining in the air eight minutes, thirteen and four-fifths seconds while flying 1,160 meters in a straight line, said in an interview today that he believes he has mastered vertical flight and it only remains now to go ahead and perfect the method of flight.

Explaining the slow progress of the helicopter's development, the Marquis pointed out that it requires ten hours' flight for aviators to learn how to pilot the air plane. He has broken five machines in making a total of three hours' flight. Each time a new machine had to be developed. The acquisition of the knowledge of piloting a helicopter, therefore, is extremely slow at the present stage.

In order to refute the popular belief that the helicopter is an unreasonably expensive machine, the Marquis stated that his model weighs only a ton, including pilot and gas for a half hour's flight; is even meters across and weighs forty kilograms to the square meter. It has a motor of 180 horsepower, but actually employs only 160. It has a speed of twenty-five kilometers per hour and an altitude of 1,200 metres.

In the near future the Marquis will try for the kilometer prize of the Aero Club, which requires a flight of 500 meters in a straight line, with a return and landing within a circle ten meters in diameter. After that he will try for the Technical Section prize, which requires two circular flights, a kilometer each, executed within the interval of a quarter hour.

JOHN DRINKWATER DIVORCED

Dramatist's Wife Gets Decree Under Astor Equal Rights Act.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The courts here granted a preliminary divorce decree today against John Drinkwater, author of the plays, Abraham Lincoln, Robert E. Lee and Oliver Cromwell, on petition of his wife.

The suit was brought under Lady Astor's Equal Rights act which permits the wife to procure a divorce without proving cruelty or desertion in addition to the statutory requirement. The evidence was of the stereotyped order.

Drinkwater, who was then an insurance inspector, was married in 1906 to Kathleen Walpole, an actress. He lived with his wife till 1921. Then he left her and subsequently assisted her in acquiring the evidence required for the divorce.

Prison for Two Oil Stock Swindlers.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—Max W. Friedell of Marion, Ind., former President and promoter of the Black Panther Oil and Refining Company, was sentenced to eight years in prison and Harry E. Lindley of Harrisburg, former Vice President of the company, to three years by Judge Barnett today. They were convicted of a swindle involving more than $1,000,000 of stockholders' money.

GIRL NAMES MOTHER IN $1,000,000 SUIT

Mrs. Helen J. French Begins Action Against Doctor and Insurance Man.

ESCAPED FROM SANITARIUM

Plaintiff Says She Was Drugged and Denies She Was an Addict.

A summons was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday in a suit of Mrs. Helen J. French against William W. Stevenson, Controller of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, and officer in several hotel companies, Mrs. Helen F. Darling, her mother, and Dr. Joseph Henry Cahoon, of 68 West Eleventh Street. Mr. Stevenson lives at 31 West Eleventh Street and has had a Summer place at Allenhurst, N. J., where Mr. Stevenson is Secretary and Treasurer of the Richbroson Hotel Co.

The nature of the action and the amount demanded in the suit is not shown in the summons, since there is no complaint. Bennett E. Siegelstein appears in the case as attorney. He said last night that the summons was served on the strength of an affidavit sworn to by Mrs. French, and also an affidavit by Hazel M. Yorke, a nurse, of Glenside, Pa., who alleges that she knew Mrs. French when she was in a sanitarium near Trenton, N. J. The suit is for $1,000,000, he said.

Attorney Alleges Force.

Mr. Siegelstein said the complaint, when drawn, would allege that Mrs. French was forced to go to two sanitariums in an effort to compel her to preserve secrecy concerning matters relating to her family, and that she was bringing the suit at present because she feared she would be compelled to return. The attorney said he understood that Mrs. Darling had stated that a warrant was out for the apprehension of her daughter on the ground that she had escaped from a sanitarium to which she had been sent, but asserted he has been able to find no trace of one.

"We filed the summons without drawing a complaint at present because we want to establish a motive in case an effort is made to compel the return of this young woman to the sanitarium," said the attorney. "For the same reason I am compelled to conceal Miss French's temporary residence for the present."

Mrs. French's Story.

Mrs. French, said to be the daughter of a Newark broker, made a sworn statement to her attorney, he announced, in which she asserted that early this month she was sent to a private sanitarium near Trenton Junction, where she learned from a letter that was intercepted by a nurse, that she was to be deprived of the use of the telephone and prohibited from sending or receiving letters. She managed to send out a postal card, she said, and it reached a friend who notified her attorney.

"I made up my mind to escape on Tuesday, Jan. 15," said Mrs. French. "At 10 o'clock that night I made a rope out of bed sheets and tied them to a balcony rail. It gave way and I fell to the ground, but picked myself up and ran. I went to Miss Yorke, one of the nurses, who knew I was sane, and she brought me in her car to New York. She has signed an affidavit stating that from her observation of me I was not crazy nor addicted to drugs."

Mrs. French alleged that morphine had been administered to her, and said that once when she had pneumonia she was kept under the influence of the drug for eleven days. She got out of the house, she said, and went to Atlantic City, "but they came after me." She is 23 years old and has been living apart from her husband for a year, it is said.

Attorney Siegelstein said that he was warranted, from the sworn affidavits in his possession, in drawing a complaint charging that drugs were administered to Mrs. French.

Mr. Stevenson could not be found last night at the West Eleventh Street apartment, but Mrs. Darling, who answered the telephone, insisted that she knew nothing about any reason for such an action and declined to be "bothered" about it. Dr. Cahoon insisted there was no basis for making him a defendant in the case.

Dr. Henry A. Cotton of the New Jersey State Hospital for the Insane at Trenton, said last night that Mrs. French had been sent to him at about Christmas time by her mother on the recommendation of Dr. James F. Ackerman, a reputable physician of Allenhurst, N. J., who had been treating Mrs. French for about a year.

Dr. Ackerman said last night that he had treated Mrs. French in 1922 for alcoholism, but that he saw little of her last year because she was at Allenhurst only infrequently.

Mr. Siegelstein said that he knew nothing of Dr. Ackerman's treatment of Mrs. French, but said that persons with whom he had talked about her insisted that she did not use alcoholic liquor.

BRITISH HONOR DEAD OF L-24

Naval Flotilla Holds Service Where Submarine Sank.

PORTLAND, England, Jan. 18.—Twelve submarines and a flotilla of other naval vessels participated today in a deeply impressive funeral service off Portland Bill, at the spot where the submarine L-24 sank last Thursday after a collision with the dreadnought Resolution.

The crews of the vessels stood bareheaded while the naval cortège moved slowly forward to a tossing flag on a buoy marking the watery grave of the forty-three officers and sailors who perished in the L-24.

Every engine was stopped as the salutes to the dead were fired. A naval chaplain read the burial service, a great wreath of flowers was dropped from the stern of the flagship and buglers sounded the "Last Post."

EXPERTS PREPARE TO HEAR DR. SCHACHT

Plan of Taking Over German Railways Is Seen in Action by the Committee.

PARIS, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—The first committee of experts, which, under the auspices of the Reparation Commission, is seeking a solution of Germany's budget difficulties and the financial situation generally, finished its first week's work tonight. Although the few communiques issued have shown no great progress, it appears that the committee has been successful in the essential work of getting ready information required in taking up proposed financial reforms in Germany.

The floor will be left to assistants until Monday, when the full committee will grapple with the larger phases of the inquiry. Most of this afternoon's session of the committee was devoted to preparation for hearing Dr. Schacht, President of the Reichsbank, who is expected to arrive in Paris tomorrow in answer to the committee's summons.

Colonel Leonard F. Ayres, whose arrival at Cherbourg from the United States was reported today, will re-enforce the staff of expert assistants next week. The French and British are also contributing expert help to the committee. It was decided today to refer to Sir William Acworth, British expert on international railways, and M. Lefevre, General Secretary of the Union of European Railways, certain questions concerning the railways in Germany. This action is interpreted as suggesting that the committee is preparing to study a plan for taking over the German railways, as a guarantee for outside help in stabilizing the German currency.

The second expert committee, appointed by the Reparation Commission to search for German capital abroad, will be officially inaugurated Monday morning by Louis Barthou, assisted by the other members of the commission. The presidency of the committee has been assigned to Reginald McKenna, British delegate and former Chancellor of the Exchequer.

SOVIET TO TRY ESSENIN FOR 'HOOLIGANISM'

Former Husband of Isadora Duncan Accused of Insulting Police After Arrest.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Jan. 18.—Essenin, the former poet husband of Isadora Duncan, will be tried soon for "Hooliganism" under Article 176 of the Soviet Criminal Code, according to the statement of Judge Andreef of the ward where Essenin, with three other young poets, created a disturbance and was presented by the police some weeks ago for "anti-Semitic utterances."

It appears, however, that the "Hooliganism" charge, which, by the way, carries the maximum penalty of a year's imprisonment, does not concern anti-Semitism but rather resisting arrest and using insulting language to the police after arrest. The three companions who took part in the conversation which started the disturbance are not to be tried, it appears, because they kept quiet later, but Essenin called the guardians of the proletarian peace "gendarmes," which in Soviet Russia is a word of insult, meaning "hirelings of a corrupt autocracy."

FAREWELL DINNER TO CHILD

Harvard Club of Rome Entertains Retiring American Ambassador.

ROME, Jan. 18.—Members of the Rome Harvard Club gave a farewell dinner last evening in honor of Richard Washburn Child, the retiring American Ambassador who is soon to leave for home. The dinner was given in a restaurant occupying the remains of the ancient Circus of Flaminius built in 175 B. C.

There were toasts by Ambassador Child, who drank to the King of Italy and the President of the United States; Consul General Francis Keene, Professor Gorham Stevens, Director of the American Academy; Franklin Mott Gunther, Counselor of the American Embassy; and Professor Lanciani, the well known archaeologist.

Other guests included Colonel Francis Hoppin, New York architect; Professor Roffe of the University of Pennsylvania; Professor Bennett of Amherst; Professor James Paton and Professor Lord.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—William Phillips, present Under-Secretary of State, has been given favorable attention for appointment as Ambassador to Italy. If he is chosen the appointment will be exceptional. Men trained in the service have in recent years been appointed as Ministers, but only one or two have ever risen to embassy rank.

Mr. Phillips was Minister to The Hague when called home to assume the duties of Under-Secretary of State. Formerly he served as Assistant Secretary of State and as First Secretary of the London embassy.

N. Y. C. to Lay Off 2,000 Shopmen.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Two thousand men employed in the West Albany locomotive shops of the New York Central Railroad will be laid off on Jan. 23 for an indefinite period. It is announced that they probably will return to work in February. In the meantime the annual inventory of the shops will be conducted.

WANT POWER PLANT AT MUSCLE SHOALS

Aim of Southern Utilities Companies in Offering $100,000,000 for 50-Year Lease.

TO FORM NEW CORPORATION

Distribution of Energy Throughout Several States Proposed—Details of Plan Given.

A huge power development project, to connect up available transmission lines throughout the South, to construct new power lines and distributing stations, and to be operated as a commercial enterprise to meet the expanding needs of that section of the country, is the aim of a group of Southern public utility companies as embraced in their joint offer of $100,000,000 to the Government for a fifty-year lease of Muscle Shoals, Ala. Details of the offer became known here, yesterday. According to representatives of the companies interested the bid, if approved by Congress, will enable these companies to set up a new corporation for the carrying out of plans for the construction of one of the largest super-power projects on record.

The offer, it is asserted, overshadows that made by Henry Ford for fertilizer manufacturing purposes and is the largest thus far made for Muscle Shoals. The companies represented in the bid were the Alabama Power Company, the Tennessee Electric Power Company and the Memphis Power and Light Company. The $100,000,000 offer for Muscle Shoals would be paid in the form of a rental at the rate of $2,000,000 a year, the Government having the right to "recapture" at any time, conditional upon a fair return to the lessees.

The new corporation would have an initial capitalization of $10,000,000. Engineers have concluded that within ten years from its completion the power output from Muscle Shoals Dam No. 2 could be absorbed for industrial and municipal use in the Southern States.

Would Require $10,000,000.

Such a program would involve, according to Thomas W. Martin, President of the Alabama Power Company, an investment in transmission lines, transformer stations and similar items of approximately $10,000,000. It would contemplate distribution of this power to the adjacent and intermediate territory between Muscle Shoals and Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga and Knoxville, in Tennessee; to large portions of Georgia, South and North Carolina; to practically the entire State of Alabama, as far south as Mobile; to Pensacola in Frolida; to a large territory in Mississippi, and to New Orleans.

The interest of the farmer in the potentiality of fertilizer production at a low cost at Muscle Shoals, it is stated, is safeguarded in the offer of these companies to reserve a large block of power provided under the plan, for such arrangements as Congress may decide to make, for the manufacture of fertilizer in connection with the nitrate plants.

The associated companies would take out a license under the Federal Water Power act to complete the dam, locks and power house at Muscle Shoals at their own expense, with initial installation of approximately 240,000 horsepower, subsequent installation to be made as required by the Federal Water Power act to meet market demands.

The companies offer to furnish the Government, or any one it may designate, with free power in the amount of 100,000 secondary horse power for the production of fertilizer and munitions of war and research in connection therewith. This feature of the offer provides a return on the $17,000,000 the Government now has invested in the water-power project.

Would Buy Steam Plants.

The companies offer to purchase the Warrior, Ala., extension of the steam plant of the Alabama Power Company, in which the Government has an interest, as well as other facilities, and the steam plant at Nitrate Plant No. 2 for $5,000,000 less approximately $2,500,000 to cover costs of locks and navigation structures at the Warrior Dam.

The effect of the offer will be to leave the Government in ownership of its two nitrate plants in the Muscle Shoals district, together with the Waco quarry, representing a wartime investment of about $75,000,000. These may be retained or disposed of by lease, or otherwise, for the manufacture of nitrates, for munitions of war, or fertilizer.

The companies agree to begin construction promptly and complete the same within "a reasonable time." The offer makes no provision for Dam No. 3, but it was said there would be no difficulty in providing for the financing of this dam should the need for it arise.

Much interest was evinced here yesterday in the report from Washington that the bid of $100,000,000 had been submitted. The offer, it is said, already has the virtual endorsement of the Secretary of War and many members of Congress who opposed Mr. Ford's offer because of the demand for a lease running 100 years and for other reasons.

Included in the offer to take over Muscle Shoals is an offer to purchase the Government's steam plant at Sheffield for $4,500,000, and the Warrior Reserve plant for $3,500,000. Mr. Ford's bid for the entire hydro-electric dam power houses, steam plants and nitrate plants was $5,000,000.

The Alabama company spent about $500,000 for the dam sites at Muscle Shoals, including the expense of making necessary surveys, &c., before donating the whole to the Government at the outbreak of the World War.

POINCARE DEFIANCE WINS BIG VICTORY

they should be directed against England, which is "responsible for the rupture of allied co-operation." M. Herriot had contended that if the radicals were in power they would substitute for the Ruhr occupation other guarantees, "more solid and more durable," but the Premier declared that he was not one who would exchange the substance for the shadow. Belgium was in full agreement with this policy, the Premier added, and if other guarantees were envisaged it was only that they should be added to and not substituted for the Ruhr.

To M. Reynaud the Premier addressed the reproach that he was surprised that the Deputy should be so credulous as to German promises. He had a telegram from General Degoutte before him, saying that the Reich Government is still trying to oppose the Düsseldorf accords and make them fruitless. The French had reinstated 60,000 railroad men against the promise of Germany to hand back 800 locomotives, but the locomotives had not been delivered. Berlin, he said, is still blocking the creation of the Rhineland Bank, and when all else has failed, the German Nationalists had recourse to assassination.

Denies Support of Separatists.

The Premier denied emphatically all charges that France had instigated or supported the Separatist movement in the Palatinate. The movement there, he said, was a movement of Socialists and peasants against the reactionary government in Munich. It was a spontaneous movement arising out of local conditions. To the French High Commissioner the Government had given instructions to maintain strict neutrality and to confine French activities only to the preservation of order.

Lord Curzon's attitude had come, the Premier said, as a surprise to him, but the British investigator having been joined by a Frenchman in an investigation now, the Interallied High Commission and the Chamber of Deputies could rest assured that whatever France had done or would do would be done in full agreement with the Treaty of Versailles.

"We have never sought to exceed its provisions," said the Premier, "and even less have we sought to annex or influence the territories occupied."

Dr. Rechberg's proposals, M. Poincaré said, were rejected emphatically by the French Government, and with it the Belgian Government was in agreement that they would have nothing to do with private individuals, but would deal only with the Reich Government. He was strongly opposed, too, to private contracts between German and French industrials, and had asked for a formal promise from French industrials that they would sign no accord of such a nature without previously submitting it to him.

Refers to Creditor America.

The past and future attitude of the American Government and people played a large rôle in the debate. The Treaty of Versailles, said the Premier, which depended for its full execution on the entente among the Allies, has been warped from the beginning by the failure of the United Stats to ratify it, and by the refusal of England to take energetic action against Germany.

"The nightmare of interallied debts" still hangs over France, M. Poincaré declared, while she is engaged in her tremendous struggle to collect her own more urgent debts from a far more recalcitrant debtor. M. Herriot interposed to say that in America there are many men who defended the cause of France, and he quoted Roland W. Boyden, former unofficial American member of the Reparation Comission, as indicating that America was pressing for collection of the debt.

"I know that," the Premier replied. "I know that all those who know our country support our cause, but even those who are most friendly to us don't yet talk about annulling the debts."

The motion on which the Premier obtained his vote of confidence and the motion which M. Herriot tabled showed clearly the difference which exists between the policy of the present Chamber and the policy of what may be the Chamber of a few months hence. The motion adopted read:

"The Chamber approves the declarations of the Government, and especially that relating to the occupation of the Ruhr, and declares its confidence in the Government to continue its action for the national safety."

M. Herriot's amendment did not speak of confidence, but "recommended to the Government a union with the Allies and associated powers as the best guarantee for our country, for reparations and for security."

TROTSKY, VERY ILL, LOSES TO HIS FOES

By WALTER DURANTY.

with Lenin, in their absence, as members of the Presiding Committee of the special party conference now in session here.

An incident which came to the knowledge of THE NEW YORK TIMES a few days ago during a meeting of one of the Moscow Communist Party organizations, also shows the falsity of the recent rumors. After a speech by Zinovief, criticizing Trotsky's ideas—and perhaps not unaffected by the above-mentioned rumors—some of Trotsky's supporters proposed to send a delegation to his country house, asking him to come to the city and explain his views in person. The meeting approved the suggestion almost unanimously. A delegation visited Trotsky immediately, and found him lying on a sofa, looking worn and low. He brightened at their arrival, but expressed great regret that he was unable to accede, owing to his ill health, adding that such part as he had taken in the controversy already—only by letters, at that, as the doctors absolutely vetoed speeches—had produced the very result the doctors had forewarned him of, trying his strength beyond endurance.

The rumor-mongers may argue that Trotsky's weakness has given the machine leaders precisely the opportunity to arrest him which they otherwise would not dare to do. But even if they contemplated such a step, which seems unlikely, they know too well the importance of martyrdom as a political influence to throw away the victory they have gained, especially at a moment when Trotsky himself is put hors de combat by illness far more effectually even than by arrest.

Incidentally, too, they know he is by far the most popular man in the country after Lenin, not only in the army and the "Gaypayoo"—which, rather unexpectedly, supported the insurgent thesis—but among the workers, students and others. So they are contenting themselves to follow up their advantage in a much more practical manner. It was announced today that the order of precedence for presiding over the council shall be: Lenin, Zinovief, Stalin, Kamenief, Trotsky, Bukharin, &c., whereas hitherto Trotsky invariably had been second or third.

It also is notable that not one of his principal partisans, Radek, Sapronof, Preobrajenski, Piatakof, figure on the list at all, which effectively shows the measure of the machine's success.

Tells of Attempt to Kidnap Him.

Copyright, 1924, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The British Foreign Office has received a report from Moscow of an attempt made ten days ago by members of the Chekka, Russian "Secret Police," to kidnap Leon Trotsky, just ordered by physicians to take a two months' vacation from his post of Commander-in-Chief of the Russian Army. The plot failed owing to the loyalty of his guards.

M. Trotsky lives in a palace formerly belonging to an oil magnate, which is surrounded by a high stone wall and which is closely guarded. At midnight an armored car and two lorries full of men dashed up to the iron gate and demanded that it be opened in the name of the Chekka.

The guards refused, and the Chekkaists blew down the gate with dynamite, but they were confronted by barbed wire entanglements and a series of concrete pill boxes, from which the guard opened fire, killing two attackers. An attempt was made by the guard to telephone for help, but the wires were cut. A soldier dropped over a wall and fetched a detachment of the Red army. The Chekkaists fled.

It is stated M. Trotsky was not in the house that night. It is also said that the Chekka has disavowed the agents, saying they were imposters and that M. Trotsky, for his own reasons, accepted the explanation.

Extraordinary stories are circulating in Moscow about M. Trotsky's flirting with monarchists and a plot to make him dictator under a puppet czar.

HEINEN AND HIS AIDS IN CLASH IN GALE

struction or material," he said. "The test has shown that by increasing the strength of the fins the ship will be safe in a gale of seventy-five miles an hour. I purpose to modify the design of the fins and the fin couplings to make the ship strong enough for all kinds of weather. I believe if the nose cap were strengthened the ship would break abaft of the strengthening. By installing a false nose, only that would be wrenched loose in the event of a similar accident, and no part of the ship would be carried away with it. It is impossible to tabulate how much of a mooring stress a mast can stand."

Lieutenant Commander Maurice E. Pierce, who was in actual command of the Shenandoah when she broke loose, testified that every precaution had been taken both before and during the flight to safeguard the ship. Two other officers and two enlisted men who were on the truant journey gave similar testimony.

Captain Frank R. McCrary, Commander of the Shenandoah, who was preparing to go aboard the craft when the accident occurred, told the board that the mooring mast test had been arranged to determine the strength of the ship and mast and to ascertain facts regarding the helium tanks and ballast. He said it was necessary to find out just how the Shenandoah would react to adverse weather before the craft went to the North Pole.

"On the polar trip the dirigible will be entirely dependent on a mooring mast and such service as may be obtained by means of the mast," Captain McCrary said. "We did not anticipate such a mishap. We had arranged to cast off in the event the strain meters reached the danger point."

A Second Inquiry Under Way.

The board of inquiry, which is composed of Captain Frank Lyons, President; Lieut. Commander Robert W. Cabaniss and Lieutenant L. M. Grant, will meet again Monday at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. The findings will be forwarded to Washington. A second inquiry, under Commander Weyerbacher, to determine whether there was any blame attached to the officers of the dirigible, was under way yesterday. The hearing, which was private, will be resumed today.

Word was received yesterday that the naval oiler Ramapo now at the Mare Island Navy Yard at San Francisco would be fitted up with a mooring mast for the use of the Shenandoah in the arctic. Orders were issued for the vessel to start June 1 for Point Barrow, Alaska, to await the arrival of the airship. The Patoka, a naval oiler now in the Mediterranean, is to be fitted similarly with a mooring mast and dispatched to Spitzbergen.

Captain Ernest A. Lehman, Zeppelin expert who has come to the United States to build airships, declared yesterday that the flight of the Shenandoah removed all doubt as to the practicability of this type of aircraft. He said the performance demonstrated the manoeuvreability of the dirigible in all conditions of weather, when handled by experienced personnel.

Captain Heinen, speaking before the Harvard, Yale and Princeton Engineering Association at a smoker at the Princeton Club last night, said:

"The Shenandoah's trip to the North Pole this Summer will be as easy a flight as has ever been attempted by an airship. It will be the best joy ride ever made in the history of aviation."

COLD, FROSTY WEATHER

Wintry days call for warm bodies, and warm bodies need fuel food to keep them warm.

Oatmeal is an excellent fuel food. It contains fat which is easily burned in the body.

Also, milk is a good fuel, and cream is even better.

The combination of oatmeal and milk or cream is therefore justly popular at CHILDS.

MELLON BILL GAINS, COOLIDGE BELIEVES

He Expects Amendments, but Will Accept No Compromise in Advance.

FOES PREPARE TO OBSTRUCT

Snell Sees a Free Field for Them Under New House Rules—Committee Hears Winston.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—President Coolidge believes that the Administration Tax bill is gaining support as taxpayers and members of Congress thoroughly analyze the effect of the proposals made by Secretary Mellon.

It was indicated at the White House today that, despite reports made to him by Republican members of Congress on the opposition to the surtax proposals in the bill, the President is still standing for the Mellon recommendations. He does not expect the bill to go through without amendments.

Believing as he does that the Mellon proposals if enacted into law would be the best for the prosperity of the country, the President takes the position that he is not going to sanction any compromises in advance, as has been suggested to him by Republican leaders. That does not mean that he would veto a bill which differed from the Mellon suggestions.

Senator Davis Elkins of West Virginia came out today in support of the Mellon bill, especially the proposed constitutional amendment to prevent the issue of tax-exempt securities.

"The letter of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in answer to one by Senator Couzens states the issue of the tax-exempt question so clearly and forcibly that everybody can understand it," Mr. Elkins said. "The conflict is, after all, between active and inactive money; live and dead money. There should be no inactive money in this country. It should be alive, active and working constructively to promote and maintain the prosperity of our nation. That can only be accomplished by stopping tax-exempt bond issues which are nothing except special privilege and class favoritism. When, as Secretary Mellon says, a man with an income of $1,000,000 a year can escape paying a dollar in Federal taxation, it is high time the law be changed.

"When it became known that the present tax law was to pass, men with large incomes hastened to dispose of their industrial, railroad and other taxable securities and invest the proceeds in tax-exempt bonds, in order to evade Federal taxation. These people believe that they will be able to evade paying Federal taxes for all time. There is no one who can interpret the spirit of this discussion and the trend of the times but feels satisfied that Congress will find a way to make this money pay taxes, either by taxing its income or by some other method."

Snell Predicts Obstruction.

In the face of President Coolidge's confidence that the prospects of passing the Mellon bill are improving, Representative Snell, Chairman of the Rules Committee, expects obstructive tactics to retard it in the House.

"It will be a free for all," he said tonight, alluding to the fight on the floor when the Ways and Means Committee reports the bill. "I don't think there will be any chance to pass a special rule to expedite the passage of the bill. I know there will not be.

"As it stands, we now have three distinct elements in the House—Republicans, Insurgent Republicans and Democrats. If the regular Republicans were in actual control we could put through a regular rule that would help the bill in its passage."

Now that the Underwood rule, which prevented any amendment from being offered to a revenue or tariff bill unless that amendment was germane to the particular item under consideration, has been abolished, it will be possible for any member to offer amendments to any schedule which the committee has placed in the bill.

"It is a close question, but I do not believe that it will be held to be in order to offer an amendment to restore the excess profits tax," Mr. Snell said. He added that he did not believe that an amendment proposing to attach a bonus measure would be considered germane. Representative Oldfield, of Arkansas, has announced that he will offer the excess profits amendment from the floor, and it is well known that the bonus advocates will try to tack on their bill as a rider.

150-Names Plan Confirmed.

So far as the bonus was concerned, Mr. Snell said, the fact that the House today reaffirmed its decision to make 150 names necessary for a discharge petition, had not altered the situation. It would be as easy in the present frame of mind of the House to get the bill out with 150 names as it would have been with 100, he declared.

"I don't believe there will be 75 votes against that bill," he remarked.

Representative Frear, Radical, has written a letter to his colleagues saying that his tax bill is far better than the Mellon plan, particularly as it furnishes money to pay a bonus. He also indicated that a sales tax plan would be introduced with which to pay the bonus.

"This plan," read the letter, "is the only one that provides for funds for a soldiers' bonus and for additional revenues wherewith to meet both reduced personal income tax and a repeal of nuisance taxes. It should be remembered that after the revenue bill was passed last session, a consumption tax was the only alternative offered whereby to finance a soldiers' bonus. The same plan will again be proposed."

Committee Questions Winston.

Gerrard B. Winston, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, appeared before the Ways and Means Committee today. Contrary to expectations, he did not make a detailed statement, but confined himself to replying to questions. Chairman Green of the committee said that the Treasury estimate of revenue losses which would come from cutting the surtaxes to a 25 per cent. maximum was not correct, for in his opinion the loss would reach $200,000,000, instead of the $101,000,000 estimated. Mr. Green, it is said, favors a maximum of 35 to 37 per cent., but he said at the hearing that he did not approve the 44 per cent. top figure of the Garner plan.

Mr. Winston backed the Secretary's view that bringing down the maximum from the present 50 per cent. would tend to induce capital to invest in business and not so much in tax-exempt securities. Representative Mills of New York, took this position, and Mr. Winston voiced agreement with his ideas.

When Representative Garner asked Mr. Winston if estimates by the Treasury actuary, sought in relation to tax revision, were not edited in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Winston denied this. Mr. Garner has just obtained from the Treasury partial estimates of what would be yielded through the tax schedules he has proposed in the Democratic substitute for the Mellon plan.

The total of miscellaneous tax receipts, which reached $923,000,000 in 1923, would be even larger next year, Chairman Green said. Since the committee began its hearings many requests have been made for the repeal of these levies.

Freedom for Capital Asked.

If Congress adopts the Mellon plan substantially as submitted, bankers can finance the productive industries of the nation, but if it is changed "we do not know where capital can be secured to take care of the agricultural budget of the nation and to maintain and develop our productive enterprises on a sound, stable basis," Charles de B. Claiborne, President of the American Bankers' League, told the committee.

"Somewhere there is a deadline in taxation," he said. "There is a limit to the levy that the Government can make upon capital and upon the profits of those engaged in investing money in productive industry without crippling or destroying those industries, and we believe that this limit is 25 per cent. of the profits of any person or concern. In our opinion, that is all the traffic will bear and more than it should stand. It is our observation and opinion that any rate of taxation above 25 per cent. will bring less revenue than a lower levy, and this decision is borne out by Government records in the Treasury Department.

"Our public bond issues, as you know, being exempt from taxation, become preferred securities and encourage increasing our public mortgage indebtedness. These mortgages must be paid by direct taxation on land and other property, and, of course, the upkeep and operating expense of the public construction must be met in addition thereto. Our tax system makes it easy for the public to go in debt and difficult for the individual to get out of debt. The policy ought to be reversed.

"It is the buying or purchasing power which develops a nation. The consumptive power is here—110,000,000 people could not fail to be big consumers—but that power fluctuates up and down according to the buying power of the masses, and that buying power is in turn affected by the capital at the disposal of business to expand. Hence we say that surtaxes and income taxes must positively determine the interest rate or point at which capital will flow into productive industries instead of tax-exempt securities."

Farmers' Agent Attacks Bill.

Opposition to the Mellon plan was voiced by H. C. McKenzie, representing the American Farm Bureau Federation. He said that the bill excluded the farmers from the benefit of the 25 per cent. earned income section, left the farmers and 90,000,000 others with small incomes without substantial relief, and also shifted the percentage of taxation from income to consumption taxes, "or from ability to pay to necessity to consume."

Mr. McKenzie argued that whereas at present more than 45 per cent. of the Government's tax revenue comes from luxury or consumption taxes, this proportion should not exceed 25 per cent.

Appearing for the tax division of the American Mining Congress, McK. W. Kriegh favored the surtax reductions suggested by Secretary Mellon but objected to the 12½ per cent. limitation on capital losses in computations.

Joseph I. Mendelsohn of New York asked in behalf of the National Cigar Leaf Manufacturers Association that the tax on this raw material be repealed.

Rubber tire manufacturers, represented through F. C. Vancleef, Chairman of their tax commission, and Secretary of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, said that the present 5 per cent. tax on tires and tubes was a "levy on misfortune," and asked for its abandonment.

R. C. Fullbright of the Texas Industrial League spoke against the Mellon proposal of a single tax on community incomes.

Endorsements of the Mellon plan were offered by James B. Petrekin of the Colorado Bankers Association, and S. G. McEldery, President of the Farmers Union of Alabama. A. M. Loomis of the National Grange objected to surtax reductions. Haller Belt of the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company urged a repeal of the taxes on camera lenses used by professional photographers.

DIPLOMA MILL FACTS LAID BEFORE SENATORS

Investigator Tells of Getting Chiropractic Degree in 25 Minutes for $89.50.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Senate investigation of "diploma mills," which are alleged to have turned out 25,000 illegal medicinal practitioners in this country during the past ten years, got under way today before the Senate Labor Sub-Committee. Senator Copeland, Democrat, of New York, author of the resolution of inquiry, is the Chairman.

Harry T. Brundidge, who made an extensive investigation of the "mills" for The St. Louis Star, was the first witness. He produced a great mass of documentary evidence which he explained never before had been disclosed except before grand juries in Connecticut, Missouri and the District of Columbia, where court action against officials of the "diploma mills" has been started.

Mr. Brundidge told how, under the name of Harry Thompson, he became acquainted with Dr. Robert Adcox, of St. Louis, and went to Kansas City. Here, he said, he received a "diploma" from the Progressive College of Chiropractic of Chicago after taking three lessons from the wife of a chiropractor, the total time of study being twenty-five minutes, at a cost of $89.50.

"Graduates" of the Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery were licensed by passing the Connecticut State Board, he said. The "graduates" were taken to New Haven, he added, on a special car where an extensive drill was given on questions which had been obtained in advance.

In States where proxies could not take examinations for the "graduates" because a photograph was required, he said the "diploma mills" employed their own photographers who would take pictures which would fade out within three months.

HIGHAM'S PLAN TO STOP WAR

America and England Could Do It by Refusing to Sell Materials.

America and Great Britain could stop all warfare by a mutual agreement to refuse to sell ammunition, food or to lend money to any nation threatening war, declared Sir Charles Higham at a luncheon yesterday of the Six Point Club at the Waldorf-Astoria.

"The trouble with the Bok plan, the League of Nations and all the other panaceas is that they are so difficult for the common man to understand," he said. "We must formulate a plan that the simplest immigrant can comprehend, a plan that will merely show him that we are going to stop these silly wars.

"We produce 80 per cent. of the explosives of the world, as well as most of the most deadly gases. Electrical appliances used in warfare also come from these two countries. If we refuse to make loans to nations threatening war, no other country would dare to if they knew neither Great Britain or the United States would back the paper."

FORD BUYS HIS OLD SCHOOL

His Plans for Neglected Old Building Near Detroit Not Revealed.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 18.—The little red schoolhouse where Henry Ford half a century ago picked up what limited "book learning" his youth yielded him, has been purchased by the Detroit manufacturer, it was learned today.

The school, typical of hundreds of others in use fifty years ago, with sharp sloping roof, bell cupola in front, and short steps leading to the door that is set primly in the front, has not been in use for two years. The windows are broken, the bell that used to peal its summons to Ford's oldest boy, Hank, is crusted with rust, and the lot on which the school stands is neglected.

It was not explained what Ford plans to do with the schoolhouse, which is on Warren Avenue, a few miles outside Detroit and two miles from the farm on which Ford lived in his boyhood days.

FIGHT SMITH TAX CUT PLAN.

New York Realty Boards, However, Endorse Mellon Proposal.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The New York State Association of Real Estate Boards opened a two-day session here today and went on record as opposing Governor Smith's plan to reduce income taxes. At the same time the organization approved Secretary Mellon's proposal to reduce Federal income taxes.

They favored continued opposition to all forms of tax exemption, both Federal and State, and to any increase of taxation on real estate, to extension of rent laws and housing bills which "seek to put the Government into the housing business."

HOUSE DROPS RULE TO BAR AMENDMENTS

Thus Opens the Way to Propose Unlimited Changes in Tariff and Revenue Bills.

PARTY LINES ARE BROKEN

But Effort to Reduce the Number Required to Discharge Committees Is Defeated.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The House Rules fight, in progress since Monday, ended late today with the adoption of a resolution providing, among other things, for repeal of the Underwood amendment rule, votes on discharge of committees on petition of 150 members and creation of a new House Committee to handle legislation affecting war veterans.

An unsuccessful attempt was made at the last minute to eliminate the committee discharge provision, which, with the Underwood rule, was the main point at issue. Representative Madden of Illinois offered a motion to strike out the section, but it was rejected, 253 to 114.

There was a sharp break in party lines in the vote on the motion by Mr. Madden, who is Chairman of the Appropriations Committee. Its supporters, who included Representative Tilson of Connecticut, and several other Republican leaders, were those either opposed to the whole proposition of facilitating the discharge of legislation from committees or of the opinion that at least a majority of House members should be required to sign petitions.

Representative Longworth, Republican leader, joined Chairman Snell of the Rules Committee, in opposing the Madden motion, as did Representatives Garrett, Democratic leader, and Nelson, leader of the Republican insurgents, who led a futile fight yesterday to reduce the Rules Committee recommendation of a minimum of 150 names to 100.

Mr. Snell declared that in the main the Republican organization got the best of the rules fight, which was forced by the insurgents as a condition to their voting for Speaker Gillett for re-election. The Democrats and insurgents, by forming a coalition, he pointed out, succeeded in having the Underwood rule, which restricted amendments from the floor to tariff and revenue bills, repealed, but they failed to muster enough votes to gain their point on the provision for discharge of committees.

The House adopted today one amendment proposed by Representative Moore of Virginia, providing that rules reported by the Rules Committee cannot be put to a vote in the House within twenty-four hours unless two-thirds of the House members voting so decide. This restriction, however, would not hold during the last three days of a session.

With its new set of rules in force the House will resume consideration of the Interior Department appropriation bill tomorrow.

Mr. Snell has given assurance that the Rules Committee will consider other proposals for amendments to rules, with the view of presenting a report to the House at a later date.

SCHURMAN IN SPEECH GIVES CHINA WARNING

Minister Declares That American Lives and Property Must Be Protected.

PEKING, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—The United States must insist upon protection for American lives and property interests in China and hold that republic to a strict fulfillment of its treaty obligations, Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, American Minister to China, declared today in an address at a luncheon of the American Association.

CHANDELIER BRINGS $1,600.

Total for Second Session of Garland Art Sale Is $35,347.50.

The total sum for the second session of the sale of the James A. Garland collection at the American Art Galleries yesterday was $35,347.50. Much interest was shown in the Swiss stained glass, all of which brought good prices. The top price, however, was paid for a suivre dore and rock crystal chandelier of the Louis XVI. period, which was bought by Charles of London for $1,600. A set of ten carved rosewood chairs of provincial Spanish Eighteenth century, were bought by W. W. Seaman for $1,800.

The chandelier is said to be one of the finest of the kind ever brought from France to this country. It is balloon-shaped with the lower mid-tier of cuivre dore supporting eight acanthus lead-scrolled arms, hung with myriads of different pendent festoons of rock crystal, cut in the form of pears, lozenges and varied faceted beads. The mid and upper canopies are scrolled with further acanthus leaves and are gracefully festooned with fine faceted drops. The arms and canopies have been fitted with electric candles.

The final session of the sale will be held today.

FUQUA NOW IN THE LEAD.

Latest Louisiana Primary Returns Put Him Ahead of Bouanchaud.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18.—Leadership in the race for the Gubernatorial nomination in last Tuesday's Democratic primary changed again tonight, when virtually complete returns placed Henry L. Fuqua, former Superintendent of State Prison, ahead of Lieut. Gov. Bouanchaud Hewitt by 269 votes, according to figures compiled by The Times Picayune. Huey P. Long, the other candidate, was third.

Mr. Bouanchaud gained the lead last night. He issued a formal statement tonight, asserting that he would enter a second primary with Mr. Fuqua.

Halts Cuts on Food Express Rates.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The Interstate Commerce Commission temporarily held up today its recent decision ordering a reduction in express rates on foods. The reductions, which were to have been effective Feb. 21, ranged up to 11 per cent. Express companies have been ordered to change slightly the methods of fixing rates, and this decision was not affected by today's action.

Pinchot Gives His Bill to Borah.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania has turned over to Chairman Borah of the Senate Labor Committee his bill proposing drastic Federal regulation of the anthracite coal industry, which Senator Pepper, Republican of Pennsylvania, declined to introduce. Mr. Borah is expected to introduce it next week.

Northampton Forms Coolidge Club.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 18.—One hundred leading citizens of Northampton, President Coolidge's home city, organized tonight a Coolidge-for-President club, with the declared purpose of enrolling the entire population. Judge Edward L. Shaw, who studied law with the President years ago, was elected President of the club. The women of Northampton have planned a similar organization for women voters.

CALIFORNIA LAWS SEND JAPANESE EAST

Oriental Farmers Find Openings in Many Other States—West Seeks White Tillers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—Japanese farmers, forbidden by a California law to own or lease agricultural lands or to work them on a crop-sharing basis, are turning toward Eastern and Middle Western centres of population, local Japanese say.

California, in turn, is looking to the East and Middle West for thousands of white farmers to purchase, lease or work lands forced away from Japanese tillers. Throughout the State ways of attracting farmers are being discussed. The land offered includes some of the richest soil in the State.

California alien land law is said to have affected more than 30,000 Japanese, who, until the Fall, were employed on California lands under crop-sharing contracts. Tens of thousands of highly productive acres were involved.

The immediate effect of the decision, it was said at the Japanese Consulate and the Japanese Chamber of Commerce here, was for representatives of the Japanese to be sent into Eastern States to survey the agricultural situation. The survey was reported to have indicated that many Japanese could find profitable employment as truck gardeners in districts surrounding the large cities. It also was learned that in most of these districts Japanese could lease or buy land without restriction.

The big land owners of California have been hit the hardest. In many quarters the breaking up and sale of big estates is forecast.

MAGNUS QUITS MILKING; 'MY WIFE WON'T LET ME'

Senator May Accept Maryland Woman's Challenge When His Spouse Returns Home.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—No more milking contests for Senator Magnus Johnson—at least—not until Mrs. Johnson goes back to the farm next Summer.

The Senator announced today that for highly personal reasons he would be unable to accept the challenge to a contest isued yesterday by Miss Mary E. W. Risteau, a member of the Maryland House of Delegates.

"Mrs. Johnson has put her foot down on any more contests like the one with Secretary Wallace, which I did not lose," he said.

"Not because of the publicity, but she says I use poor marksmanship. She says I get more milk on my clothes than in the bucket, and she's tired of cleaning my clothes.

"So I don't think I'll accept the lady's challenge now, but if she'll wait till next Summer, maybe. I am not so good as a milker, but I hate to back down. When Mrs. Johnson goes back to the farm next Summer I can do as I please. So maybe I will accept then."

FALL NOW ANNOUNCES HE IS OUT OF POLITICS

He Hopes to Take 'That Ocean Voyage Soon' and to Spend His Life Traveling.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18.—Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, stated here today that he was through with politics.

"I'm out of politics," he declared. "I'm going to spend the rest of my life traveling around and" with a twinkle—"hiding out, just as I have been hiding out. I hope to take that ocean voyage soon."

"The investigating committee has been on the job for many months and has not produced a shred of evidence," Mr. Fall said. "Even the innuendo witnesses are breaking down. One of them, for instance, testified that I had at one time told him that I was broke and a few years later bought a large ranch in New Mexico. He admitted being a bitter political enemy of mine."

CZARISTS SENT TO PRISON.

Former Prison Officials, Accused of Brutality, Get Light Sentences.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Jan. 18.—Unexpectedly light sentences were given today at the trial of a number of prison authorities of the Czarist régime, accused of brutality to political prisoners. Two received light sentences, commuted to ten years; two others five years; one, five years, commuted to release on probation; one three years and one acquittal.

Nevertheless, the final witness for the prosecution, a Communist named Glin sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment in 1910 for the assassination of a factory manager who had proclaimed a lockout, had painted a terrible picture. He told how prisoners arriving at the Orlofski Central Prison—where a number of the accused men are held—were immediately stripped and beaten into insensibility.

Director Semashko Solodovnikof prided himself on his ability to stun a prisoner by a buffet in the face, according to the witness. Once he lined up forty men and went down the line knocking out one after another. A jailer of small stature used to stand on the third step of a staircase which prisoners were forced to pass and lash them with a whip.

A word of defiance meant twenty days' confinement in a dark cell in the damp, airless foundation of the building. Every day two or three prisoners died or committed suicide. When death, or apparent death, occurred, the prison doctor, Ricklinski—sentenced to five years today—used to say loudly: "He's only shamming," and thrust a lancet deep into the temple, adding: "This will show him really dead."

At Christmas and Easter, said Glin, prisoners of non-Orthodox faith such as Jews, Mohammedans, Lettish Lutherans, &c., were beaten repeatedly until they agreed to join the Orthodox faith.

ACTOR SEEKS BOOK BAN.

Morris Haskoff Accuses London Publisher of Impugning His Origin.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Maurice Moscovitch, an actor, brought an injunction suit today against Cecil Palmer to restrain him from printing and distributing the book, "Letters of An Unsuccessful Actor," in the ground that it contained the false statement that Moscovitch was a German called Rosen who had thought it advisable to change his name.

The plaintiff, whose real name is Morris Haskoff, filed an affidavit to show he was born of Russian parents in Odessa and that he was a naturalized American citizen. The Judge suggested that the mere bringing of the action might have achieved its purpose, but counsel for the defendant procured adjournment in order to put in evidence.

WETS WIN YALE VOTE.

Plurality for Modified Law—Repeal Vote Close to Bone-Dry's.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 18.—A ballot on prohibition giving opportunity to express preference on one of three questions prepared by The Yale News and tabulated today showed a plurality for modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The vote, taken from the faculties, the undergraduate and graduate schools, showed a total of 982 for modification, 585 for enforcement and 536 for repeal.

DEMOCRATS SELECT GARDEN OFFICIALLY

MORA IS PLACED IN CHARGE

Director of San Francisco Convention to Work on Arrangements With Lewis E. Pierson.

The Democratic National Committee, through a sub-Committee on Arrangements, gave formal approval yesterday to the selection of Madison Square Garden as the place for the Democratic National Convention, and selected the Waldorf-Astoria as its headquarters during the convention period.

Cordell Hull, Democratic National Chairman, said he was delighted with Madison Square Garden as a convention hall, and approved the proposal to increase its seating capacity from 13,000 to 20,000. He added that he was impressed by the enthusiasm of the New York National Convention Committee, and declared that with the co-operation of all concerned it would be the best convention in the history of the Democratic Party.

Mr. Hull has established headquarters of the Democratic National Committee at the National Democratic Club, 233 Madison Avenue. These headquarters will be transferred to the Waldorf-Astoria on June 1. Mr. Hull also engaged rooms in the Madison Square Hotel, 37 Madison Avenue, adjacent to Madison Square Garden, for meetings of the Convention Committees on Resolutions, Credentials, Rules and Permanent Organization.

Committee Has a Busy Day.

The members of the Committee on Arrangements of the Democratic National Committee put in a busy day, visiting Madison Square Garden in the morning and devoting the entire afternoon to a business meeting. The members of this committee in addition to Mr. Hull are Norman E. Mack of New York, Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, George White of Ohio, Clark Howell of Georgia, Samuel B. Amidon of Kansas, Isidore B. Dockweiler of California, J. Bruce Kremer of Montana, Charles Boeschenstein of Illinois, Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of Missouri, Charles A. Greathouse of Indiana, Walter Moore of Alabama, Mrs. B. A. McDougal of Oklahoma and Frank Hague of New Jersey.

This committee was met by a group of the local convention committee consisting of Joseph P. Day, Chairman; Morgan J. O'Brien, George E. Smith, Herbert Bayard Swope, Kenneth O'Brien, Stanley J. Quinn and John I. Young. Both groups then went to Madison Square Garden, where they were met by George L. ("Tex") Rickard, manager of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, and several engineers.

Mr. Rickard's proposal that the platform be erected in the middle of the north side against the long wall that runs along Twenty-seventh Street, with an apron extending into the hall, was accepted. The press gallery with 712 seats, will be on each side of this apron and a bandstand will be erected on the opposite side of the hall. James Preston, in charge of the Senate press gallery, who has had charge of the press arrangements at many conventions, said that the proposed arrangement would be excellent.

Galleries to Be Extended.

The existing galleries will be built out all around the Garden to increase the seating capacity to 20,000. Mr. Rickard promised to turn over the Garden to the Democratic National Committee on June 1, which will give twenty-four days to make the alterations, which the engineers declared sufficient.

Arrangements are being made to have the speeches, as they are delivered, sent broadcast from twelve radio stations. Telegraph offices will be established in the basement and it is proposed to stop street traffic in the immediate vicinity to give delegates and visitors to the convention unobstructed entrance.

"We are going to make this the greatest convention in the history of the Democratic Party," Mr. Hull said upon his return to the Waldorf-Astoria. "We are all impressed by the enthusiasm and eagerness that has been manifested by the New York committee, by Mr. Rickard and every one concerned. We find the arrangements desirable in every way."

"Democrats all over the country are delighted with the selection of New York," said Mr. Mack.

Mr. Dockweiler, who fought hard to have the Democratic National Committee select San Francisco, attributed the defeat of his efforts to the popularity of Mr. Mack. "It was the first time in twenty-four years that Norman Mack ever asked for anything," he said. "When he asked that New York get the convention, that settled it."

George F. Mara to Be in Charge.

Mr. Hull announced that George F. Mara of Connecticut, who made the arrangements for the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco in 1920, would have charge of arrangements for the New York convention as his personal representative. Stanley J. Quinn, assistant to Lewis E. Pierson, President of the Merchants' Association, will co-operate with Mr. Mara on behalf of the local Convention Committee, of which he is Vice Chairman.

At the afternoon meeting of the Committee of Arrangements of the Democratic National Committee detailed plans were discussed, and the following committees were appointed:

Press Arrangements—Clark Howell of Georgia, Norman E. Mack of New York and Charles Boeschenstein of Illinois.

Transportation—Mr. Boeschenstein, Isidore B. Dockweiler of California and Walter Moore of Alabama.

Badges—Charles A. Greathouse, Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of Missouri, Mr. Dockweiler and Samuel B. Amidon of Kansas.

Committees on personnel and tickets will be named at a further meeting today.

Mr. Mara announced after the meeting that he would open an office in the tower of Madison Square Garden by next Wednesday and that all allotment of rooms for State delegations would be made through him. "The Waldorf-Astoria will be reserved for the National Committee, the press and distinguished individuals," he said. "No State delegations will be housed there. The allocation of rooms to State delegations will be made immediately after a conference with a committee of the Hotel Men's Association, at which I will tell them what we want and they will tell me what they have."

The Society of Restaurateurs, in a statement issued by Paul Henkel, pledged themselves to follow the example of the Hotel Men's Association and to refrain from raising their rates during the convention. The society has selected Monday, March 10, as the day on which they will contribute a percentage of their receipts to the convention entertainment fund.

"The 12,000 restaurants of New York City can easily accommodate two or three hundred thousand additional visitors," Mr. Henkel said.

Mayor Hylan, who had previously expressed satisfaction over the selection of New York City, sent a lette rto Rodman Wanamaker, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Reception to Distinguished Guests, suggesting a conference of organizations interested in the success of the convention and pledging the co-operation of the City Administration.

The Mayor's Letter.

The letter follows:

Jan. 17, 1924.

My dear Commissioner Wanamaker:

We rejoice that New York has been selected as the city in which the National Democratic Convention will be held in June.

Regardless of party affiliations every citizen should be proud of this fact. It means an opportunity for us to boost New York. It means that thousands of visitors will come to our city. It means that millions of dollars will be spent here. It offers an opportunity for us to show our visitors the wonders of the greatest city in the world.

Immediate consideration should be given to the development of a policy and the making of official plans for the reception of the visitors. Once a plan has been adopted it should be carried out without interference. It is my desire, in so far as it concerns the city, that any arrangements that are made in this connection should be through one official agency, and for this purpose I designate the Mayor's Committee on Reception to Distinguished Guests, of which you are Chairman. This committee has brought a great deal of credit and honor to the city because of the splendid and intelligent manner in which official receptions have been conducted since I have been Mayor.

It might be well if you hold a conference in the immediate future of the various organizations in this city that were active in bringing the National Democratic Convention to New York City.

Departments of the City Government will co-operate with and work through your committee.

I know that I am placing upon your shoulders a very arduous task but I feel quite certain that you will respond in the same self-sacrificing manner that you have always shown when called upon to perform any civic duty that will bring honor and glory to the City of New York.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

Mr. Hull and the other members of the Democratic National Committee in town were entertained last night at an informal dinner at the National Democratic Club. The committeemen also were invited to a luncheon by the Merchants' Association at the Hotel Astor on Jan. 25.

JOHNSON CHARGES MIRAGE IN TAX BILL

Californian Says the Administration Is Using It as a Cover for Other Defects.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—In two Chicago speeches tonight Senator Hiram W. Johnson attacked the Coolidge Administration's handling of the Mellon tax-reduction plan more bitterly than he has done in his previous platform appearances since he became a candidate for President.

These, boiled down, are some of the descriptions which he applied to the subject:

"A false political issue."

"Cuttlefish ink in the political waters."

"An appeal to cupidity."

The Senator spoke to a large meeting at the Broadway Armory in the uptown section, and later at the Wendell Phillips High School, on the South Side, where the audience was largely colored.

In general he followed the lines of his Cleveland talk, the first big speech of his campaign. He denounced the Administration's political organization and the "rotten borough" decision of the Republican National Committee. The soldiers' bonus he said, was no longer debatable. He condemned the sale of arms to Obregon, demanded assistance for the farmer, and combated all suggestion of compromise on the decision to keep aloof from the League of Nations.

"In olden days," he said at the Broadway Armory meeting, "when exactions and tyranny produced unrest and discontent which threatened internal dissention or revolution, kings invariably adopted the method of diverting or distracting the discontented and restless subjects by amusing them with foreign wars.

"In our day the modern policy for distracting and diverting the people, a little more subtle and perhaps more efficacious than in the olden times, is by appealing to cupidity, and in the persuasive lure of material gain, causing all else to be forgotten. The philosophy of some powerful politicians today is that the jingle of the guinea helps the hurt that honor feels and that the national conscience may be dulled, even dismissed, by the hope of money profit.

"I do not quarrel with the political strategy which transmutes what obviously had to be done and would be done into an entirely new discovery. I do not even criticize the other side of this contest for creating a beautiful mirage with a tax program which is designed to blind our people to everything domestic in character and obliterate the memory of our lack of foreign policy. The strategy, doubtless, from the standpoint of playing the game, is perfect. Is our intelligence sufficient to understand it?

"There can be no political issue on reduction of taxes. Everybody would reduce the expenditures of Government to the least possible sum, and collect from people only that sum.

"To inject tax reduction as a false political issue into a ccampaign is to cuttlefish the political water so that nothing else may be seen.

"Let me ask the newspapers crying so loudly for the Mellon plan, the organizations that have been stimulated into activity for it without understanding it, and all the propagandists of big business, if you had to choose between reductions on small incomes and reductions on large incomes, how would you stand? I venture the assertion that if the reduction of taxation of small incomes only were involved there would be no propaganda, no pretended political issue about tax reduction.

"I am well aware that our opponents have relegated international affairs to the obscurity of the State Department, and with their overwhelming power of publicity would have an inevitable tax reduction as a smoke screen hiding foreign policy. An enlightened public opinion must rend the veil and clear the atmosphere, for inextricably interwoven with taxes is foreign policy."

Senator Johnson branded the sale of arms to the Mexican Government as "immoral if not illegal." He will speak tomorrow night at Evansville, Ind.

BAKER RIDICULES CANDIDACY

Former War Secretary Says Presidency Is Furthest From His Mind.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 18.—Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, laughed when he read a dispatch from St. Petersburg, Fla., that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President.

"Nothing is further from my thoughts than a candidacy for any political office," he said.

The St. Petersburg dispatch gave Milton Young, Mr. Baker's former secretary, as authority for the story.

Mr. Baker issued the following statement:

"Mr. Young was my secretary when I was Mayor of Cleveland. He and I are warm personal friends, but I have had no communication with him of any kind for a year.

"Nothing is further from my thoughts than a candidacy for any political office. My chief interest in the next campaign is for a sound foreign policy, and I am giving all my time to advocacy of entrance by the United States into the League of Nations."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 18.—Milton Young, secretary to Newton D. Baker when he was Mayor of Cleveland, stated today that Mr. Baker will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President.

Leg Shortened, Gets $16,500.

Albert Mahler, 35 years old, of Irving Street and Queens Avenue, Flushing, obtained a verdict for $16,500 in the Supreme Court in Queens yesterday against the Brooklyn City Railway Company. On Nov. 11, 1922, Mahler was driving a delivery wagon at Gates and Reid Avenues, Brooklyn, when a trolley car bumped his wagon against another truck. Mahler's right leg was broken and is now six inches shorter than his left leg.

A Spiritual Interpretation of Life

With differences of opinion cleaving the ranks of the church, with some holding one religious belief and others another religious conviction, many are seeking an adequate definition of religion.

"Religion is something more than all the organizations that have tried to incarnate its purposes," says one great theologian. "Religion is the human spirit by the grace of God, seeking and finding an interpretation of experience that puts sense and worth, dignity, elevation, joy and hope into life."

1 KILLED, 4 WOUNDED BY BULLETS IN A DAY

THREE GET $4,572 PAYROLL

Hold Up Five in Office and Escape With Wage Envelopes—Three in Fight Reported Dying.

One man was killed and four were wounded in shooting affrays yesterday in Manhattan and Brooklyn. Three of the wounded were reported dying last night in hospitals. While revolvers were active elsewhere, three masked men escaped with $4,500 in a payroll hold-up in the East New York section.

Three of the wounded came from a group of four who engaged in a pistol fight at Third Avenue and Carroll Street, Brooklyn. The fourth man escaped, but was wounded, according to the police. A trail of blood led the police to two of the wounded men.

The scene of the shooting was in the heart of one of Brooklyn's Italian quarters. When the police arrived they learned that the quarrel had been followed by a pistol battle during which Joseph Gerammone, 23 years old, of 276 Third Avenue, dropped wounded to the street. The other three men fled down Third Avenue. Dr. Bradwell of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital reported Gerammone in a critical condition from a bullet that clipped his lung. Detectives of the Bergen Street station followed blood stains on the pavement to Gowanus Canal where they learned that two wounded men had sought refuge at 578 Clinton Street.

Breaking in the door the detectives found Matteo Dagarro, 29 years old, shot through the mouth, and Angelo Severino, with a bullet through the left lung. They were sent to the Long Island College Hospital.

Seek Elevator Man in Slaying.

Samuel Conci, while clearing away débris from the third floor of the shoe factory of J. and F. Cousins at 369 DeKalb Avenue, Brooklyn, was shot six times by an unidentified man. Conci died last night in Cumberland Street Hospital.

The police said they were searching for John White, elevator operator in the factory, to question him. They reported his disappearance and said that he had threatened action unless jesting workmen stopped giving him false rings for the elevator. White, said the police, was called to the third floor shortly before noon, but found no one there. At approximately the same time the six shots were fired.

The manner in which Patrick Smith, 44 years old, former saloon owner, living at Mills Hotel 3, Seventh Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street, was wounded was cloaked in mystery. He was shot in the abdomen and was taken to Bellevue Hospital early yesterday morning by three companions. The police refused to make public the names of two of his companions, or the name of the taxicab driver who took them to the hospital. John Durk of 418 East 153d Street, one of Smith's friends, was questioned and then taken to the wounded man's bedside, where Smith, refusing to discuss the shooting, denied that Durk had done it, adding, "he's my pal."

Smith was found lying wounded in front of a restaurant at 249 West Forty-eighth Street and, according to Durk's story, Smith was wounded after an all-night tour of Greenwich Village haunts. Durk said that the shooting occurred after they had been refused admittance to the restaurant and while they were on their way down the street. Durk told the police that he was not looking when the shot was fired. The police expressed the belief that the shooting resulted from a quarrel among those in the party.

Get $4,572 Payroll.

Max Govern, one of the partners in the Ashford Plumbing Supply Company, 567 Ashford Avenue, Brooklyn, drew $4,572 from the Globe Exchange Bank, 36 Graham Avenue, for his payroll yesterday. Miss Sarah Kupfer, cashier and bookkeeper, had filled 102 of the 120 pay envelopes, when three masked and armed men entered. They ordered Govern and H. Reich, his partner, to back against the wall and say nothing. Miss Kupfer was pushed over to join them. Harry and Meyer Reich, sons of H. Reich, were advised not to move. The hold-up men then crammed the envelopes into a canvas bag and escaped.

Seven men, several of them armed, held up the saloon of James Barnett at 406 Rogers Avenue, Brooklyn, and escaped with $200 in cash and $200 in jewelry on Wednesday night. A report was not made until yesterday. One of the robbers impersonated a waiter to cover the operations of his colleagues.

FINDS HER SON, 72, IN JAIL.

Jersey Mother, 92, Hadn't Seen Wandering "Boy" in 20 Years.

A 92-year-old mother embraced her 72-year-old son in the Raymond Street jail in Brooklyn, yesterday, after a separation of twenty years.

It was through a newspaper item reporting George Doty's arrest Dec. 7, for breaking a shop window and stealing a phonograph that Mrs. Margaret Lateer of Branchville, N. J., learned of the whereabouts of the son who went on a carpentering job to Brooklyn twenty years ago and never returned.

When Doty was arraigned before County Judge Franklin Taylor charged with taking the phonograph from Max Mandell's store, 257 Washington Street, he moved the Judge by telling of how his skill as a carpenter went for nothing; that he was refused work because he was too old. The Judge remanded him for sentence Jan. 21.

Doty's story was published in the newspapers and Mrs. S. C. Laurence of Branchville read it to her aged friend, Mrs. Lateer.

"I was once married to a man called Doty and I had a son, George," Mrs. Lateer commented. "I last saw George twenty years ago."

The two women decided to write to Warden Honeck at the Raymond Street jail, who replied that a man of the description given was there.

The aged mother made the journey yesterday from Branchville, carrying $25 in cash, a box of chocolates and a pair of slippers for her son. Both gave way to tears when they met. Finally Mrs. Lateer asked: Where's the thimble?"

"Here it is," replied Doty, taking from his pocket a silver thimble which his great-grandfather, when he died, gave to Doty's father, a drummer boy in the Civil War. Doty inherited the keepsake on his father's death. It was considered an heirloom and Doty was told never to part with it.

Before returning to Branchville Mrs. Lateer said she intended to be in court when Doty comes up for sentence Monday and would ask for a suspended sentence so that he could come home and live with her.

SEEKS TO DISSOLVE POULTRY 'COMBINE'

Hayward Charges Protective Association Is for Purpose of Fixing the Price.

TEMPORARY STAY IS ASKED

Petition Alleges That Those Who Ignore the Body's Edicts Are Boycotted.

A petition in equity filed yesterday in the Federal Court seeks the dissolution of the Live Poultry Dealers' Protective Association on the ground that it was organized and is operated for the purpose of fixing the price of poultry. It is also alleged that the membership of the association is so large that the price set by its Price Committee affects all of the factors in the trade from the producer to the ultimate consumer in all of the large cities.

For more than a year complaints had been received by the Federal authorities of the conditions under which the chicken market was operated, of the high prices demanded, of the manner in which retail dealers became members of the association, and of methods used to compel their obedience to the price orders sent out by the association.

The petition was filed by order of United States District Attorney William Hayward, but the facts were gathered by Major David A. l'Esperance, a special assistant to the Attorney General, who has been engaged in the work since last Summer. While the petition names only the officers and principal members of the association, all of the members are made defendants.

Major l'Esperance said that more than $50,000,000 worth of poultry comes to this city every year and that it is sold at prices established and announced by the defendant association, which are telegraphed to the trade over a large part of the United States. It is also alleged that the members of the association have entered into agreements to boycott all commission men who have failed to observe the prices fixed by the association.

It was explained that the present proceeding is brought for the purpose of obtaining prompt relief for the public through a temporary injunction restraining a continuance of the alleged illegal practices of the association. Argument will be heard Jan. 25.

"It is the purpose of this proceeding," said Colonel Hayward, "to re-establish lawful conditions in the conduct of the poultry trade which affects so many citizens. The investigation has developed certain purely local conditions, not within the Federal laws, which indicate that further inquiry into purely local commerce in poultry might be deemed desirable by the District Attorney, and these conditions will be brought to the notice of District Attorney Banton for his consideration, and every assistance will be rendered him by this office."

Samuel Goldstein of 970 Longfellow Avenue is President of the association; David Hirschhorn, 301 Powell Street, is Vice President; Julius Kastein, 137 Broome Street, is Secretary; Jacob Reisner, 519 Water Street, is Assistant Treasurer, and Mendell Gordon, 276 Union Street, Financial Secretary.

Affirms W. J. Robinson's Conviction

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The Court of Appeals handed down today a decision affirming the conviction of Dr. William J. Robinson of New York City on the charge of causing obscene literature to be sold in New York State in 1920. In the original indictments against Dr. Robinson, it was set forth that the book complained of, published in London by Dr. Marie Carmichael Stopes, had been sold by agents of Dr. Robinson. He was convicted and fined $250.

satisfied, have sought to co-operate with the commission and its work, and the violations detected have been comparatively few when it is taken into consideration that there are about 1,700 theatres in the State and that daily exhibitions are given in them.

"Many objectionable films are made and sent abroad for exhibition," the commission declares. "Foreigners, by reason of films of this character being shown, are given a false impression as to our country and its institutions. Frequent complaints have been made to this commission concerning abuses of this character. Poland, through its officials, claims that it was necessary for that country to enact a censorship law for the reason that the American films are very attractive to their people and had a tendency to incite them to crime. An agitation was started in Mexico to prevent the exhibition of our films due to the fact that the Mexican is always represented as a bandit or outlaw.

"These facts are not presented with the idea of indicting the industry as a whole for these abuses, but the fact that they should be remedied still remains. The majority of the producers, we are satisfied, are appreciative of their responsibility to the public, but in an industry of this character, which attracts such a variety of people, it is not strange that persons of questionable character should attempt to commercialize crime and vice.

"Another evil which has crept upon the screen is the dissemination of propaganda which is inimical to our institutions. The Department of Justice at Washington has taken cognizance of this fact, and is vigilant in watching particularly the foreign films which teach lessons which are destructive of the fundamentals of our Government. We have no power to prevent their manufacture without our borders but should prevent their exhibition within.

"The favorite argument that the regulation of the motion picture is destructive of the liberties of people and tends to restrict art has long since, in this State particularly, been proven to be without foundation. Only those portions of films which clearly violate the law are deleted. No State or country would have ever passed laws regulating the motion picture industry unless, as conceded by all reputable producers, abuses had crept into the industry and a necessity existed for their being remedied."

The board asked the amendment of existing laws so that the commission could impose in cases of willful violation an adequate penalty. Removal of the present uncertainty regarding the definition of educational, charitable or religious films was asked.

No mention is made of cases involving motion picture actors or actresses, but the commission suggests that power be given it to prevent exhibition of pictures in which "criminals or persons recognized to be of a debased character appear."

ARCHBISHOP CONDEMNS LOW FILM STANDARDS

Curley Favors Clean Sunday Amusements, but Objects to Unclean Pictures.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 18.—Bishop Curley has declared himself strongly opposed to the proposed bill to legalize Sunday movies, "not because they are movies but because they are such movies," in a letter to Mrs. Rufus M. Gibbs, Chairman of the Better Films Committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The Archbishop expressed himself heartily in favor of clean, honest amusement on Sunday, but declared that the present-day films exercised a deleterious influence on the public. In his letter the Archbishop says:

"There is nothing wrong in people going fishing, playing ball or taking other forms of exercise or amusement on the Sabbath, so long as they give part of the day to the sanctification of God." He adds:

"The moving pictures might be a very practical vehicle of education and amusement, but as a matter of fact the major impression made by the movies of today is that they are more destructive than constructive—they treat of illegitimate love affairs, of triangular situations, of marital infidelity and of sex problems ad nauseam." He concludes:

"Unless the producers are going to guarantee us something decent for Sunday at least, I do not see how I can favor the proposed bill. My position, as you will see from the above, is far from narrow, but I would prefer just now and in our present-day conditions some other form of recreation on Sunday than the Hollywood productions."

BUTLER'S MEN RAID PHILADELPHIA AGAIN

ARMORED CARS IN SERVICE

Director Starts Olympic Shooting Team, Reinstates Officer and Warns Debutantes on Liquor.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—With the second forty-eight-hour drive of General Butler's Safety Directorship, started at noon today, fruit stores, garages, poolrooms and stores were raided by the police and prohibition agents. Every one of the forty-two police districts was a hive of activity. The clang of police van bells resounded throughout the city and 150 of alleged violators were arrested.

General Butler put into service the six new bandit-chasing armored motor cars with bulletproof windshields and ordered the motorcycle patrol to be on continuous duty throughout the city. Lieutenant Fritz, aided by additional recruits, placed in position the outpost squads to head off bandits. The Director promised promotion to the first policeman who kills a bandit.

As in the first drive, the Director himself set the example for continuous action. Last night he laid out his plan of campaign and about 9 o'clock this morning, accompanied by Assistant Director Elliott, he made a whirlwind tour of the police districts.

One of the first things the Director did today was to lift the suspension of Lieutenant John J. Duffy and reinstate him in charge of his district.

General Butler went to the district station with Lieutenant Duffy and before all the patrolmen the Director apologized for his action and admitted he had made a big mistake.

"I came down to your district in my first drive and was informed that Duffy was taking the night off. I instantly ordered the suspension," he said.

"Investigation has shown that Lieutenant Duffy was not only on the job, but was conducting a series of raids somewhere in the district."

The formation of a crack Philadelphia police revolver team, to be entered in the Olympic games, was announced today by the General in connection with his policy to foster marksmanship. Every police station where space permits will have a shooting gallery and regular target practice.

In an address to the members of the Junior League of Philadelphia in the quarters of the Emergency Aid, the Generald told the young debutantes that they should advise their friends against having liquor in their homes, unless that liquor was bought before March, 1923.

He told them also that the new motto of the Police Department was going to be. "We don't make the laws; we enforce them." They offered their aid in the clean-up.

As a sequel to the meeting of Magistrates in General Butler's office yesterday, Magistrate Edward Carney issued a statement today threatening Mayor Kendrick with jail "if he is not more careful in his statements."

"He has no right to dictate who shall be elected or who shall run as candidate for office," said the Magistrate.

OBJECTS TO DIFFERENTIAL.

Chairman Outerbridge of Port Authority Sees Damage to New York.

Upon receipt of notification yesterday that the Interstate Commerce Commission had granted the application of the Port of New York Authority for permission to intervene in the complaint of the Traffic Association of the South Atlantic ports asking for an extension of the Baltimore differential on import rates, Eugenius H. Outerbridge, Chairman of the Port Authority, declared that it wos important for the Port of New York that the differential should not be extended.

"New York and New England ports have been progressively losing business formerly contributing to their prosperity because of the differentials against the Port of New York on export rates," Mr. Outerbridge said.

"If the complaint in which the Port of New York Authority has intervened should prevail, the import rate structure would appear as follows: Philadelphia, 2 cents per 100 pounds under New York; Baltimore, Norfolk, Newport News, Wilmington, N. C., Charleston, Savannah and Jacksonville, all 3 cents per 100 pounds under New York.

"It could be readily assumed that if differentials were extended so far, application would be immediately filed by all the Gulf ports for similar benefits. This is but the opening wedge. If successfully applied it will surely be followed by applications for differentials in export traffic to the grave damage to the export interests of New York."

GRAFF FELLOWSHIP TERMS.

Awards Are Open to Unmarried Graduates of Oxford and Cambridge

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

OXFORD, Jan. 18.—Information now available as to the Clarence Graff Fellowship founded "to foster a better understanding in Great Britain of the social conditions and currents of opinion in the United States and to establish friendly contracts" shows it is to be open to unmarried men, graduates of Oxford and Cambridge, for advanced study at institutions of learning in the region west of the Alleghany Mountains and east of the Rocky Mountains.

The Fellowship will be awarded through a committee, and those selected will be in a position to bring them in contact with and give them influence over a large and varied public.

The preference, therefore, will be given to candidates who have had a liberal university training and whose interests are humanitarian rather than commercial or narrowly scientific.

The Fellowship will be granted for a period of one year and will be tenable at any college or university in the region stipulated which may be selected by the candidate with the advice and approval of a majority of the committee of selection. It will carry a stipend of £250, plus the payment of tuition fees.

ENGINEERS' NEW OFFICERS.

L. P. Alford of this city and Colonel R. Gow of Boston have been elected Vice Presidents of the American Engineering Council, it was announced here yesterday by the President, former Governor James Hartness of Vermont.

Representatives of national engineering organizations have been chosen for the executive board, which, Mr. Hartness announced, would start a movement, with the co-operation of an advisory council representing about 100 other organizations, for the establishment of a Department of Public Works.

School Teacher Divorces Merchant.

GREB BEATS WILSON AND RETAINS TITLE

Middleweight Champion Gets Decision Over Challenger in 15-Round Bout.

11,093 PACK THE GARDEN

GREB WEIGHS ONLY 158½

Local Boxing Followers Surprised When Pittsburgh Fighter Scales Less Than Opponent.

Harry Greb, tireless boxer of Pittsburgh, still is the world's middleweight champion. In a fifteen round bout last night before a crowd of 11,093 persons at Madison Square Garden Greb fought his way to the decision over Johnny Wilson of Boston, former holder of the title. The crowd, which paid $50,737 to see the bout, received the decision with a wild demonstration of approval.

Greb clearly outpointed his rival. The speed and tireless aggressiveness of the champion proved too much for the Boston southpaw. Wilson fought one of the best bouts he has ever exhibited in a local ring. He tried hard all the way and never ceased in his efforts to score a knockout. Greb proved an elusive target, and, although subjected to a terrific body battering from Wilson's left, the champion not only survived the blows but with his own untiring aggressiveness and two fisted attack to the body and head scored enough points to win handily.

After fifteen rounds of typical Greb-Wilson fighting, Judges Patsy Haley and Billy Joh and Referee Eddie Purdy voted for Greb as the winner, a decision which elicited a spontaneous cheer of approval. Everybody was satisfied that Greb had demonstrated himself Wilson's master. Not even Wilson's stanchest supporters in the crowd questioned the verdict. There was no room for the slightest doubt as to the winner. About the most excited man in the house, however, when the decision was announced was Jimmy "Reddy" Mason, Greb's manager. Unable to restrain the emotions pent up during the progress of the battle, Mason, happy in the knowledge that Greb had retained his title, turned a handspring in the middle of the ring. Greb took the victory more modestly and with greater dignity. He sauntered half way across the ring to meet his defeated rival and clasped hands with Wilson, only his smile speaking his delight over his victory.

Greb Relies on Speed.

Greb's speed and his versatile, untiring, haphazard attack, which is characteristic of him, won the battle. Not a hard hitter, carrying less dynamic force back of punches with either hand than is packed in Wilson's wicked left, Greb fought a battle in which speed was the keynote and a reckless two-fisted assault the most effective feature.

Greb carried on an almost ceaseless fire without any particular sense of direction, but with undiminished speed throughout, and worked both hands like pistons to body and face alternately. Wilson, who seldom used his right, directed his left to the body almost exclusively. The difference in the effectiveness of the punches of the title rivals was shown as the pair left the ring. Greb, the conquering champion, was unmarked, although doubtless he was sore about the body from Wilson's concentrated fire with the left. Wilson, on the other hand, carried the marks of the battle. His mouth was bleeding, he had a cut under the left eye and his left ear spouted blood. Wilson presented a sorry spectacle contrasted to the apparently fresh Greb.

Greb's speed and tireless assault, even in the face of Wilson's hardest blows, won the champion the honors in nine of the fifteen rounds. The champion carried off the first and second, the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth and the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth. Wilson, fighting pluckily, won the third, fourth, fifth and sixth rounds, the part of the battle in which he concentrated his efforts and directed his entire strength in a supreme bid for a knockout. The eleventh and the twelfth rounds were even.

On the whole the battle was mediocre, as was more or less expected by those who went to the Garden with an intimate knowledge of the two boxers. For six rounds it was a bitter duel between two perfectly trained athletes, who crowded many exciting moments into their combined efforts. It was a brawl after the sixth, rather than a boxing contest; an exhibition of primitive struggling between two men who, although they fought cleanly and were observant of the rules at all times, nevertheless rendered a brand of fisticuffs which grated on the nerves of those seeking a skillful demonstration of boxing.

Wilson is an uninteresting, one-handed fighter. Greb's antics are more familiar in gymnastics than in boxing, although they have carried the Pittsburgher through many hard battles.

Greb Starts With Rush.

Greb started to make his advantage in speed manifest in the first round, when he outboxed Wilson, mainly through the use of a sweeping left, half-uppercut, half-swing, followed by a right to the face which upset Wilson's attack. Greb pressed his rival and was met not infrequently with vicious left digs to the body which hurt. Greb outhit Wilson two to one in this round, as he did in the second, although Wilson had more than ordinary success with his left swings as Greb rushed in.

In the third round Wilson discarded his timidity and sailed into Greb. The former champion carried this style of battle through the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds. With his heavy left to the body Wilson scored repeatedly and hurt Greb. This was evident in the fourth when Greb forgot his boxing manners long enough to poke the thumb of his extended left into Wilson's eye. A complaint from Wilson, however, induced Greb to return to modern boxing methods.

In the fifth Greb almost slipped as he lunged in on the attack after absorbing several of Wilson's terrific left drives to the body. Wilson fought hard for a decisive blow in the seventh and pressed Greb to the ropes under a body fire which would have crumbled a less hardy battler than Greb. Greb sought to stem the tide which was driving him to a steadied defensive and lashed out with lefts and rights without any particular target. But Wilson took the blows on his folded arms as he waded to close quarters and there pounded Greb's body with lefts and rights and sent the champion's head bobbing with snappy jolts to the face.

Greb Regains Offensive.

With the seventh round Greb was back on the offensive, and he held the lead thereafter to the finish. With full-arm right swings to the body, many of which landed in the region of the heart, the titleholder stung Wilson, and the latter's attack, at first faltering, quickly subsided. Greb carried the offensive through the eighth and made Wilson hold with right digs to the body. In the ninth the champion landed a right which drew the blood from Wilson's left ear. Another right in the tenth opened a cut under Wilson's left eye. The succeeding two rounds were tiresome and were notable only for the remarkable amount of clinching. In the thirteenth round, however, Greb returned to the offensive and repeatedly landed with a one-two left and right with which he several times grazed Wilson's chin. The fourteenth and fifteenth rounds were the fastest of the latter half of the battle and found Greb adding steadily to his margin on points over the tired Wilson.

Acting Mayor Hulbert Heads Democratic Delegation at Bout

Among those who saw the bouts in Madison Square Garden last night was Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert, heading a delegation of Democratic National Convention officials, whose main object was to see at first hand how big boxing crowds are handled there. With the Acting Mayor were Stanley Quinn of this city, Herbert C. Pell of Tuxedo, State Chairman of the Democratic Committee; Cordell Hull of Carthage, Tenn.; Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, George White of Marietta, Ohio; Joseph Duffy of Franklin, Pa.; Samuel Amidon of Kansas City, Bruce Kraemer of Butte, Mont., and Horner Cummings of Hartford, Conn.

In the semi-final bout of six rounds Tiny Jim Herman of Omaha and Jack McAuliffe 2d, Detroit heavyweight, fought a listless draw. Dave McGill, Irish heavyweight, won the decision over Leo Gates in the preceding six-round bout.

In a scheduled four-round battle which was an extra bout, Joe Stoessel, former amateur heavyweight, stopped Jim Hibbard in two rounds. Paul Berlenbach, former amateur middleweight champion, scored his twentieth consecutive knockout in the first bout scheduled for six rounds when he stopped Lew Chester of Brooklyn in the second round.

The opening bout of four rounds resulted in a decision for George West, English middleweight, over Paddy Flynn of Ireland.

GREB-WILSON BATTLE DESCRIBED BY ROUNDS

Blow by Blow Account of Fight for Middleweight Championship of World.

Wilson was the first to enter the ring. He received a warm reception from the crowd. Greb followed a minute later and also was well received. SEEKS GREB'S MONEY.

Provano Secures Injunction Restraining Payment of His Purse.

Supreme Court Justice O'Malley signed an injunction yesterday restraining Tex Rickard and the Madison Square Garden Sporting Club from paying Harry Greb $2,602 of his share of the proceeds of the bout with Johnny Wilson, or from making payment to James Mason, his manager, or Curtis H. Mitchell.

The injunction was obtained by Piero L. Provano, who got a default judgment for that sum against Greb in the Supreme Court on Oct. 5 last. Provano sued for the forfeit of $2,500 which Greb agreed to post for his bout with Jeff Smith at the baseball park at Atlanta, Ga., on July 13 last. He didn't show up for the bout, and a check signed by Mason as a forfeit was returned by a Pittsburgh bank for "insufficient funds." Provano alleged that he lost $10,000. He has been unable to collect anything from Greb.

BOARD UPHOLDS WILLS.

Connecticut Body Accepts Boxer's Reason for Calling Off Bout.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 18.—The State Athletic Board at a special meeting held in this city tonight considered the case of Harry Wills, who called off his scheduled bout with Jack Taylor on Jan. 25 because of an injury to his hand, and accepted Wills's excuse for not appearing. The board issued a statement, in which it said that it was convinced that Wills had sustained the injury as claimed and that he had notified the commission that he would appear in Hartford day after tomorrow for examination by a club physician. The board further stated that it was satisfied Wills would fulfill his contract with the American Legion, under whose auspices the bout was to have been held, as soon as his condition warranted.

DUNDEE TO BOX MORAN.

No Title Will Be at Stake in Bout at Garden on Feb. 1.

The next local ring appearance of Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight champion and holder of the junior lightweight title, will be at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 1, when he will engage Pal Moran, New Orleans lightweight, in a battle scheduled for fifteen rounds. Reports that this match had been signed were confirmed yesterday by Matchmaker Frank Flournoy at the Garden. Neither of Dundee's titles will be at stake, since the contract provides a weight agreement of 135 pounds, the lightweight notch. Moran cannot make 130 pounds.

If present plans materialize this will be Dundee's last bout here before he departs for Panama to box Jose Lomvardo, Canal Zone featherweight, with whom Dundee is tentatively matched for a bout on Feb. 22. Dundee plans to sail for Panama on Feb. 7 if the Panama promoters meet his financial demands. Dundee is said to be guaranteed $15,000.

MORAN-WAGNER FIGHT OFF.

Pugilist's Manager and St. Louis Promoter Disagree on Terms.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 18.—A scheduled ten-round bout between Pal Moran, New Orleans lightweight, and Eddie (Kid) Wagner of Philadelphia, to take place here tonight, was called off when Joe Golden, manager for Moran, and James C. Mullen, local promoter, failed to come to terms. The match between Ad Stone, Philadelphia, and Jack Clifford, St. Paul, light-heavyweights, also was canceled.

MAY MEET CARPENTIER.

Stribling and French Boxer Considered for Miami Bout.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 18.—Definite proposals have been made for a bout in Miami late in February between Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., and Georges Carpentier.

W. I. (Pa) Stribling, father-manager of the Macon fighter, has agreed to the match, and Ed Douglass, Miami promoter, who is staging the Tommy Gibbons-Chuck Wiggins fight Jan. 31, says he has had word that Carpentier would be in Florida in February and that negotiations were favorable for the match.

Young Stribling, accompanied by Pa and Ma Stribling and his training partner, arrived at Macon last night from a hunting trip in South Georgia, and the entire party will leave here this afternoon for Indianapolis, where the youth will finish training for his battle with Harry Fay of Pittsburgh next Monday.

Returning from Indianapolis, Young Stribling will meet Billy Shade in Atlanta one week later.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 18.—Harvard was able to boat a freshman crew on the Charles this afternoon. Coach Sam Shaw acted as coxswain, and under ideal Spring weather the oarsmen went down the river, passing a skating sign during their journey. Freeman Mosher, the veteran Harvard engineer, declared that this was the first time in his thirty-three years here that a Harvard crew has been on the river this early. He remembered one occasion in February, but the river was frozen over almost the next day. The four-oared varsity eight also rowed down stream.

DOG SHOW HONORS TO PRINCESS MARIE

Mother defeated son for the highest honors at the seventh annual specialty show of the American Spaniel Club, held yesterday in the roof garden of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The club trophy for the best sporting spaniel was awarded to the cocker spaniel bitch Princess Marie, by Lucky Durbar—Gold Girl, owned by J. Robinson Beard of the Lucknow Farm, South Norwalk, Conn., Vice President of the club.

Princes Marie defeated her son, the novice dog My Own Desire, by Red Brucie, bred and owned by H. E. Mellenthin of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Mr. Mellenthin shared the honors with both of the stars of the exhibition, as he was the breeder of both. Princess Marie, which is a little more than three years old, is a beautiful spaniel, with a wonderful head, nice muzzle, plenty of bone, and is a striking mover. She went through open to winners among the bitches of solid color and then on to best in the show. In addition to the club trophy Princess Marie won the Hildreth K. Bloodgood Memorial for the best cocker spaniel and the trophy for the cocker spaniel with the best head.

Signal honors were won by My Own Desire, which was whelped on Oct. 10, 1922. He won first in the novice class for black dogs, won in the class for American-bred dogs of solid color, won the limit class for black dogs and the open class for black dogs. In the last named he beat, among others, Champion Ecco and Champion Lucknow Lottery, it being the latter's first defeat.

In the specials he was placed next to his dam, carrying off the club trophy for the best of the opposite sex to the winner of the Bloodgood Memorial, winning the special for the best cocker spaniel in the novice classes and that for the best cocker spaniel dog.

W. E. Stoddart of Mount Kisco, N. Y., who officiated in the ring, making the awards in the regular classes and the many specials offered in the several varieties, pronounced My Own Desire one of the best black dogs he had ever seen. With a little more age it was predicted that he will develop into the best dog of his breed in the country.

The leading awards follow:

Clumber Spaniels.

Winners, Dogs and Bitches—Won by Brookside Kennels' Jennie's Girl of Ware; reserve, Mrs. Haley Fiske's Hempstead Prince of Overcross.

Winners, Bitches (Parti-color)—Won by the Mepal Kennels' Champion Mepal's Irene; reserve, Cassilis Kennels' Armede of Cassilis.

FENCERS' CLUB TEAM WINS.

Is Victor in First Annual Foils Competition for Cartier Cup.

The Fencers' Club team, composed of Rene Peroy, George H. Breed and Henry Breckinridge, won the first annual team foils competition for the Cartier Cup last night at the salle des armes of the J. Sanford Saltus Club, defeating the teams representing Columbia University and the J. Sanford Saltus Club. There were four teams originally entered in the competition, but the New York A. C. fencers were unable to take part because two of its members were ill.

In winning the cup for the first year the Fencers' Club won a total of sixteen bouts and lost only one to its opponents. The Fencers' Club trio defeated the Columbia team, 8 to 1. The losing team was composed of John Fuertes, Philip Farley and Harold Bloomer, the latter being the only man to win a bout against the victors. The Fencers' Club followed this up by defeating the J. Sanford Saltus Club, 8 to 0. The third team competition of the evening resulted in a victory for the J. Sanford Saltus Club, which defeated Columbia, 5 to 4. The winning team consisted of Herbert E. Twyeffort, Louis Bresson and Warren Dow. The latter won all his bouts and Twyeffort was victorious in two.

ST. FRANCIS FIVE WINS.

Beats Springfield Y. M. C. A., 24 to 19—Raye Stars for Victors.

The St. Francis College five defeated the Springfield Y. M. C. A. basketball team at the Loyola Hall, Brooklyn, yesterday, by a score of 24 to 19. St. Francis led at half time, 7 to 4. Both teams missed twelve foul goals and the game was played at a slow pace throughout. Raye was the star player on the winning side, scoring three field goals and two foul goals.

PENN SWIM TEAM BEATS COLUMIBA

Scores Second Victory in College League in Weightman Hall Pool, 41 to 21.

HOLST WINS TWO EVENTS

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—The Penn swimming team won its second intercollegiate League dual meet tonight when the Red and Blue defeated Columbia University in the Weightman Hall tank, 41 to 21. It was the first league meet for the team from Morningside Heights.

The Columbia team was weakened by ineligibility, for two of the best men on the squad did not make the trip. In most of the events victory was easily scored by the charges of George Kistler. Wright was among those under the faculty ban at the New York University.

Vic Holst, captain of the Penn team, was the only double winner of the night. He won both the 50-yard and 100-yard events in easy fashion. Holst also swam anchor man on the winning relay team, but was not forced to extend himself. Millicent was the only Columbia swimmer to win a first place. He showed remarkable form in the 150-yard backstroke, winning in the fast time of 2 minutes 8 7-10 seconds. Walker, a teammate of the winner, was second, while Bechtel of Penn took third.

Paul Chase of New York, Penn distance star, had little trouble in winning the quarter-mile swim. Chase has not been extended this year and his effort found him twenty-five yards ahead, with the time at 6 minutes 11 6-10 seconds.

Columbia easily won the water polo match from Penn, 55 to 4, the Red and Blue never having a chance. The victors scored eleven touch goals in the sixteen minutes of play. Judd, Columbia's goal tender, found time to swim up the tank and score four goals.

JOE LYNCH IS BEATEN.

Loses Newspaper Decision to McKenna at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18.—Eddie McKenna of New Orleans, according to sport writers, defeated Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion of the world, in a ten-round no-decision bout here tonight. McKenna staggered Lynch several times, but failed to follow up his advantage.

MALONE DEFEATS TODD.

Gets Decision Over English Middleweight in Ten-Round Bout.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—Jock Malone of St. Paul received the judges' decision in a ten-round bout with Roland Todd, English middleweight, here tonight. The decision was not well received by a section of the audience.

Billiard Results.

Edgar T. Appleby; international amateur 18.2 balkline champion, defeated Julian Rice in the seventh game of the Eastern Class A 18:2 championship at the Liederkranz last night by the score of 300 to 87. Appleby played in his best form. He went out in seventeen innings for the splendid average of 17 11-17. He made runs of 77 and 61. Rice's high run was 31. Tonight Edward W. Gardner of Montclair will be opposed to Jacob Klinger. Monday night Gardner will play Francis Appleby, the titleholder, and the Appleby brothers will meet in the final game Wednesday night.

Louis A. Servatius, J. Mills and H. J. Millwood were the winners of the three games played in the New York State amateur three-cushion championship at the Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night. Servatius defeated G. Hanrahan in a keenly contested game, 30 to 29. Servatius made the winning shot in the seventy-third inning. His high run was 3 and Hanrahan's was 5. Mills was the winner over H. Longnecker, 30 to 27, in sixty-seven innings. The winner's high run was 3, the loser's 4. In the third game Millwood defeated Alfred De Oro Jr. by the score of 30 to 27 in seventy-two innings, making a high run of 4, to 3 for his opponent.

T. Gill won the Class A game in the Bushwick Amateur League pocket billiard championship at Lawler's Academy, Brooklyn, last night, from W. Lang by a score of 75 to 61. Gill's high run was 21 and Lang's 17. In the Class B game D. Jacobs defeated M. Kramer by 75 to 49. The winner had a high run of 17 and the loser one of 14. T. Steiger won the second game in this class from R. Slack by 75 to 61. Steiger's high run was 18 and Slack's 16. The Class C game was won by M. Tilger from W. Hutchison by default. The novice game was won by C. Sanfino, who defeated M. Van Flyck by 50 to 29.

James Maturo defeated Frank Quinn in an exhibition pocket billiard match at Doyle's Academy last night by the score of 100 to 79. Maturo went out in 25 innings and made runs of 19 and 11. Quinn's high run was 11. In the three-cushion tournament at Doyle's George La Rue was the winner over Joe O'Sullivan by the score of 25 to 21 in 51 innings. La Rue made a run of eight, while O'Sullivan's high run was three.

George Barton and William Downs were the winners of the two games played in the snooker tournament. The former defeated Walter Wilke at 100 to 81 in two frames, making a high run of 44, to 18 for his opponent. Downs defeated Charles Shongood in a close match, 100 to 99. Downs went out in two frames and made a high run of 33. Shongood's high run was 28.

Willie Hoppe, world's 18.2 balkline champion, defeated Tadao Suganuma, junior title holder, in an exhibition played in preparation for his match with Young Jake Schaefer last night at the Hoppe Academy. The score was 300 to 79. Hoppe went out in 5 innings for an average of 60 and made runs of 150 and 92. Suganuma's high run was 59.

In the New York State amateur three-cushion game played at Cranfield's 145th Street Academy last night Edward Marshall defeated Morgan Hughes by the score of 35 to 30 in 48 innings. Marshall made a high run of 6 to 5 for his opponent.

H. Towlers defeated W. Kranzer in the New York State three-cushion tournament at Cranfield's Aademy last night by 35 to 16. The winner had a high run of 4 and the loser one of 3.

Olympic Swimming Tryouts To Be Held on June 5, 6 and 7

The final men's Olympic swimming tryouts will be held June 5, 6 and 7, instead of June 13 and 14, in the Broad Ripple pool at Indianapolis, the Amateur Athletic Union announced yesterday. The change was made because the original dates would not give the swimmers sufficient time to arrange for departure on the America, which will sail with the Olympic team on June 16. The rearranged program suggested includes the 100 and 1,500 meter events, free style, and springboard dive, on June 5; the 400 meters, free style, and 100 meters, backstroke, on June 6; the 200 meters, free style and backstroke, relay trials and plain and fancy high diving on June 7. The women's trials are scheduled for New York during the week ending July 14.

RAY WILL COMPETE IN TONIGHT'S GAMES

Strong Field to Oppose Chicago Star in Fordham Meet at 22d Regt. Armory.

Joie Ray, star middle distance runner of the Illinois Athletic Club, Chicago, will make his second indoor appearance in this city this season when he competes in the feature race at the annual Fordham University meet at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, 168th Street and Fort Washington Avenue, tonight. The Chicago flier will compete in a special mile invitation race against a field of six other star runners. Those who will oppose Ray in this event are Jimmy Connolly, Newark A. C. star, formerly of Georgetown University; Willie Goodwin, new metropolitan one-mile champion; Willie Sullivan of Georgetown, former holder of the metropolitan mile title; Walter Higgins of Columbia, former two-mile intercollegiate champion; George Marsters of Georgetown and Pat Kennedy of the La Rabida Council of the Knights of Columbus, who triumphed over Ray with the help of a forty-five-yard handicap in a 1,500-meter race in the Silk A. A. games last Wednesday night.

Ray paid a visit to Fordman University yesterday afternoon and was one of the speakers at a mass meeting held by the students to stimulate interest in tonight's games. The Chicago star assured the students that he was in fine condition for the race and was confident of winning. Willie Hoppe, world's billiard champion, also gave a short talk.

Several of the leading long distance runners of the district will be seen in action in the 5,000-meter race, one of the other features of the meet. Fred Wachsmuth of the Glencoe A. C., junior national cross-country champion, heads the list of entries for this event. Among those who will compete against him are George Cornetta of the New York A. C., John Costello, unattached; Mike Dwyer of the Mohawk A. C.; Vic Voteretsas of the Millrose A. A.; John Cain of the Paulist A. C.; Fred Yater of N. Y. U. and Charley Rapp of the Mohawk A. C.

Star athletes also will be seen in action tonight in several of the other events. A total of more than 500 entries has been received for the twelve open events.

Bob McAllister, the local sprint star, will try for a record in the 120-yard handicap dash. This will be McAllister's final appearance in running togs. Eddie Farrell of Fordham, Charley Carroll of the New York A. C. and Lew Rawlings will make up the rest of the field.

Tom Campbell, former captain of the Yale track team, heads a fine field for the quarter-mile handicap. Among the other stars in this event are Vernon Ascher, national quarter-mile champion; and Buck Farley of Loughlin Lyceum, metropolitan 440-yard titleholder.

Another feature race will be the college medley relay in which the strong Georgetown University quartet will be opposed by Columbia, Williams, Fordham and N. Y. U.

1,900 ENTRIES FOR MEET.

High School Athletes Will Try for P. S. A. L. Indoor Titles Today.

One of the most elaborate scholastic indoor track and field programs ever conducted here is scheduled for this afternoon at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, when the twenty-first high school championships will be held under the auspices of the Public Schools Athletic League. A combined program for students at junior high schools and senior high schools will be contested. More than 1,900 entries, one of the largest ever received for local schoolboy activities, is announced.

Because of the tremendous entry and the long list of events scheduled, it has been decided to start the afternoon's activities promptly at 1:30 o'clock, when the junior high school championships will get under way. The senior high school title events are scheduled to start at 3 o'clock. Many men prominent in the administrative departments of the State and city have accepted invitations of Dr. A. K. Aldinger, P. S. A. L. secretary, to attend the meet. Unusual interest is expected in the competition of Frank Hussey, Stuyvesant H. S. sprinting star, who was credited last Summer with sprinting 100 yards outdoors in 9 3-5 seconds.

FOUR TEAMS PLAY TONIGHT.

Squadron A's Polo Trios Will Have a Busy Evening.

Four indoor polo teams representing Squadron A will go into action tonight, three of them at the Squadron A Armory, Ninety-fourth Street and Park Avenue, and the other in Philadelphia. The feature game at the armory here will be between a Squadron A Class B combination and a team, similarly rated, from the Essex Troop. This game will be four chukkers in duration. The Class C and D trios of the Squadron A horsemen will then encounter teams from the Riding Club in two-chukker engagements.

Meanwhile, in Philadelphia, another Class B combination representing Squadron A will meet the First Cavalry Troop from the Quaker City. Lyons, Post and Klausner will make the trip for the Philadelphia engagement.

YALE TO PLAY CAVALRYMEN.

Indoor Polo Team Meets 101st Trio at Brooklyn Tonight.

Yale's indoor polo team will invade the metropolitan district tonight to meet the 101st Cavalry at the Brooklyn Armory. This will be the first game played between these two clubs. Yale's line-up is the same as that which last year defeated the British international team at New Haven and later won the intercollegiate championship.

OLD RIVALS MEET TONIGHT.

Princeton and Harvard Hockey Teams to Play in Baker Rink.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 18.—The Princeton hockey team will play the first game of the annual series with Harvard in Baker Memorial Rink tomorrow night. The Tigers completed today a week of strenuous preparation for the game. Harvard won the series last year.

HARVARD DEFEATS BROWN FIVE, 41-27

Scores Fifth Straight Basketball Victory, Outplaying Opponents From Start.

GORDON AND SMITH STAR

Crimson Pair Accounts for Twenty-eight Points—Chaffee Shoots Well for Losers.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 18.—Harvard won its fifth straight basketball victory defeating Brown, 41 to 27, tonight at Hemenway Gym. The Crimson five outplayed the visitors from the start, but showed up especially well in the second half, when the work of Captain Gordon and Smith featured. This pair scored twenty-eight of Harvard's points.

The Rhode Island quintet played best toward the close of the first half. The Harvard five, however, came back strongly in the second half, tallying on close shots and gving them a large lead.

Captain Wagenknecht and Chaffee, the latter shooting well, starred for Brown.

Harvard's next game is with Columbia here on Monday.

The line-up:

HARVARD (41).		BROWN (27).

PRATT FIVE BEATS DREXEL.

Wins Fifth Straight Game of Season on Home Court, 41-16.

The Pratt Institute basketball team won its fifth straight victory of the season last night when it defeated the Drexel Institute five on the Pratt court by the score of 41 to 16. At half time the winning team led at 23 to 6.

Drexel was outplayed all the way. Rupprecht made nine goals from field and three from the foul line, and Underhill tallied six times from the floor and once on a free throw. O'Neill and Cornell stood out on the losing team.

The line-up:

OLYMPIC COMMITTEE BARS MRS. MALLORY

International Body Officially Rules Tennis Star Cannot Play for United States.

CONTROVERSY IS SETTLED

Action Taken by Authorities in Declining to Waive Rule Is Final.

CANNOT PLAY FOR NORWAY

Marriage to American Makes Former Champion Also Ineligible to Represent Native Country.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, the former women's national lawn tennis champion, will not represent this country in the Olympic Games at Paris in July. The last word on the subject of the New York woman's eligibility to represent the United States was contained in a reply received yesterday by the United States Lawn Tennis Association to its request of the International Olympic Committee that the rule barring Mrs. Mallory be waived in the case of women and that the former titleholder be permitted to play. The International Olympic Committee officially notified the officers of the U. S. L. T. A. that the rule must stand and that Mrs. Mallory cannot play for this country. Because she competed for Norway, the land of her birth, in the 1912 Olympics, Mrs. Mallory is ineligible to represent any other country in the international games.

The official ruling brings to an end the controversy that has been going on for several weeks since it was discovered that the New York woman could not, under the rules, play for the country in which she has won the national championship six times since 1915. Because of the facts that Mrs. Mallory's game has been developed in the United States and that she has been a citizen of this country since her marriage to Franklin I. Mallory of this city in 1919, the United States Davis Cup Committee, which has full charge of the American Olympic tennis team, sent a request to the International Olympic Committee asking that the rule barring her be waived. It was pointed out that the rule worked a hardship in the case of women placed in Mrs. Mallory's position, and the United States Davis Cup Committee asked that in such cases the concerned be allowed to choose whether they would play for their native land or the land of their adoption.

Rule Must Be Applied.

The International Olympic Committee has decided that the rule msst be applied according to the letter of the law and without regard to the sex or the present home of the player under consideration.

When it was first revealed that Olympic rules made Mrs. Mallory ineligible to play for the United States, the New York woman declared that if she could not play for this country she would play for Norway rather than to be left out altogether. It is possible that she still holds to this intention, but Olympic rules bar her here again. A competitor must be a citizen of the country for which he or she competes.

Mrs. Mallory, by the statement of the Norwegian Consulate General's office, is no longer a citizen of Norway. In answer to a request made for an interpretation of the laws of citizenship in Norway, the consulate's office stated that a woman of Norway who marries a citizen of another country loses her citizenship in her native land. Mrs. Mallory herself declared that she did not know whether she was eligible to play for Norway but that if she could not play for the United States she would represent her native land unless barred from doing so.

Woman Without a Country.

The interpretation of the Norwegian Consulate General's office seems to make it plain that Mrs. Mallory is not eligible, and that so far as the Olympic games are concerned she is indeed a "woman without a country."

Mrs. Mallory has been invited by the United States Davis Cup Committee to accompany the Olympic tennis team abroad. It is not likely that the decision of the international body will have any affect upon the plans of the U. S. L. T. A. or of Mrs. Mallory personally in regard to her competing in the women's international team match in England in June between the United States and England, or in the Wimbledon championships prior to the Olympic tennis matches. The team will sail around the first of June.

Miss Helen Wills of Berkeley, Cal., will be the ranking member of the team unless she is unable to get a leave of absence from the University of California where she is a student. With Mrs. Mallory out of the play Miss Eleanor Goss of this city, who defeated Mrs. Mallory in the Middle States championship last September and who ranks third in the national rating, probably will be the second member of the combination, and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman of Boston and Miss Lilian Scharman of Brooklyn the two other members. Miss Wills, Miss Goss and Mrs. Wightman, who put up the cup for which the two teams play, were all members of the combination that defeated the English last Summer at Forest Hills in all five matches.

PENN SEXTET IN TIE GAME.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—In one of the most exciting hockey matches of the year, the Penn varsity and Princeton Alumni teams tied tonight at the Arena at 1 to 1. The only scoring came in the opening period. Murray of Penn tallied after nine minutes of play and ten seconds later Banes tied the score.

The line-up:

PENN (1).		PRINCETON (1).
Prince	R.W.	Crawford
Gray	L.W.	Banes
Warner	R.D.	Rue
Murray	L.D.	Waite
Caminez	G.	Neal

Goals—Murray, Barnes.

Substitutions—Penn: Emmerling, Crowell. Princeton: Gazzam, Jarrett, Wintersteen.

ALEKHINE TO PLAY TODAY.

Russian Chess Champion to Give "Blindfold" Exhibition.

Alexander Alekhine, Russian chess champion, will give his first exhibition in this country, limited exclusively to "blindfold" games, at the rooms of the Manhattan Chess Club, this afternoon. Ten players will oppose him, including five recognized experts selected for the purpose—M. A. Schapiro, H. M. Phillips, A. Schroeder, S. Katz and R. G. Warburg.

Radio Stations to Broadcast Results of Chamonix Events

PARIS, Jan. 18.—The results of the Olympic Winter sports competition at Chamonix will be made known to the world by the latest and most modern methods. Eleven minutes will be devoted daily by the Eiffel Tower broadcasting station for announcing the results, and at night a full summary will be given. Two other powerful stations also will give the results. A special corps of interpreters will be employed.

HINKLE BEATS BASS IN MET. TITLE PLAY

E. M. Hinkle of the Harvard Club defeated L. M. Bass of the University Club in the only match played in the Metropolitan squash racquets championship at the University Club yesterday. The score was 15-12, 15-10. The match was in the fourth round and the winner went into the semi-final, where he will meet L. McK. Miller of the Rockaway Hunting Club today. In the other semi-final A. E. Ells and H. E. Mills, both of the University Club, will meet.

Hinkle's victory over Bass was unexpected. The latter is the champion of Buffalo and defeated A. R. Shiland, who holds the championship of the Racquet and Tennis Club, in the third round. Hinkle played a fine brand of squash racquets, smashing everything and showing the best of control. His shots were very low and close to the side wall, giving his opponent all sorts of trouble in getting his racquet on them. Hinkle led all the way in both games and in the second game made five points before Bass scored his first.

Bass fought hard to win the first game. His footwork was commendable and he manoeuvred for position with clever changes of pace that Hinkle at times found puzzling. Ambitious court covering and a keen sense of anticipation enabled the Harvard man to hold his own and to keep the ball in play until his superior steadiness or a shot close along the side wall brought the rally to an end in his favor. Hinkle dominated the play all the way in the second game.

FINK TO OPPOSE LUCHARS.

New Jersey Squash Tennis Tourney Opens at Montclair Today.

The New Jersey squash tennis championship will begin today on the courts of the Montclair A. C. with an entry of sixteen players. Play will be continued tomorrow and there will be a recess until next Saturday, when the tournament will be brought to a close, if possible, or on the day after.

The draw follows:

R. Earl Fink, Crescent A. C., vs. R. B. Luchars, Montclair A. C.; W. B. Spencer, Montclair A. C., vs. Joseph Thoms, Essex County Country Club; R. E. Hughes, Montclair A. C., vs. J. F. Trounstine, Yale Club; Douglas M. Bomeisler, Yale Club, vs. B. H. O'Connor, Montclair A. C.; H. Victor Crawford, Yale Club, vs. Frank Hart, Essex County Country Club; H. V. Miller, Columbia University Club, vs. Harry F. Wolf, Montclair A. C.; Clyde Martin, Yale Club, vs. Frank A. Seller, Montclair A. C.; Thomas R. Coward, Yale Club, vs. J. G. Waldron, Montclair A. C.

SQUASH COURTS TO OPEN.

Kinsella and Cahill to Play Today at Fraternity Clubs.

Walter Kinsella, national open squash tennis champion, and Robert L. Cahill will open the new courts of the Fraternity Clubs at 22 East Thirty-eighth Street today when the two meet in the first of a series of matches planned for the promotion of athletics among the seventeen fraternities which have rooms in the building.

Kinsella will direct the athletics of the Fraternity Clubs, the Cornell Club and the four Allerton Club residences in New York, Chicago and Cleveland. The equipment for sports in these clubs includes handball courts, squash courts, boxing facilities and at the country club in Orienta Point, Mamaroneck, golf, swimming and outdoor tennis.

B. A. A. BEATS BERLIN SIX.

Scores Twice in Final Period for Only Goals of Hockey Contest.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 18.—The Boston A. A. Club Amateur Hockey League champions beat Berlin, 2 to 0, tonight at the Arena. There was no scoring in the first two periods, but in the third Ad Smith of the B. A. A. made a long, slow shot along the ice from the middle of the rink under Maltais. The Berlin goal keeper slipped up on one of the easiest chances of the match. Enright got the second goal on a long line shot.

The lineup:

B. A. A. (2).		BERLIN (0).
Campbell	L.D.	McLaughlin
Morrisey	R.D.	Dube
Enright	L.W.	Rivard

Goals—Smith, Enright.

Referees—Wiggett and Stewart. Goal umpires—Gezell and Beckwith.

YALE SEXTET DEFEATED.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 18.—Yale's hockey team was blanked 4 to 0 tonight by the New Haven Bears in the second game for the city title. The city players took the first game 5 to 1. The Elis were practically helpless before the contenders for the amatur national title, reaching Cox for only 9 stops during the evening, while the Bears peppered Jenkins for 18.

After Fred Lowry and Behan shot rapid-fire goals into the Yale netting during the first five minutes of play, New Haven used substitutes freely and did not drive a goal until Cully shot one past Jenkins as the referee's whistle blew. The score was disallowed.

In the last three minutes of play Lowry, who had re-entered the game, and F. Shay sent scoring shots into the netting. Captain Norman Shay and Lowry starred for the winners.

ARGENTINA WITHDRAWS.

SELLER TRIUMPHS IN SQUASH TENNIS

Defeats Cypiot in Postponed Class B Club Match by 2-15, 15-12, 17-15.

FOUR IN TIE FOR THIRD

Harvard, D. K. E., Montclair and Crescent A. C. Each Have Won 4 and Lost 3 Encounters.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	Won.	Lost.		Won.	Lost.
Columbia	6	1	Crescent	4	3
Princeton	5	2	N. Y. A. C.	3	4
Montclair	4	3	Yale	2	5
Harvard	4	3	Casino	0	8
D. K. E.	4	3

Frank A. Seller of the Montclair A. C. and E. P. Cypiot of the Crescent A. C. met in a long-postponed match at the Crescent A. C. yesterday to determine the winner of the contest between the two clubs in the Metropolitan Class B squash tennis championship. Owing to an injury received by Seller the match had to be put off and the interclub engagement ended in a 3—3 tie. Seller defeated Cypiot yesterday in a hard-fought three-game encounter after losing the opening chapter. The score was 2—15, 15—12, 17—15.

Seller's victory gave the club match to the Montclair A. C. and brought about a four-cornered tie for third place among the Harvard Club, D. K. E., Montclair and the Crescents. Each of the teams has won four games and lost three.

Seller was very slow in getting started and Cypiot ran away with the first game, allowing the Montclair representative only two points. Seller threw away point after point on errors, hitting low into the telltale and outside the boundaries. The New Jersey player found himself in the second game and the two men fought on even terms for the points, most of the rallies furnishing competition of the severest character. In the third game Cypiot played in the same manner in which he had at the outset and it seemed certain that he would win when he led at 14—7. He needed only one point for victory but could not get it. Seller made a splendid pull-up and set the game at 14—all, finally winning at 17—15.

GERRY IS HONORED BY THE JOCKEY CLUB

Receives Testimonial for Conceiving the Idea of an International Race.

Robert L. Gerry, it was announced yesterday by the Jockey Club, has just been presented by the members of that body with a testimonial in recognition of the fact that it was largely through the instrumenality of Mr. Gerry that interest was aroused in international racing. Mr. Gerry first conceived the idea several years ago and again brought the matter to the attention of racing men early last year. The result was the planning and carrying out the great event at Belmont Park last October.

The resolution, which is engrossed and mounted on white satin moire is enclosed in a leather folder. It reads as follows:

> At a meeting of the Jockey Club held at the office of the Club, 66 West 40th Street, New York City, Thursday, September 27th, 1923, at four o'clock P. M., it was, upon motion, unanimously—
> Resolved—That the Jockey Club tenders to Robert Livingstone Gerry, Esq., most sincere thanks for his liberal and truly sportsmanlike suggestion, and that further the Jockey Club inscribes on these minutes its appreciation of the loyal and unvarying support ever afforded by Mr. Gerry to the development of the thoroughbred horse and the best interests of the turf as well as to his untiring efforts in bringing about the international cup race. H. K. KNAPP, Secretary.

MUSCLE SHOALS JAKE WINS.

J. C. Foster's Pointer Captures Annual Field Trials All-Age Stake.

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., Jan. 18.—The pointer Muscle Shoals Jake, owned by J. C. Foster Jr. of Fort Worth, Texas, won the all-age stake in the annual trials of the United States Field Trials Association, concluded here yesterday. The running was disappointing in contrast with brilliant performances in the preliminaries.

WANTS BEZDEK TO RETURN.

Oregon Representative Coming East With Offer to Coach.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 18.—Hugo Bezdek, football coach at Penn State, will be invited by the University of Oregon to return to the latter institution as head coach. Ralph Cake, an alumnus, will leave tomorrow for the East to transmit the offer to Bezdek.

Barnard School Five Triumphs.

Barnard School's basketball team defeated the All-Hallows Institute quintet yesterday on the former's court by the score of 24 to 19. Barnard led at half time by 14 to 9. Powell of Barnard made fourteen points.

Ohio State Athletes Protest Award of Letters to Women

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 18.—Award to two women at Ohio State of "block" letters like those given members of the football teams has brought criticism from varsity athletes. They do not believe that women should receive letters identical with those awarded for football. Dr. J. W. Wilce, director of football, is of the same opinion, he declares. The letters were awarded recently to Ruth Smith and Eleanor Smith Weiant, twin sisters, nationally known swimmers. The awards were made by the Women's Athletic Association.

SHOCKER SETTLES CASE WITH BROWNS

St. Louis Pitcher Withdraws Plea Laid Before Commissioner Landis.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Settlement of the case involving Urban Shocker, star pitcher of the St. Louis Browns, who today withdrew his plea before Commissioner Landis that he be declared a free agent, removes a serious problem which would have otherwise confronted the major league club owners, it was stated in baseball circles tonight.

The baseball world was watching the case closely, as it affected one of the basic principles of the game—the right of a club to discipline its players. Shocker, who had contended that his rights of action had been infringed upon by the refusal of the St. Louis club to allow him to take his wife on the last Eastern trip of the 1923 season, appeared before Commissioner Landis and asked that the case be settled. Shocker explained that the situation had been satisfactorily adjusted.

Just what the terms of the settlement were were not revealed. When Shocker refused to accompany the club on the last trip he was suspended and fined $1,000. Whether the full amount of the fine was returned to Shocker, Commissioner Landis would not say. It was understood, however, that a satisfactory financial settlement had been reached and that Shocker also received back salary due him.

The case was adjusted largely through the efforts of Bob Quinn, President of the Boston club, who was Secretary of the Browns at the time Shocker was disciplined. Quinn, it is understood, arranged the meeting between Shocker and Commissioner Landis, which resulted in the case being dropped.

Commissioner Landis tonight refused to comment on the case, aside from saying: "An agreement was reached between Shocker and the St. Louis Club and at the request of the player the case was dropped."

Commissioner Landis had arranged to hold a hearing in St. Louis Monday.

THOMAS CLARE APPOINTED.

Succeeds Brother as Superintendent at Saratoga Race Course.

It was announced yesterday that at a meeting of the Saratoga Association for the Improvement of the Breed of Horses, held on Thursday night, with President Richard T. Wilson in the chair, Thomas Clare was appointed superintendent of the association's racing plant at Saratoga Springs to succeed his brother William, who died last Sunday.

Thomas Clare has been his brother's assistant for the last three years, and prior to that time had trained some horses. He has a wide acquaintance among horsemen and should be successful through his acquaintance with his brother, whose skill made him an outstanding figure in his profession.

William Clare developed the Horse Haven property of the Saratoga Association to a point where it produced all the hay and oats that were used for the work horses. On the property was a house built for him by the association, and this will be occupied by Thomas Clare.

WHEATON IS FIRST IN ADVANCE PURSE

Son of Meridian and Sweet Flowers Takes Feature Event at New Orleans.

PARKE WINS ONE RACE

Scores on Centimeter and Is Second, Third and Unplaced Twice With Other Mounts.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18.—There was only one named event on the card at the Fair Grounds this afternoon. This was the Advance Purse for two-year-olds over the three-furlong course. Nine juveniles went to the post and most of them were maidens. The only previous winners were Wheaton, Mary Dear and Sam Mengel, and they finished ni that order, the winner picking up top weight of 120 pounds and running the distance in 0:35 4-5 over a track that was good, but not fast. Wheaton, owned by J. W. Bean, was the overwhelming favorite, backed to 1 to 3 at post time.

Wheaton has run three times, has won twice and was third in his other start. The son of Meridian and Sweet Flowers had the rail position today and was away with a rush at the rise of the barrier. He gained a good lead at once and Robinson had him well in hand at the end to win easily by a length and a half from Mary Dear. The latter was also away fast, chased the leader all the way and held on gamely under hard urging in the stretch run. Sam Mengel was outrun in the first furlong after breaking slowly, but came well for the rest of the race to take the short end four lengths in front of Shirley Louise.

Jockey Parke had five mounts during the afternoon, but could land only one a winner. He was second once, third once and unplaced twice. Parke's only victory was scored with T. H. Bernhardt's Centimeter in the six-furlong dash for four-year-olds and upward, third on the program. The six-year-old son of Meelick and Regea followed the leaders to the stretch, where he moved into the lead and held on well in the final drive to beat Cloughjordan handily by a length. The latter was ridden hard at the end to save the place by a head from Lorena Marcellia.

Net Receipts From Football Total $130,000 at Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 18.—The seven-game football schedule played by the University of Minnesota last Fall drew a total attendance of 134,740 persons and net receipts were approximately $130,000, it was shown in a statement made public today by Albert J. Lobb, Controller, and Conrad Seitz, who had charge of ticket sales. Mr. Lobb announced that of the receipts $70,000 has been set aside to be used to meet the expenses of building parts of the new stadium other than the actual seating oval.

GIANTS ANNOUNCE DEAL FOR BALDWIN

Newark Pitcher Secured for Reported Price of $25,000—New Outfielder Is Signed.

Harry Baldwin, star right hander of the Newark Club, became a member of the Giants' pitching staff yesterday, it was announced by Secretary Jim Tierney. The deal has been hanging fire for several weeks, but it was virtually completed several days ago, although the Giants withheld announcement until several technicalities could be cleared away. These were effectively disposed of yesterday, and Baldwin now is a member in good standing of the National League champions.

The Giants paid cash for Baldwin, and considerable cash at that. John McGraw would have preferred to have made part of the payment in the form of players, but the International League is an anti-draft organization and can not accept players from the big leagues, which insist on all such athletes having draft strings attached to them. In lieu of players McGraw paid cash, and rumor had it last night that the sum reached $25,000.

Baldwin may be the big surprise of the Giants' pitching staff next Spring. McGraw was so srtong for the Newark hurler that he passed up Lefty Groves, the Baltimore star, in favor of the Newark man. In fact, the Little Napoleon believes that Baldwin is about as good a pitcher as there was in the International League last year. He is steadier than Groves, a harder worker, and had a record not far below that of the Baltimore left hander, considering the fact that Groves worked with a pennant-winning club and Baldwin was on a seventh-place team.

"Baldwin's record was remarkable last year," said McGraw. "Pitching on a club that finished next to last, he won twenty games. How many pitchers in any major or minor league did that well with a second-division club? Baldwin looks like an excellent prospect. He is big and strong, pitching in some forty-six games last year, and from what I can learn he has everything—speed, curves, change of pace and plenty of nerve. One or two other big league clubs bid for him, but the Giants were able to land him, and I think we landed one of the best minor league pitchers in the country."

McGraw's pitching staff is now practically complete. In the last two days he has signed Joe Bradshaw of Toledo and Baldwin of Newark. Besides these youngsters, John J. will look over Wayland Dean, the Louisville star; Earl Webb, the highly touted pitcher who was farmed out to Pittsfield; Perce Malone, Joe Leete, from Amherst College; Walter Huntzinger, Walter Rosner, a semi-pro; Ernie Maun, from Wichita; A. C. Stoner and Kent Greenfield. In all, twenty pitchers will be taken South to Sarasota, and when it is considered that the total squad will not be much over forty, it is easy to see what importance McGraw attaches to rebuilding his staff of pitchers.

The Giants have a new outfielder, by the way. He is Walter James, a semi-pro from the Pacific Coast who was signed at the urgent recommendation of Bill Lange, uncle of Long George Kelly.

The only signed contract received yesterday was that of Fred Lindstrom, late of Toledo, who will try for an infield utility position in the manoeuvres at Sarasota. Such an eminent critic as Roger Bresnahan declares that Fred is all wool and a yard wide.

LANDIS WILL JOIN REDS.

Commissioner to Inspect Orlando Camp of Cincinnati Team.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 18.—K. M. Landis, Baseball Commissioner, will be with the Cincinnati Reds at Orlando, Fla., during the first week of their training period. Commissioner Landis, who was in Cincinnati last night, was quoted as saying that he would arrive at Orlando about March 3, his first stop-off in a swing around the training camps of the sixteen major league clubs.

He said it was part of his work to look over the training camps, and that he enjoys the trip immensely. He also expressed a desire to meet on the links at Orlando any golf players on the Cincinnati team.

PHILS ORDERED TO REPORT.

Battery Men Due at Camp Feb. 24 and Main Squad March 1.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—Manager Arthur Fletcher of the Philadelphia National League Club said today that he had ordered all battery men to report at the Spring training camp at Leesburg, Fla., by Feb. 24. The other players will arrive there March 1.

Fletcher said he wanted the pitchers and catchers to have at least a week's preliminary workout.

RED SOX SIGN O'NEILL.

President Quinn Says Catcher Accepted Terms in Cleveland.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—President Quinn of the Boston Red Sox sent word here today that while in Cleveland on his way to Chicago he had obtained Catcher Steve O'Neill's signature to a contract.

GOLF BALL TEST BEGINS.

Search for Standard Gets Under Way on Jekyl Island.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Jan. 18.—A ten-day experiment with golf balls of varying size and weight, in an effort to determine the standard golf ball of the future, was started on Jekyl Island, eighteen miles from here, today. Thirty-five amateur golfers, including Cornelius S. Lee, Secretary of the United States Golf Association, are taking part. The experiment has the approval of British golf authorities.

The primary purpose, according to Mr. Lee, is to carefully test out exactly how the balls of various sizes and weights act under varying conditions.

GOLF OFFICIALS CHOSEN.

Olinville Club Holds Election of Officers for Coming Season.

Mrs. J. C. Smith was elected President of the Olinville Golf Club at a meeting of the club held yesterday at the residence of the Secretary, 610 Riverside Drive. Other officers elected were Mrs. Bark, Vice President; Mrs. Z. W. Burnside, Secretary; Mrs. A. L. Montgomery, Treasurer; Chairman of Greens Committee, Mrs. C. D. Fowler; Chairman of Handicap Committee, Miss H. McLaughlin.

DYER OVERWHELMS WORTHINGTON, 8-6

Wide Margin of Victory of Metropolitan Golf Champion Proves Bermuda Surprise.

DRIGGS IS OTHER SURVIVOR

Cherry Valley Golfer Has Hard Task Beating Jones by 2 Up in Amateur Tourney.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 18.—The complete rout of J. H. Worthington of Siwanoy, former Irish golf champion, at the hands of Frank Dyer of Montclair, metropolitan amateur and New York State champion, was the unlooked-for feature of today's semi-final round of the second annual golf championship tournament of Bermuda. Worthington, away off form, was beaten by the wide margin of 8 and 6.

Edmund H. Driggs of Cherry Valley had a stern task in conquering R. A. Jones of Westchester Hills, junior metropolitan champion, by 2 up.

The start of the tournament today was made in a light downpour, but before the contestants had reached the third green the sun came through the clouds and conditions after that remained ideal.

The finals of the tournament will be played tomorrow and will be for thirty-six holes. It will be a battle of drivers, both Driggs and Dyer being noted for the length they obtain from the tees. Dyer rules favorite tonight.

Both of the American contestants in the consolidation tournament were eliminated. L. K. Schwartz of Newark lost by 5 and 4 to Lieutenant W. H. Bremner of Bermuda and A. F. Brooke of Washington lost by 1 up to James A. Gosling, another Bermudan.

R. FINNEY AGAIN TIES HAMILTON AT GOLF

Semi-Finalists All Square in Advertisers' Tourney—Mrs. Cone Wins Title.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 18.—As a result of the second tie match in two days between Robert Finney of Baltusrol and W. T. Hamilton of Westchester Hills, semi-finalists, the Advertisers' Winter Golf League championship remains unsettled, with Frank Finney of Baltusrol, son of Robert, as the third man in the running. Hamilton, who squared his match with Robert Finney yesterday when he sank a long putt at the home green, had a chance to win at the same hole today, but he missed the three-foot putt. The three contenders will play a threesome on Saturday to determine their placings in the final standing.

Mrs. Clarence Cone of Inwood annexed the title in the women's division when she defeated Mrs. John Howie Wright of St. Albans, who had held the championship, 3 and 2.

The results in the consolation tournament follow:

Championship—Semi-final—W. Roy Barnhill, Chicago, defeated H. F. Harrison, Arcola, 1 up; S. K. Evans, Knollwood, defeated W. R. Barnhill, Chicago, 3 and 1.

Second Consolation—Final—C. E. Sherman, Essex County, defeated F. I. Wurzburg, New York, 5 and 4.

HALSELL IS DEFEATED.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR, Fla., Jan. 18.—Hugh Halsell, a member of the Sleepy Hollow Country Club and a winner of the annual January tournament a year ago, failed to repeat his victory today. Halsell was defeated by Alfred Turner of Clearwater, 3 and 2 in thirty-six holes.

At the close of the morning round it looked as though the senior champion would again win the tournament, as he stood 2 up at this stage of the match with a card of 73. In the afternoon, however, Halsell lost the first four holes. He managed to square the match on the ninth only to fall behind again coming home when Turner played the better golf and won the match.

R. T. White of the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club defeated W. S. Miller of Elyria, Ohio, 2 and 1 in the second sixteen and the third division honors went to W. R. Schmid of Siwanoy who defeated J. K. Elsmann of Oakmont, 3 and 1.

You'll dance too when you pipe the sheep-lined coats and sport jackets we've just reduced to jig-time prices!

Perhaps, however, if yours is a lucky size, you may prefer to do your stepping out in a fine quality 'coon coat!

A handful of wool mufflers generously reduced, too.

HULBERT BLOCKS WHALEN BOAT PLAN

MORE MONEY FOR BELLEVUE

Additional $500,000 Appropriated for the Construction of Pavilions at Hospital.

Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert refused at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Estimate to vote for an appropriation of $1,500,000 to enable Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, of the Department of Plant and Structures, to build eight new 150-foot ferryboats for use on the East River.

Acting Mayor Hulbert joined with Frank J. Prial, Deputy Controller, representing Controller Craig, in opposing the project, and as twelve votes were necessary the matter went over for the next meeting of the Board, a week hence, when only nine affirmative votes will be required. Acting Mayor Hulbert's action in lining up with the Controller surprised Commissioner Whalen and his friends. They said if Mayor Hylan were in the chair there would be no delay. It was at first proposed to lay the matter over for two weeks, but Mr. Whalen said he would not be in town then.

"Going down to Palm Beach?" asked Mr. Hulbert, who then declared that he would like a vacation himself, but that he wouldn't take one until next Summer.

"You haven't had a vaction since Monday," broke in Borough President Riegelmann of Brooklyn.

"That trip to Washington where I helped in the fight to bring the Democratic National Convention to New York was no vacation," replied Mr. Hulbert. "I got out of a sick bed to make it. Furthermore, I accomplished what I set out to do."

Upon the request of Dr. John J. McGrath, President of the Board of Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, the board voted an additional appropriation of $551,415 for the construction of pavilions at Bellevue. This brings the total appropriation for the institution since last June up to $3,301,415. High cost of labor and materials, Dr. McGrath explained, necessitated the extra amount.

"When our program of improvements is completed," he said, "Bellevue will constitute one of the finest and most up to date group of hospital units in the world."

WEEPS OVER WALLA WALLA.

Bill Furey Admits Other Arrests, but That Charge Is Too Much.

Edward ("Big Bill") Furey, who was arrested several years ago in connection with the $5,000,000 bond theft plot in this city, arraigned for sentence yesterday in General Sessions on an extortion charge, readily admitted to Judge Mancuso that he previously had been arrested in Lynn and Boston, Mass., but he protested vigorously when accused of having been arrested at one time in Walla, Walla, Wash.

"Your Honor," boomed "Big Bill," as tears ran down the beard that he had raised since he was placed in the Tombs on the extortion charge in 1920, "this is too much. I'll admit all the rotten things that I've done, but that ain't among them. I never visited that dump in my life."

Furey jumped his bail of $1,500 on the extortion charge about eighteen months ago, went to Boston and served a term in a Massachusetts jail on his arrest in Lynn for bootlegging. He had pleaded guilty to the extortion charge founded on the complaint of Joseph Gluck, a messenger in the financial district, who was arrested with Furey in connection with the bond plot. Gluck charged that Furey, posing as a Government detective, threatened to arrest him for the theft of securities, and extorted several thousand dollars, an automobile and a diamond ring from him to free him.

Judge Mancuso was viewing a police record which alleged that Furey had been arrested in Walla Walla. "You were arrested in Lynn, Mass.," continued the Court.

"Well, that ain't so bad, Judge," interjected "Big Bill" in a conciliatory tone. "I was locked up in Lynn, but I squared that charge."

"And in Boston," continued the Court.

"Judge, that Boston thing wasn't nothing," explained Furey. "I was convicted there of transporting liquor—good liquor, your Honor."

The Court then suspended a sentence of from fifteen months to two years and a half in Sing Sing on Furey. Furey grasped the hand of District Attorney Albert B. Unger, who had kept on his trail, and turning to the Judge in a voice choked with sobs said: "Thank you, Judge, I'll never be before you again. I've got a chicken farm in Massachusetts, and I'm heading for there right now to lead the quiet and simple life. If I ever get in another mess with the law I hope to break a leg."

TO OBSERVE POE BIRTHDAY.

Meetings Will Be Held Today in Richmond, Baltimore and Boston.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 18.—In commemoration of the 115th anniversary of the birth of Edgar Allan Poe, America's great romantic poet, the executive board of the Poe Memorial Shrine here will hold a special meeting at the shrine tomorrow. Important Poe manuscripts, on which J. H. Whitty, President of the shrine and national Poe authority, has been working for some time, have been identified as parts of the tale "Marginalia" and the less well known tale "The Spectacle," and will be presented to the board tomorrow for safe keeping in the shrine.

In Baltimore, the city of Poe's ancestry and scene of his death, the old Baltimore Poe Association will be reorganized with the especial charge of preserving in a fitting manner the Poe grave. This meeting, with Dr. John C. French, Professor of English at Johns Hopkins University, in charge, will be held in the old hall just opposite Westminster Cemetery, where the poet is buried. Participants in the program will be Dr. Thomas Ollive Mabbott of Columbia, who will make the chief address; Dr. F. A. Litz and Mrs. Lizette Reese.

In Boston a two-day celebration began this afternoon with a meeting of the Boston Author's Club at which Dr. F. W. C. Hersey of Harvard was to preside. Speakers are to be Mrs. Harriet M. Lothrop, Mrs. Joseph E. Chamberlin and Miss Caroline Ticknor, author of "Poe's Helen."

"Westchester" a New Central.

Beginning at midnight tonight a new machine switchboard telephone central office will be placed in operation by the New York Telephone Company in its building at 2,411 Tratman Avenue, the Bronx. It will be called "Westchester," and with the Underhill manual office will serve the territory south of Pelham Parkway, east of the Bronx River to the Sound. Lines serving 2,300 telephones will be transferred. "Westchester" will be the eleventh machine switching central office in New York City.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Spook Sonata" will remain one more week at the Provincetown Playhouse. "Fashion, or Life in New York," will be the next production.

Tchekhoff's "Uncle Vanya" will be acted by the Moscow Art Theatre at Jolson's on Jan. 28 for the first time in New York.

Marjorie Rambeau will take part in the Friars' Frolic at the Manhattan Opera House on Jan. 27.

MUSIC

Fraser Gange, Baritone.

By OLIN DOWNES.

Fraser Gange, a Scotch baritone, who sang last night for the first time in New York, has a voice of uncommon range, quality and technical development. He is a well-rounded musician and interpreter, as he showed in groups of Italian, French, German, Russian, English and American songs. Upon these songs he bestowed marked intelligence and dramatic instinct, and was always manly and sincere in revealing the message of the composer.

Mr. Gange calls himself a baritone, as he is, but his lowest register is of a rich bass quality, while he has unusual control of an organ which includes the capacities of a baritone of high range. He can use his voice—play upon his instrument—in any of these registers, which have been well worked out and co-ordinated. In sustained song, in florid music, in passages of dramatic declamation he gained his end. Not many singers could have turned as successfully from the sombre and powerful "Gruppe aus Tartarus" of Schubert to "Die Forelle," or from Schumann's "Ich grolle nicht" to the same composer's "Fruehlingsnacht."

A group of songs in English by Frank Bridge, C. H. H. Perry, Villers Stanford, Arthur Somervell, Charles Wood, Vaughans Williams, Sydney Homer, Frederick Clay, Dr. Arne and an old Highland air completed the program. In these performances there was admirable English diction, and often a song of comparatively slight musical value was given with a point and style which made it for the moment significant. An audience of good size gave Mr. Gange a cordial reception.

'THE ROAD TOGETHER' RUNS ONLY ONE NIGHT

Performance of Marjorie Rambeau, $1,500 a Week Star, Decidedly Amiss.

The Frazee Theatre, where Marjorie Rambeau was seen on Thursday night in "The Road Together," was dark last night, and official announcement was made on behalf of A. H. Woods, producer of the play, that the run of the piece was at an end. The announcement from the Woods office declared that the play was being closed "at the request of George Middleton, the author, who was dissatisfied with the performance given on the opening night."

Although the announcement contented itself with this terse statement, it was freely rumored last night that reference was being made solely to the performance of Miss Rambeau. Mr. Middleton refused to comment on the situation last night, saying only that "the facts speak for themselves."

The occasion marked the first time that a play having an established star has closed after a single performance in New York, and it was agreed ltst night that only unusual conduct on the part of the principal performer could have brought about the sudden closing. In addition to closing the play, it was reported that Martin Hermann, who acted for A. H. Woods in the latter's absence in London, had also canceled the star's contract, which called for a salary of $1,500 a week.

The closing of the show was not altogether unexpected by the first-night audience, which noticed something decidedly amiss with Miss Rambeau's performance. Many of her speeches were inaudible to the audience and during her second act "big scene," in which her histrionic talents were to be given full play, she fumbled with pronouns and clauses in such a way as at times to give no sense to her words. Also, at what was meant to be the grand exit of a ruined wife, she threw her fur cloak about her shoulders in such a manner as to evoke titters from many in the audience.

Miss Rambeau last year was the Rosalind of the National Theatre's ill-starred "As You Like It," which ran one week at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre to ruinous box-office receipts. Before that, as a well-known actress both here and on the Pacific Coast, she had been the star of many hits. She recently divorced Hugh Dillman, whom she married after a divorce from Willard Mack, the playwright.

It was stated last night on behalf of Miss Rambeau that she had had a nervous breakdown and had been under the care of Dr. Max Wolf of 645 West End Avenue for a week.

MISS NORMAND COLLAPSES.

Unable to Testify at Hearing in Dines Shooting Case.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—Mabel Normand was in a state of "complete nervous collapse," according to a certificate signed by her physician, and was unable to attend the hearing held today in the case of her chauffeur, Horace Greer, who shot Courtland Dines on New Year's night.

Edna Purviance, another film actress, who was with Miss Normand in Dines's apartment when the shooting took place, was the only witness examined and the hearing was continued until Jan. 21. Miss Purviance denied seeing Greer in the apartment, insisted she was in another room when the shooting occurred and had a faulty memory in regard to the events of that evening.

Judge Hanby declared he would permit no undue delay, and reiterated that he would hold court at Dines's bedside if necessary. Four attorneys appeared to represent Greer, whose bail was reduced from $10,000 to $5,000.

GIGLI ILL, OPERA CHANGED.

"Romeo et Juliette" Substituted for Revival of "L'Africaine."

Two tenors indisposed led to the Metropolitan's second change of opera in some hundred performances this season, when Gounod's "Romeo et Juliette" was substituted last night for the revival of Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine." Mr. Gigli, the intended Vasco da Gama, first fell ill, and after him Mario Chamlee, the only substitute available.

With Miss Bori in Gounod's opera appeared Tokatyan as Romeo and Schuetzendorf as Mercutio, both new to recent casts. Miss Ponselle, in lieu of last night's engagement, was announced to sing in the concert of varied opera scenes on Sunday night.

MUSIC NOTES.

Victor Harris led the 100 women of the St. Cecilia Club in a choral program at Washington Irving High School last night as the third concert of the People's Symphony series.

Opera students at the Institute of Musical Art last night celebrated their school's nineteenth year with scenes from "La Boheme," "Flying Dutchman" and "Tales of Hoffmann."

Roland Hayes's first Brooklyn Academy program tonight will include the negro spirituals, "Every Time I Feel the Spirit," "Sit Down," "I've Got a Robe" and "Steal Away to Jesus."

Harry Barnhart tomorrow evening will conduct the third of his series of free Sunday night song festivals with an orchestra of fifty at the National Theatre.

The Orpheus Club of Ridgewood, conducted by Bruno Huhn, will give a concert next Wednesday night in the High School at Englewood, N. J.

Charles M. Courboin, the organist, plays a Saint Saens-Wagner program Friday at Wanamaker's, before going West to appear with the Chicago Orchestra under Frederick Stock.

BOX OFFICE PRICES

PROFITEERING by speculators—on or off the sidewalk—has caused most people to consider "box-office price" an empty phrase. The great demand for theatre tickets has been too much of a temptation to the get-rich-quick gentry.

But at McBride's box-office price has a very definite meaning. It is what we always have charged and always will charge—plus "50c. for service—never a penny more."

BAR ASSOCIATION CHEERS BEVERIDGE

HOME RULE BILL ASSAILED

William N. Dykman Says Measure Is Inconsistent and Has Unworkable Provisions.

Ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana occupied the stage of the ballroom of the Hotel Astor last night and, in the graphic language of the ring, stood toe-to-toe with the Borah-LaFollette idea at Washington and traded blow for blow for twenty rounds. Senator Beveridge, who presided over the Progressive convention that nominated Roosevelt in 1912, defended the Supreme Court of the United States, protested against the amendment of the Federal Constitution and called the present-day inheritors of the title of Progressive leadership misguided men who thought they were liberals but were really reactionaries—at least on these questions.

The occasion was a gathering of the New York State Bar Association, which began yesterday a two-day annual meeting with sessions morning and afternoon at the headquarters of the Bar Association of New York City at 42 West Forty-fourth Street. In the evening the meeting adjourned to the Hotel Astor for the purpose of hearing Senator Beveridge.

Stern as was Senator Beveridge's denunciation of the Constitution amenders and Supreme Court limiters, it was scarcely less marked for that quality than was the address arraigning the "home rule" amendment to the New York State Constitution delivered in the afternoon by William N. Dykman, President of the State Bar Association, who characterized the last legislative session in passing the amendment as having "read little beyond the label," and the public as having "blindly adopted it, allured by that most potent catchword, 'home rule'." Senator Beveridge at times had the room rocking with applause, and when he had finished the gathering stood up as a tribute.

Upholds the Supreme Court.

He began by pointing out that the proponents of constitutional change and limitation of the powers of the Supreme Court had gone straight to the people with their argument and that the lawyers, as champions of the court, should follow their example and put the other side of the story before the people, too. He declared that judicial review of constitutional questions was a distinctively and exclusively American institution and that it was the foundation of protection for individual rights and liberties against encroachment by temporary flurries of popular passion expressed by Legislatures.

The conclusion of his address was an appeal to the Supreme Court itself to act upon the question of five-to-four decisions and remedy the difficulty, which he described as very real, by taking steps to avoid it in the future.

"Perhaps the more thoughtful and moderate of those who advance the idea of Congressional quantitative control of judicial decisions urge it not with expectation or desire to have it adopted," he said, "but rather as a means of expressing public resentment against five-to-four decisions of grave constitutional questions involving definitive national policies; and of thus admonishing the Supreme Court to strive to avoid such close division, with their unhappy effect on general opinion. If this is the real purpose of the quantitative Supreme Court bills now before Congress the outcome may not be without good results.

"For if no more five-to-four decisions are made for a long time agitation against that practice will cease. It is concrete action, not academic theory, that stirs the public. It is the fact that in the last five years, more national laws have been overthrown by a judicial majority of one, than were thus annulled during the whole previous 129 years of our history, that has aroused public opposition to 'the one-man rule,' as the popular saying brands these five-to-four nullifications of acts of Congress.

Judicial Sagacity Required.

"If these judicial pronouncements continue with like frequency, the certain consequences will be not Congressional quantitative enactment, which the Supreme Court ought to and surely would unanimously ignore, but heavy increase of public disapproval this strengthening and broadening the already strong and widespread sentiment for a constitutional amendment abolishing the principle of judicial review altogether.

"The only men who can deal with the situation are the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. It is for them a matter of policy, not principle, a matter of sound judgment and common sense, not a question of abstract right and wrong. The occasion requires judicial political sagacity and the sympathetic understanding of normal human reactions—in short, judicial statesmanship.

"Members of the Supreme Court of the United States should not only be great lawyers, but also profound publicists and accomplished politicians in the higher sense of that misused word. Statesmanship means the distinguishing between mere gales of public sentiment on the one hand and definitive public judgment on the other hand—and resistance to the one when wrong, and, unless a fundamental principle is involved, acceptance of the other whatever the statesman may think of its merits.

"If we who believe the principle of judicial review to be invaluable and indispensable get into the obstinate and ossified state of mind of the old-time Federalists who stood for an incident as stoutly as they championed a cause, we will suffer their fate. He is a poor lawyer that will not yield an unimportant point to gain his case.

"Moreover, is there not reason for the Supreme Court, except by more than a bare majority, to refuse to annul an act of Congress when embodying a settled national policy? Such judicial action is not alone the decision of a mere private lawsuit; it is also the adjudication of a public controversy. It involves a national law, and when four out of nine able, learned and impartial Justices believe that law to be harmonious with the Constitution, should not the remaining five Justices hesitate to overthrow it as though that public law were no more than a private contract?

Suggests Justices Might Agree.

"Perhaps the Justices might agree among themselves that they will not invalidate an act of Congress unless two-thirds of them agree that it is unconstitutional—surely the overthrow of a national statute is as important as a verdict of guilty in an impeachment trial or the rejection of a Presidential vote, each of which requires a two-thirds majority. Would not all of us prefer decisions of the Supreme Court to be unanimous or by decisive majorities?

"Annulment of national laws only by the concurrence of six Justices would not mean minority decision as in litigation between mere individuals, since such annulment negatives a majority of the House, negatives a majority of the Senate, negatives the judgment of the President—or, if disapproved by him and re-enacted over his veto, negatives the two-thirds majority of both houses.

"And such decisive judicial action would take from the hands of the enemies of the Supreme Court their principal argument and most effective weapon. It would go far to mollify public opinion, which in modern times no earthly power can safely affront. The public-be-damned' period in human affairs has passed away. The divine-right idea is extinct.

"If this course is not the most expedient, let a wiser method be adopted. I care not what policy is employed so that the principle is preserved. Perhaps reargument in all constitutional cases where on the first hearing the court finds a five-to-four decision likely would change that unfortunate condition. At any rate, a public announcement by the court, that in all such doubtful situations such cases must be twice argued and twice considered would make annulment of laws even by a judicial majority of only one Justice far more acceptable to the public mind and conscience

Responsibility Is Court's.

"Whatever is done, if anything ought to be done, can only be done by the Supreme Court itself. The responsibility is upon the shoulders of the members of that great tribunal; and with faith in their public wisdom, whatever procedure they adopt we will support, for in their power to annul unconstitutional legislation abides the perpetuity of American institutions.

"At bottom, ours is a government by public opinion. History and human nature alike prove that moderation and reasonableness are the only methods that can guide it aright. When these normal and wholesome means are not used; when, instead, either obstinate silence or mere denunciation—or still worse, autocratic repression—are practiced, the inevitable result is the growth of the very sentiment thus opposed. Inflexibility is the principle of breakdown.

"American institutions, the integrity and unity of the nation, the property, freedom and all rights of citizens are secure only so long as the American Constitution, upheld and executed by independent and impartial courts, protects them. Constitution and courts are challenged today not by demagogues alone, not only by the sincere and misinformed, but also by able and determined men who believe that the American system is no longer suitable to modern conditions.

"Danger is not imminent but comes apace, and surely will arrive unless we who believe in American institutions take the field of public discussion in defense of them against their assailants. Now is the time for us to make public appeal. Let us avert the peril at its inception rather than await the fullness of its strength when opposition will be harder if not futile.

"The hour has struck for us to go forth among our fellow citizens and demonstrate to all the people that their well-being requires the preservation of the integrity of the American Constitution and the maintenance of the Supremacy of the Supreme Court of the United States."

The principal feature of the afternoon session of the association was the annual address of President William N. Dykman of Brooklyn in which he severely attacked the "home rule" amendment to the State Constitution passed in the 1923 session of the Legislature. Mr. Dykman did not mince words at any point in his discussion of the amendment, which he took up section by section and commented upon in detail. He called upon the legal profession to take a militant attitude in the matter and prepare for the difficulties he saw ahead, as they would be called upon to solve many of them.

"It is the plain duty of the bar of the State," he said, " not to sit supine and take lying down whatever may come. Rather, our profession everywhere throughout the State should stand on vigilant watch and be active to aid the Governor and the Legislature to the best possible outcome to the amendment."

"On the face of the Home Rule amendment is conclusive evidence," he said, "that it was drafted without full knowledge of the subject or consideration. We know aliunde that Governor Miller warned the draftsman of its defects. It would seem that the Legislature read little beyond the label and that the people blindly adopted it, allured by that most potent catch-word 'Home Rule.'"

At the conclusion of President Dykman's discussion, the association authorized him to appoint a committee to look into and report on the subject. In his address Mr. Dykman said in part:

"I am tempted by the Home Rule amendment to say: What is the constitution among legislators who, with substantial unanimity, submitted to the people a subject of such transcendent interest with knowledge of its grave defects? Their punishment follows hard upon the offense, though it scarce fits the crime, for the task is now upon them to put the amendment into execution.

"The importance of it is apparent. There are fifty-nine cities in the State and in these cities over 80 per cent. of the people of the State reside. These cities range from the great metropolis with a population of 6,000,000 to Sherrill with about 2,000. They are individuals, each with peculiar characteristics. The Home Rule amendment if it work at all must work profound changes in the municipal law and local lawgivers.

Where City Government Fails.

"Home Rule is an alluring catchword and at this time catchwords vastly affect government. Of its merit in the abstract there can be little difference of opinion, doubt or debate. What it will do in concrete application is quite another matter. It is at least questionable whether the dull, inert mass of citizenship in a great city can be stirred to intelligent thought and vote upon municipal questions. Will we not continue to vote for local legislators as Democrats and Republicans to forward the interests of national parties? It is about as sensible as to vote for directors of a railroad or steel company for like reasons. Nay, less wise, for there only money is at stake, while here our homes and our happiness. That, as Lord Bryce saw it, was a chief reason for the conspicuous failure of our city government. May we not witness another reform shaft aimed against our political bosses, which, in practice, will increase their power and jurisdiction and make easier and more absolute their rule over us?

"It is always a relief when the Congress or the Legislature adjourns. We are at peace and know our laws for half the year. The Aldermen are in almost continuous session and we may not know on any day what the law is or what it will be tomorrow. Is there not a larger measure of peace and comfort in knowing the exact metes of our liberties than in living in a perpetual state of uncertainty. It is at least doubtful whether the cities of New York were not better off under the old Constitution than they can be under the larger measure of Home Rule sought by advocates of the principle. It is, however, idle to speculate. The Home Rule Amendment is our law and Home Rule is more likely to advance than recede. One-fourth of the States of the Union have by their Constitutions authorized cities to form and adopt their own charters. Other States have by legislation, with or without Constitutional authority, delegated a large measure of Home Rule. Everywhere there is agitation of the subject, springing partly from desire for power, partly from hope for better government and, in large measure, disregarding the maxim "better to bear the ills we have than fly to others that we know not of."

Points Out Inconsistencies.

Mr. Dykman, after analyzing the bill and pointing out what he characterized as grave inconsistencies and unworkable provisions, continued:

"The home rule amendment is ungenerous and undoubtedly involved. Home rule has not worked well in all States nor in all cities of any one State. It is a great experiment in New York. It was wise, I think, to be ungenerous; to give limited power; to take one short step and observe the result before taking a second; to test the capacity of the cities of New York for a modicum of self-government, before giving a fuller measure. It is possible that the cities will rise to the full measure of their opportunity and use wisely the few additional powers that may be given to them. The principle of home rule seems to be established and the extent of a further grant may well be left to experience and to the wisdom of the Legislature and the people.

"There are, beyond question, great fissures in the home rule amendment, great gaps, within which the judgment of the Legislature and of the courts will move more or less untrammeled. Mr. Justice Holmes has summed up the duty of the courts in these words:

"'I recognize without hesitation that Judges must and do legislate, but they do so only interstitially; they are confined from molar to molecular motion.'

"The Judges in New York, filling the great gaps in the home rule amendment, must abandon molecules and deal with masses. They will be compelled to deal boldly, by the method of free decision, following the processes of the great Judges in England and America, who develop the common law. The Judges of late have not failed in boldness in dealing with constitutional limitations and I fear not they will fail to meet the problems of the amendment. It is our duty to aid the commission, and they ask our aid; to offer assistance to the Legislature, and they will need it; and fully prepare to give our final aid to the courts in the vexed questions certain to come to them."

Wickersham Makes Report.

President Dykman's address was preceded by business meetings and committee reports in the morning and after noon sessions. During the course of these George W. Wickersham, Chairman of the committee on the advisability of establishing an American international court said:

"Your committee reports that in view of the proposal now pending before the United States Senate that the United States shall adhere to the permanent court of international justice, the present is not a propitious time to bring forward for discussion the subject of a purely American international court, and, therefore, we ask to be dischareg from further consideration of the subject."

The committee on international arbitration, headed by Everett P. Wheeler, on the other hand, reported need of action in its sphere and recommended the passage of the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the New York State Bar Association joins in what it believes to be the wise judgment of the American people, that the United States ought to become one of the supporters of the permanent court of international justice at The Hague, and that our Government therefore should adhere to the protocol establishing the court, in the manner set forth by the President in his message to the Senate of Feb. 24, 1923, and as endorsed in his fist annual message by President Coolidge."

The committee on narcotic drug control recommended the formulation of a uniform State Narcotic Drug Control law.

Mr. Dykman was renominated for President of the association for the coming year. The election of officers will be held this afternoon. Charles W. Alton of Albany, and Loran L. Lewis, Jr., of Buffalo, were renominated as Secretary and Treasurer respectively. The following nominations for Vice President were made: Delancey Nicoll, New York; Abel E. Blackmar, Brooklyn; James A. Betts, Kingston; Erskine C. Rogers, Hudson Falls; Carl E. Door, Syracuse; Albert H. Sewell, Walton; Charles D. Newton, Geneseo; John Lord O'Brian, Buffalo; and Arthur S. Tompkins, Nyack.

The sessions will continue at the New York Bar Association today. Tonight, at the annual dinner, Governor Alfred E. Smith will be the principal speaker.

Tilla Durleux to Act Fedora

Tilla Durieux, the German actress who recently made her début here, will begin an engagement at the Frazee Theatre next Wednesday night in "Fedora." As before, Mme. Durieux will play in German. Next season the actress will be seen here in a series of English productions, under the direction of Lee Shubert and A. H. Woods.

Baby Falls Two Floors, Not Hurt.

Dorothy Dorn, 17 months' old, fell to the street from her crib on the second floor of her home yesterday. While a physician was making an examination he evidently tickled her, for she burst out laughing. The child escaped injury.

HUGE STRIDES IN EDUCATION

Dr. Angell of Yale Says Greatest Problem Is Lack of Teachers.

American education is undergoing an unparalleled period of development, extending from the rural school to the university, declared President James R. Angell of Yale University, in an address yesterday before the League for Political Education at the Town Hall. From 1890 to 1920, he said, there has been an increase of 700 per cent. in the number of high school students and from 1900 to 1920 more than 300 per cent. increase.

"A passion for education," President Angell said, "is the outstanding mark of our generation, a tradition inherited from our forefathers, who first of all established churches and schools."

The unparalleled development of extension work in its various forms is another aspect of the growing interest in education, President Angell pointed out. There are, he said, between 300,000 and 400,000 students now enrolled in extension courses throughout the country.

"The stimulation of research work in all fields is still another outstanding development of recent years," he said. "Nothing has so lifted the American conception of education as the achievements of research workers. The discovery of insulin in a laboratory of which most of us had never heard, the announcement of a new serum for scarlet fever, are only two examples of the kind of work going on.

"The great problem facing us is the crying need for a sufficient number of properly qualified teachers. No matter how high our ideals, if we cannot command enough well-trained, devoted teachers we cannot realize that ideal. Teachers must first of all be subject to higher qualification standards; they must be better paid; they must have greater security of tenure, and higher retirement compensation. Otherwise we cannot attract our abler young people to the teaching profession."

THE "FEDERAL RESERVE RATIO."

An interesting discussion has arisen in regard to the Federal Reserve. Almost exactly a year ago its high and continuously rising "reserve ratio" was occasioning urgent warnings against a coming inflation of credit. The twelve Reserve banks held in cash 76 per cent. against their deposits and outstanding notes, whereas the law required specifically only a 35 per cent. cash reserve against deposits and a 40 per cent. gold reserve against circulation, or a total reserve percentage of less than 40. The basis for the "inflation warnings" was that existing reserves made conceivable the doubling of the member banks' reserve deposits, which are the basis of their lending power; this without reaching the minimum Federal Reserve percentage stipulated by law.

The "credit inflation" did not come in 1923; in fact, the later movement of the year resembled deflation rather than inflation. But meantime foreign gold continued to pour in at our ports, whence it moved to the Federal Reserve vaults; $322,000,000 was thus received during 1923, in addition to some $50,000,000 of domestic production, and the movement goes on. The Reserve banks had already adopted more or less tentatively the policy of paying out gold certificates for ordinary hand-to-hand circulation in place of Federal Reserve notes. More than $200,000,000 was thus paid out last year; nevertheless, and in spite of this disbursement of reserve money, the Reserve system's "ratio" had risen by this week's statement to 80 per cent.; almost the highest since the war.

This is a situation which has not existed since 1915 and 1916, when foreign gold was entering the United States at the rate of four or five hundred millions annually. At that time it was the practice of the Reserve Board, when member banks deposited imported gold in exchange for Reserve notes, to reckon gold thus received as "security" for the issued notes, dollar for dollar, and not as part of the 40 per cent. required reserve. Under that method the actual reserve account naturally increased more slowly than the gold import movement.

On June 21, 1917, Congress amended the section of the Federal Reserve act requiring 40 per cent. gold reserve against circulating notes so as to read, "Provided, however, "that when the Federal Reserve "Agent holds gold or gold certificates "as collateral for Federal Reserve "notes" issued to a member bank, "such gold or gold certificates shall "be counted as part of the gold "reserve which such bank is re"quired to maintain against its "Federal Reserve notes in actual cir"culation." This change in method had the result of immediately increasing the bookkeeping item "total gold reserve" from $590,948,000, as reported on June 15, 1917, to $1,212,018,000 on June 22, and the ratio of reserve to notes and deposits from 51 per cent. to 64.

Last year some kind of return to the old method of computation was frequently urged, with a view to reduce the visible margin for credit inflation and to keep the reserve ratio from a spectacular advance. Sometimes the Reserve Board was advised to "segregate" part of its gold arbitrarily as a separate fund. Neither recourse seemed practicable under the amendment of June, 1917; the putting of reserve gold into circulation appeared to be the only recourse. In its weekly statement of a week ago, however, the Reserve Board recognized the arguments to the extent of indicating the gold in the redemption fund and in Reserve Agents' hands as "gold held exclusively against Federal Reserve notes." Those two items footed up this week to $2,177,000,000, or about two-thirds of the total gold reserve.

That could hardly accomplish any definite purpose; it was a "gesture," so to speak. If the board could in that way have separated absolutely the reserve against circulation from the reserve against deposits, the one would have amounted this week to 104½ per cent. and the other to 54%. But the statement elsewhere merely named, as it was bound to do, the "ratio of total reserves to deposit and note liabilities combined" as 80.1 per cent. If the change in form and method of the system's balance sheet is worth making and is to be made effective, it can hardly be done without new legislation; the repeal, for instance, of the 1917 amendment.

MEXICO'S THICKENING TROUBLES.

Yesterday's long Cabinet meeting at Washington had something more serious to consider than the temporary refusal of the Acting Governor of Texas to permit Mexican troops, even unarmed, to pass through that State. This is a difficulty which could easily be got over, in one way or another. The really grave events are occurring in the neighborhood of Tampico and in the interior of Mexico. There appears to be no doubt that American interests are threatened. These the Administration can be depended upon to protect in every way open to it. But such a revolution as is now going on makes ordinary measures ineffective. Our Government cannot with any promise of success call upon President Obregon to safeguard the lives and property of Americans in territory where he is for the time being powerless. And to attempt to deal directly with the leaders of the insurrection is too much like beating the air.

News from Mexico during the past few weeks has been notoriously untrustworthy, whether coming from the side of the Government or from the headquarters of the Huertistas. Scattered reports from various points of the Mexican Republic are more alarming than the strictly military bulletins. It appears to be unhappily true that the old revolutionary virus is again inflaming great numbers of Mexicans. Too many of them are broken in morale by the upheavals of the past few years, so that they are in a mood to join their fortunes to those of any man who raises a banner of revolt, and promises to give them a chance to live by marauding and looting. It is this element in the situation which makes it so ominous not only for the present but for the long future. Disturbed as our State Department must be by the dashing to the earth of its bright hopes of having a stabilized Mexico to deal with, the country will have confidence in Secretary Hughes, and will count upon his displaying all needed patience, as well as due firmness, in attempting to find a safe and honorable and friendly solution of the Mexican problem.

THE TREATY OF ALBANY.

Reports of conferences to be held next week between Governor Smith and the Republican leaders, and of the possibility of a sort of treaty, or arrangement, by which a part of the Governor's program will be accepted by the Republicans, have a millennial sound, but merely indicate that in this "Presidential year" both parties are expected to be on their best behavior. Promises of co-operation have been frequent, but have been usually quoted far below par. Still, hope is beautiful; and the prospect, even if it turn out to be a mirage, that the Legislature will deal with even a certain number of measures according to their merits, not their political origin, is almost sweet enough to make Astraea land at Albany.

At least, the Republicans seem to have a more open mind than they did last year. They are willing to talk things over with the Governor. His motor-vehicle program should be easily accepted. As to labor measures, the one difficulty ought to be the desire of each party to show itself the only original friend of labor. An agreement on water-power legislation is easily attainable, with good-will on both sides. New York City transit and the regulation of public utilities are thornier questions. It can't be expected nor is it to be desired that the Republicans will consent to give up State supervision of transit rates and operation; nor is there good reason for the abolition of the Transit Commission. Some Republican legislators look at transit solely from the political angle. Let the city go its own gait in the matter of building new transit lines, they say. Perhaps it is permitted to remark, without suspicion of blasphemy, that, sacred as is home rule in all its implications and extensions—whatever they may be yet discovered to be—and edifying as municipal autonomy is, if we don't get too much of it, this city is not without strong elements of orphanage and nonage. Many of its citizens feel that it always needs a guardian.

Direct primaries, beloved of the Governor, don't touch the Republican heart. Why should they? Having gone wrong on the Governor's proposed constitutional amendments for an executive budget and a four-year term for Governors, proposals backed by good Republican authority, the Republican legislators will have to continue to be stiff-necked. Fortunately, they are equally stiff-necked in refusing to abolish the Public Service Commission. As for the Farms and Markets Council, the Legislature elects it, and the Republicans usually control the Legislature. The Republicans can be depended upon to remain jealous of their privileges.

Let the high powers indulge in conversations. We may hope that they will "get together" to some extent. In spite of past disappointments, the good will try to believe in the perseverance of the saints at Albany.

BROOKHART ON CONSPIRACY.

To Senatorial insurrectos there is no such thing as cause and effect. Everything is conspiracy. Things do not happen to the farmer's prices because of economic law. They happen because a number of Wall Street bankers get together around a table and proceed to skin the farmer. Senator Brookhart has raised his voice against the vile propaganda that is now under way to create the popular impression that the American farmer is prosperous. Actually, according to Brookhart, 23 per cent. of the farmers in fifteen Northwestern States are insolvent, and it is his belief that the ratio would hold true for the whole country.

What have Mr. Brookhart and his associated farmer's defenders been doing to relieve the situation? The farmers are in distress because prices of their products have fallen while prices of what they must buy have remained high. The way of relief for the farmer is to increase his income by enlarging his markets and to decrease his outlay by cutting down his costs. One way to help agriculture is to help restore the purchasing power of Europe. But when you mention American co-operation for that purpose it is precisely the Senators from the agricultural West who rise up against "entanglement."

An obvious way of reducing the farmer's living costs is to reduce the tariff rates which affect the farmer's clothes and household utensils and farm machinery. But though everything else at Washington is suspect to Senator Brookhart, the tariff is still the Ark of the Covenant on which no sacrilegious hands must be laid. If the farmer has been, indeed, the victim of propaganda, that propaganda has come from the farm bloc Senators. They have fed him on the buncombe of emergency tariffs, which protect him from nothing in particular and at the price of inflated tariff rates on the things that touch the farmer intimately.

If Mr. Brookhart can be persuaded to look further east than Wall Street, he might give a thought to a British fellow-radical named Macdonald. The latter feels the plight of the British worker acutely. But he knows that if the British worker is to live there must be a market for the products of the British factory. At the same time Macdonald rejects a tariff that would lift the cost of living. Brookhart refuses to subscribe to such a simple remedy as finding a market for what the American farmer has to sell, or to such a simple thing as cutting down the cost of the farmer's necessities. There is no melodrama at all in such devices; whereas Conspiracy and Propaganda just spill over with heart interest.

FRANCE HELPS HERSELF.

The courage of M. Poincare's Government in bringing out just before an election a plan for a general increase in taxation is beyond praise. Yet the vote of confidence given M. Poincare in the Chamber shows that the majority of French politicians are aware of the seriousness of the financial situation, and are willing to consider sound measures.

This change is due in part to the results of the occupation of the Ruhr. That brought home to the Germans the consciousness of their defeat, but has made it easier for the French Government to "debamboozle" the people about the promises of the Spring of 1919, that Germany would pay for everything. Slowly it has become clear that these promises were based on hopes rather than on ascertained economic facts.

The French people have naturally been reluctant to believe that Germany would not pay for the costs of the war. For political reasons no Frenchman could say that France would be lucky to get one-tenth of the original bill. Furthermore, no one dared point out that the process of meeting the expenses of reconstruction, which Germany rightfully should have paid, by continued borrowing simply meant delaying the day of reckoning. So long as payments from Germany were forthcoming borrowing was the natural process. But it was dangerous inasmuch as it increased the likelihood of trouble when the moment of disillusion arrived.

The French have been courageous in their method of meeting the crisis. Instead of continuing the fiction that their budget was balanced, which they did by transferring to a special so-called "recoverable" budget the costs of the reconstruction work for which Germany was to reimburse them, they are facing the fact that they have in reality a deficit, and that it can no longer safely be met by progressive borrowing on a large scale. The alternative is to increase taxes, though this method is politically hazardous. But the prompt response of the country shows the essential common sense of the French people in an emergency. Incidentally, it brings out clearly France's need of a permanent reparations settlement, and should put an end to the talk of those who claim that she seeks not reparations, but rather the destruction of Germany.

ENNOBLING A CALLING.

The life of Thomas E. Kirby, who died in Philadelphia on Wednesday, illustrates a great principle of human conduct. As he himself put it, his success was due to his resolve: "First, "to know thoroughly every article he "sold; second, never to make a "false statement about any article "he sold." Honesty is the best policy, Franklin asserted, as a rule of business, but you must also know your business.

Mr. Kirby began at 12 years as an auctioneer. And a year before his death, at the age of 76, he sold 251 lots of books in an hour and a quarter, merely to show that he was not a feeble old man. He not only ennobled an occupation which so often has been subject to disparagement and ridicule, but he stuck to it to the end. He did this in spite of the fact that he had become, as managing director of the American Art Galleries, one of the most acute and useful of art critics. He had a practical love of beauty, a genuine discernment, and withal a loyalty to the common things of life, which illuminates his record with a special kind of distinction.

If the occupation of an auctioneer seems to be regarded by unthinking people as "tricky," this is due more largely to human weakness than to a class of men who, because they make their living out of human weakness, are in the unfortunate position of seeming by cleverness of speech to make people buy something which they really do not want at prices higher than they ought to pay. Men and women are always looking for a bargain. If they are sometimes fooled, their own cupidity is often at fault. Auctioneers probably yield as many honest men to the acre as any other class, but they are obliged to endure much through human frailty. Mr. Kirby showed that, as J. P. Morgan said not long before he died, character is the basis of lasting success.

DEFENSE OF THE CANAL ZONE.

The war games at Panama a year ago convinced our military authorities that the Canal would be vulnerable to attack by an enemy fleet equipped with 16-inch guns and airplane carriers. No modern pieces of that calibre were mounted on Toboga, Flamenco and Perico Islands, and the defending force was weak in airplanes. At the time there was only one battleship in the navy carrying 16-inch guns. In last year's war game it was assumed that the enemy had several ships armed with them. The enemy was known as the "Black Fleet." Admiral Eberle, in command of it, evaded Admiral McDonald of the American Fleet, and made a base at Culebra Bay on the Costa Rican coast, from which he dispatched airplanes to attack the Gatun locks. It seems to have been decided that the home fleet was outranged, and that the Panama fortifications were at the mercy of the enemy's air squadrons.

Later a scheme of defense was recommended which called for the mounting of 16-inch guns on the approaches to the Canal on both sides of the Isthmus, and for a large aircraft force to be based on the Canal Zone. With guns of such range in position, the American Fleet could pass through the waterway in either direction, and in security it could form in line of battle to meet the enemy fleet. It should be understood that the Washington Naval Treaty restricts capital ship calibres to 16 inches, so that there can now be no question of an enemy attacking with the 18-inch gun which was being designed in more than one country when the conference met.

When the war games for 1924 began at Panama the Canal Zone was still undergarrisoned, the airplane force was still weak and the guns of the islands were still inadequate. It was, therefore, to be expected that the attacking or "Black Fleet" would prove formidable in its methods of attack, and so far such has proved to be the case. On Jan. 17 it landed, in spite of a heavy sea, a thousand marines near Cristobal Harbor. They proceeded to seize Fort Randolph, the naval station, and the submarine base. It is said that the lesson of this exploit of the marines leaves no room for doubt that the coast line cannot be held by a single regiment of infantry, since at some point surprise is not difficult. A satisfactory feature of the war game has been the celerity with which warships can be filed through the Canal. But if without protection by mounted guns, there is no zone of safety for them on emerging. If two or three capital ships of a defending force were sunk, victory would probably rest with the enemy. The presumption is that this year's war game will again show that theoretically the defenses of the Canal are far from adequate.

The real battle for mastery of the Canal is supposed to be fought at sea. "If our navy is driven from the sea and made negligible," wrote Admiral H. S. Knapp a year or two ago, "an "enemy with a great army can under"take with impunity the transporta"tion of the troops necessary to over"come the inner line of defense (the "garrison) and complete the victory "begun on the ocean." But the defending fleet must be on the right side of the Isthmus to give battle. Therefore it should have the opportunity under the fire of big guns and supported by airplanes to get through into deep water on either side.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Perhaps They Laugh After Dark.

There is difficulty in seeing how, any more than in the case of two Roman augurs who met in the street, the Senators who passed the resolution to investigate the origin and conduct of Mr. Bok's peace plan competition and the source of popular sentiment for the Mellon tax reduction proposal and against the soldiers' bonus can keep from smiling at each other.

For really, in spite of the solemnity with which the resolution is worded and the seriousness which the members of the investigating committee are preserving in public, it cannot be that they are unable to see how funny the whole thing is, and how absurdly obvious that their object is not to get information about suspected conspiracies, but to prevent by the menace of inquisitorial proceedings the public advocacy of any cause or undertaking that is obnoxious to one or another Senatorial group.

The effort, apparently, is to establish a censorship on "propaganda," and even on "publicity," for the latter word, as used by this particular group, seems to share in their minds the odium which the war brought on the former. They are determined to prevent, if they can, the exertion on public sentiment of any influence except their own, and also to prevent the expression of any sentiment that they do not share. The hopelessness of achieving this ambition saves it from being outrageous and leaves it merely amusing.

Senator Moses hitherto has been credited with possessing a sense of humor of the rather grim New England kind, but he is showing as little of it now as do his companions on the committee, from whom none at all is expected by anybody.

They Ignore Obvious Explanations.

Darkest of the suspicions as to conspiracy professed by Senator Moses and his fellow-inquisitors are those which they direct against the amiable Mr. Bok. They insist on peering deep below the surface of his peace plan campaign, though its full explanation can be found on the surface by anybody willing to look for it there.

Surely there never was a less secretive man than he has been in the offering and the awarding of his big prize; and while it is undeniable that he has secured for it an enormous amount of "publicity," all his activities have been in the open and of the utmost innocence. He who cannot see why Mr. Bok was able to attract a lot of attention to his scheme must be blind. His record assured it, for is he not known pretty well the country over as the editor of a periodical that pleased and edified several millions of virtuous readers, and did he not write his autobiography in a way to make it one of its year's best sellers? When he spoke, and especially when he hung $100,000 in good hard cash on a not very high branch and said, "Come and get it!" there naturally was something of a rush in his direction.

From the beginning he was entirely explicit in telling what he wanted for his money, his sleeves were well pulled up to show that there would be no deception in the materialization of his rabbit, and if he "worked" for many weeks the larger part of the American press for free advertising he did it just as Henry Ford has been doing the same thing for years and years by supplying news so interesting that every paper had to print it.

There has been as little of conspiracy in behalf of Secretary Mellon's suggestion as to tax reduction. He only had to speak the words to make everybody, rich and poor alike, utter loud cries of glad approval. It was a clear case of "nem. con.," and to ask why it was is about like asking why the hungry eat and the thirsty drink.

We're Beaten at Our Own Game.

Americans are supposed to be the most ingenious and skillful advertisers in the world, and the English commonly pass for being rather clumsy about it. Therefore those big corporations of ours which have been spending a lot of money on roadside signs should feel a little humiliated on learning that two of the great British oil companies have been shrewd enough to see that by the simple expedient of announcing their determination to desecrate scenery no more forever they not only would cut down overhead appreciably, but would turn animosity into enthusiastic approval and get of "publicity" great quantities of the very best and most profitable kind.

All the London papers, and presumably those of provincial England, are giving hearty praise and a lot of space to these two companies, printing in full the declarations of reform and urging other sinners to bring forth like fruits meet for repentance. Result: the names Shell-Mex. Limited and Anglo-American Oil are better known now in England than any amount of billboard advertising could make them, and they unanimously are blessed instead of blamed.

If that isn't good for business, what would be?

When News Breaks Conveniently.

While on the subject of advertising it seems only fair that, breaking rules a little, some of it should be done by The Times for itself by calling attention—very gently and quietly, of course—to the interesting fact that three times of late this paper has been able to offer its readers dispatches not only from the scenes of important foreign happenings, but written by notably able representatives of its own.

The head of its Washington Bureau, Mr. Oulahan, chanced to be in Tokio when for the second time it and Yokohama were shaken by another earthquake, almost as bad as the one in September and perhaps more terrifying to the nerve-shaken Japanese. So he could tell all about that.

Not long before, when the Greeks decided that they had tired of their royal family and wanted a different kind of government, Mrs. McCormick, by fortunate chance, or thanks to the prophetic powers of feminine intuition, was on the spot to observe and explain the revolution. Times readers do not need to be told her special competence for both those tasks or for any other like them.

Thirdly, Mr. Marshall of our London Bureau, wandering on a vacation as far as Chile, arrived there at the most propitious moment for studying the course of events immensely important to that country.

This list could be much lengthened if it were made to cover a year or so, but these instances of the tendency of Times representatives to be just where they are needed most can stand for all the others as illustrations and specimens.

BARNEGAT LIGHT.

Appeal to the Government to Preserve a Historic Beacon.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Enclosed you will please find copy of letter written to Secretary of Commerce Hoover in connection with the Government appropriation of $100,000, already passed by Congress, for the preservation of the historic and necessary Barnegat lighthouse.

I appeal to you as the Mayor of the little borough which has this lighthouse in its keeping and which has practically bankrupted itself to save for the time being this New Jersey landmark. The present situation is critical—the lighthouse would be endangered by a severe storm, and the appropriation will automatically expire with the fiscal year.

I am also going to ask you to urge your readers to write to Mr. Hoover and their Congressmen to support this demand. T. JAY FRANCE, Mayor.
Borough of Barnegat City.

[COPY]
January 11, 1924.

Hon. Herbert C. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Secretary: I am the Mayor of the Borough of Barnegat City and write to you on behalf of that borough.

As you know, an appropriation of $100,000 was made available by act of Congress for the preservation of the Barnegat lighthouse, I understand that Mr. Putnam, head of the Lighthouse Service of your department, has hardened his heart against the use of that appropriation, and, it is currently rumored, wishes to abandon the light. My borough has plunged itself head over heels in bonded debt to save the light—something which the Government itself should have done—and for a long period of time must carry our exceedingly high tax rate to pay off the principal and interest of these bonds. Now this is to go all for naught because Mr. Putnam will not heed the wish of Congress—and, I do not think it too much to say, the desire of the entire State of New Jersey.

Barnegat Light is in all probability the most historic light along the Atlantic Coast. A light must be maintained at Barnegat Inlet; that is conceded by the Light-house service, even though this particular light is abandoned and a lightship placed off the coast. From both standpoints, it seems difficult to understand the prejudices of Mr. Putnam.

I submit that the unanimous desire of the people of the State, expressed through the votes of all its Congressmen and Senators, should be granted. Both reason and sentiment support it. No one talks of abandoning the Fire Island light because there is a Fire Island lightship, and there is no more reason in this case for such action.

To be perfectly frank, if the Lighthouse Service, before you came into office, and when the light was first threatened, in 1918-19, had been on the job, there would be no problem now. Instead, it did practically nothing, and was apparently not only willing but anxious to have the sea wipe out the light.

I respectfully appeal to you, therefore, to instruct your subordinate to avail himself of the appropriation, which will automatically expire with the fiscal year. Surely you will not let the desire of an entire State be overridden.

T. JAY FRANCE, Mayor.
Borough of Barnegat City.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

So far as I can tell, The New York Times and certain Democratic statesmen seem to take the logical ground that all special gratuities or special privileges at the general expense of the people should cease. I personally believe that is the wise and proper position. But can you blame us veterans for showing cynical amusement when a Republican President and other Republican statesmen oppose the bonus and advocate high tariffs to enrich manufacturers or special governmental credits for wheat farmers? If any special favors are given to certain classes, who have a better right to such favors than the veterans whose sacrifices made possible the peace and prosperity we now enjoy?

Two arguments used by anti-bonus writers seem to be of little value. The first is that few veterans need it. The whole contention of the American Legion is that it is a payment of a just wage, not a charity. The question of need does not enter into the matter any more than when one pays his plumber or doctor for services rendered. Another is that the veterans have not declared in favor of it and to sustain this statement straw votes in smoking cars are quoted as proof. When one-fourth of any large body of persons year after year in public conventions demand a certain measure and the organized opposition within their ranks can muster only a handful of persons it is evidence that the one-fourth substantially expresses the sentiments of the majority. If not, the opposition of the now silent three-fourths would drown out the minority.

Let both sides stick to logical and patriotic arguments. Also let opponents of the bonus remember it may not be wise or proper to pay the man that saved your life and property, but it is the height of bad taste to call him evil names if he does send you a bill. ROBERTS WILLIAMS.

On the Unveiling of the Head of Lee on Stone Mountain.

O Mountain, lonely in your majesty,
You are companioned for eternity!

For now you bear him on your breast
sublime
of Time!

As you stand there in lone sublimity,
So lonely was the lifted soul of Lee!

As you stand . . . changeless . . . there against the sky—
So shall he stand against eternity!

As far as is your summit from the plain,
So far was he from thought of self or gain.

Strong as the granite of your heart
today,
Was he for that part it was his to play!

As you have often been by clouds obscured,
So doubt, misunderstanding, he endured.

But he stood firm, unwavering and strong,
As you have stood here through the ages long.

Now lonely nevermore—nor you, nor he—
His comrades there will bear him company!

And you will be for all eternity
Companioned by the mighty soul of Lee!

You bear him now upon your breast
sublime
of Time.

REPLY TO PROF. FAIRCHILD.

Max J. Kohler on His Use of Quotations and Immigration Statistics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with considerable surprise Professor Henry P. Fairchild's letter in your issue of yesterday, in which he complains that I have misquoted him in the article in my immigration series which you published on Jan. 14, and I crave this opportunity to reply because readers of his letter are not apt to analyze it critically enough, in the light of the facts, to see how unwarranted his strictures are.

In support of the claim that New England—whence the Immigration Restriction League and the quota law emanated—has always, generally speaking, been unfriendly to the non-English immigrant and undisposed to understand him and his value, I referred to the views of "some doctrinaire Yankee economists and stump speakers unfamiliar with our nation's history." I not only did not mention Professor Fairchild and the other New Englanders I meant by name, but intentionally, and in order to avoid personalities, refrained from naming them. As far as I know, Professor Fairchild does not enjoy either royal or editorial prerogatives to entitle himself to assume that I had him in mind only when I used the plural in speaking of "some doctrinaire economists," and probably he is the only one of your readers who recognized that I quoted a composite passage partly extracted from his book. It is also obvious on its face that I did not refer to him when I attributed the same sentiment to "stump speakers"—again in the plural—rehashing his supposedly authoritative views, for, as far as I know, this rejoinder to me is the first time the professor has abandoned the "academic calm" even to approach the rôle of a "stump speaker."

Professor Fairchild's grievance ostensibly is that I quoted only passages from his work and not the full fair text. Unfortunately, the exigencies of space prevented my quoting him further, and it is apparent that the quotation fairly and substantially summarizes the views he and Professor Commons—whom he in turn quoted with approval—expressed. I think this is the first time on record that a person not even named or individualized and intentionally described in the plural—to indicate that the views in question are those of two groups, which I was assailing—has attempted—and offensively at that—to complain of unfair quotation! Lack of space in a daily newspaper compelled me in this very connection to strike out a citation of an article of my own, published in the March, 1914, issue of The American Economic Review and in pamphlet reprint, where the matter in question (including the full quotations) was gone into much more extensively. This notwithstanding the fact that the mere citation indicated that I also have been received, on occasion, in the sanctified circles of the political economists.

Professor Fairchild also criticizes a passage from an ostensibly ten-minute argument of mine of April 7, 1920, before the National Conference on Immigration under the auspices of the Inter-Racial Council (Proceedings pp. 66-71). He concedes that the official immigration figures I cited are correctly rendered as to immediate destination of immigrants for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919—designed to show the workings of the Immigration act of 1917, with its literacy test—but complains that I should have pointed out that a "war year" was involved, and intimates that this was not a typical year and that I should have chosen a larger cycle of time. Here also the professor declines to make any allowance for such mundane matters as "time and space." But I was not supposed to fabricate my statistics. I used the very last available to any one at the time, and I ignored those of the only other year available that could also have shown the workings of the literacy test—enacted in 1917—because that was in fact a "war year." Subsequent figures in the immigration annual reports and in the census of 1920 establish the same fact—the natural heavy distribution, even at arrival, of immigrants to different States than the one containing Ellis Island. But should I not have extended my comment about unfamiliarity with past history so as to include facts of present-day happenings, supposedly known to every one? I had an idea that the armistice was proclaimed in the latter part of 1918 and that the bulk of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, was not a "war year," certainly not for immigration purposes, Professor Fairchild's attempted recasting of indisputable historical facts notwithstanding. On the other hand, I have a good case on the score of "unfair quotation" against him, for he ignores my very relevant reference, in the very passage involved, concerning the demonstration made by Professor Willcox—concededly a greater statistician than he or I—as to the enormous natural distribution of the immigrant throughout the country some time after landing.

Professor Fairchild, for some esoteric reason, also quotes—ostensibly against me—a passage from Miss Grace Abbott's work about our population not being homogeneous. I fully subscribe to Miss Abbott's statement, but regret that Professor Fairchild has contented himself with quoting merely a qualifying passage. The question is, Whose ox is gored? My point, in fact, was that we are not, and never have been, a homogeneous people, and therein is to be found much of our country's wonderful success, as shown by the master analysts of its history. That does not imply that the alien is not being Americanized and assimilated, however, nor that, on the other hand, such Americanization agencies as Miss Abbott and I have been connected with should not be expanded and emulated, instead of being ignored. On the contrary, unlike Professor Fairchild, my hope is that we will continue to be an unhomogeneous country and, on the other hand, recognize the valued services of all alleged "extraneous grafts" in making for its prosperity and renown other than the Protestant English, and seek to find a common centre solely in united loyalty and fealty to our beloved country, natural and adoptive, including its official and beautiful common language, English.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In today's Times there is a report that four seals were seen in the Hudson River near Hastings a few days ago. In this connection it is quite interesting to those historically inclined to remember that what is known as "Robbins Reef," where hundreds of thousands of Staten Islanders pass every day, was known as "Roben Reef" by our Dutch ancestors and was corrupted by the English into "Robbins Reef." It was so named by the old Dutch Staten Islanders because seals used to congregate in large numbers on the rocks on which the lighthouse now stands.

FRANKLIN'S IDEAS EXTOLLED BY BECK

Budget Day Exercises Held as Part of Thrift Week by Women's Clubs.

More working and less talking is the remedy for many of our problems that would be proposed by Benjamin Franklin if he were alive today, according to James M. Beck, Solicitor General of the United States, who rated Franklin as "the greatest of American intellects" at a dinner of the International Benjamin Franklin Society last night at the Hotel Astor. The dinner was part of the country-wide celebration of the 218th anniversary of the birth of Franklin, which fell on Thursday.

"It was here in the Capitol of this State," said Mr. Beck, "that he first suggested a concrete plan for an organized union of the Colonies in 1754, and this plan was the Constitution of the United States in embryo.

"It is a lasting reflection upon the State of New York that it has failed to make any adequate memorial at Albany of the great fact that within its walls the first plan of the union was developed. It is a lasting reflection on our nation that it has never worthily honored the founder of the American Commonwealth by an appropriate memorial in the City of Washington."

Mr. Beck said that the revival of interest in the extraordinary personality of the "Rare Ben Franklin" was one of the encouraging signs of the times and that some of the acute problems of the present could be "readily solved if this generation had his spirit of toleration, his love of constructive achievement and his genius of common sense."

Franklin's Sense of Humor.

He pointed out that Franklin always combined judgment with humor. "He once humorously suggested a desire to float for a century in a state of suspended animation in a cask of Madeira and then visit the scene of his achievements. If his wish had been gratified, and he were today to crawl out of that cask of Madeira, possibly nothing would amuse him more than that the mere possession of that beverage is now forbidden by the Constitution of the United States and made a crime by the statutory laws."

Mr. Beck said that few men in recorded history had achieved fame in so many differing ways as Franklin—"in diplomacy a Talleyrand; in invention the forerunner of Edison; in philanthropy a Wilberforce; in physical science a Newton; in philosophy an Erasmus; in statecraft a Richelieu; in humor a Swift; in style an Addison; in power of narration a Defoe; in all things a man."

Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, said that Franklin was one of the leaders of his time who did not ignore local problems, however trivial. He described how Franklin formed the first municipal police department—the "City Watch"—and told how Franklin brought about street paving and cleaning, and organized a fire department for Philadelphia.

Tributes to the genius of Franklin were paid also by John Clyde Oswald, President of the International Benjamin Franklin Society, who acted as toastmaster, and George H. Carter, Public Printer.

Thrift Week Meeting.

More persons are injured in industry in the United States each year than were killed in the World War, according to James C. Wright, Director of the Federal Bureau of Vocational Education, who was one of several speakers at the Budget Day exercises held yesterday afternoon in the Wanamaker Auditorium in connection with Thrift Week by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Every one of these injured persons," said Mr. Wright, "could be restored to useful industry. There is some way that each of them can be taught to earn a living. It is our job to teach them, and I predict that in the near future every injured man, woman and child in the country who in other days would have been considered useless will be earning a decent livelihood and doing his part to keep our country going. Such is the thrift program of the Bureau of Vocational Education."

Grant Mitchell, actor, was the next speaker, and among other things he said:

"Frankly," said Mr. Mitchell, "the reason that I am here is to serve as a horrid example. Thrift is taught not alone by holding up to you splendid examples of the success of thrift, but also by presenting to you a typical case of a member of the most thriftless profession in the world.

"It is the popular conception that with actors it is 'easy come, easy go.' The truth of the matter is, however, that it is 'easy come, when it comes.' For a large part of their careers actors have no income, and they have no opportunity to do any careful budgeting or wise spending. Look at us, and then make up your minds to be thrifty."

Lew Wallace Jr., director of the Department of Savings of the United States Treasury Department, talked of "How to Save Money" and asserted that if the budget was not to be wrecked the principal things to be considered were "an item for emergencies" and an "item for savings."

He announced that a new thrift booklet on "How to Save Your Savings" was now being prepared under direction of Secretary Mellon for general distribution soon.

Other speakers were Mrs. Key Cammack, Assistant Secretary of the New York Trust Company; Miss Isabel Ely Lord, author and budget specialist; Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, Director of the General Federation of Women's Clubs of California, who presided at the meeting; Mrs. John H. Booth, President of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. C. D. Lee, President of the New Jersey Federation, and Mrs. Henry Taylor, President of the Iowa Federation. Today's program has been planned under the title of "Pay Your Bills Day."

ANCIENT ART TO BE SOLD.

Important Greek, Roman and Egyptian Objects on View Now.

An important collection of ancient art comprising Greek, Roman and Egyptian objects will be placed on view today at the American Art Galleries, 30 East Fifty-seventh Street, and sold on Jan. 25 and 26. The collection is the property of C. & E. Canessa, long established in Naples and Paris, and is being sold in the liquidation of the estate of the late Cav. Cesare Canessa. The collection comes from many distinguished sources.

There are many finely sculptured marble figures, including the marble head of a young man, Greek, of the fourth century B. C.; the Three Graces, Greek, of the third century B. C., found at Capua; the head of a Roman patrician lady of the first years of the Christian era, and a bust of the Emperor Commodus.

Among the fine bronzes are the statuette of a faun of the fourth century B. C., the Olympic victor of the school of the elder Polyclitus and the rare sixth century B. C. bronze tripod.

Among the later sculptures are a bust and a relief by Benedetto da Majano, reliefs by Bartolomeo Bellano, Antonio Rossellino and Tommasso Fiamberti; a statue by Amadeo, a bust by Alessandro Vittoria and a tabernacle by Civitale.

A silver gilt and crystal reliquary, most probably executed by Manno, who was a pupil of Benvenuto Cellini, bears the arms of the Farnese family and was probably executed for one of its members, Pope Paul III., who is seen seated on the base.

The paintings include the "Coronation of the Virgin," by Taddeo di Bartolo; a triptych, by Nardo di Cione; a Pieta, by Carlo Crivelli, and a ceiling, by Giovanni Battista Tiepolo.

There are a few tapestries of French and Flemish origin, early Greek terra cotta vases, fifteenth and sixteenth century majolicas and Gothic and Renaissance furniture.

MISS MILLHISER TO WED R. GIMBEL

Daughter of Mrs. Clarence Millhiser Engaged to Vice President of Gimbel Brothers.

Boston Girl to Marry Bruce M. Larrabee—Troth of Miss Louise Owen and Dana Brannan.

Mrs. Clarence Millhiser of 270 Park Avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Julia de Fernex Millhiser, to Richard Gimbel, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis A. Gimbel, of Philadelphia, and a Vice President of the Gimbel Brothers stores of New York and Philadelphia.

Miss Millhiser, who just made her début in New York, is a graduate of Oaksmere School, Mamaroneck, N. Y., where for four years she was captain of the hockey team. She then spent three years at Chateau Groslay, France, and in the art schools of Europe. She has performed many times at charity shows and recently was the star of "Vanity Fair of 1923" in New York for the benefit of cardiac children.

Mr. Gimbel is a graduate of the Central High School of Philadelphia, and also a student of the La Villa School, Lausanne, Switzerland. He graduated from Yale College in 1920, being on the Yale Record Board, the Dramatic Club, President of the Chess Club, and Phi Beta Kappa. His war record dates from a year before the outbreak of hostilities when he entered service in the field artillery, rising during the war to the rank of first lieutenant, which he retains today in the Reserve Corps.

Among the clubs and organizations of which Mr. Gimbel is a member are the Philadelphia Cricket Club, the Yale Clubs of New York and Philadelphia, the Philmont Country Club, the Locust Club, the Lancaster Polo Team, the Penn Athletic Club, the Military Orders of Foreign Wars and the World War, and the American Legion.

Mr. Gimbel met Miss Millhiser in Czechoslovakia after completing a trip around the world, visiting more than forty countries.

No date has been set for the wedding.

McKey—Larrabee.

Mrs. John Franklin McKey of Boston announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Josephine Elizabeth McKey, to Bruce Mackay Larrabee, son of Mrs. Albert S. Larrabee of Lakewood, N. J.

Miss McKey attended the Knox School at Cooperstown, N. Y., and is a niece of Eltinge Fowler Warner of 54 East Fifty-sixth Street, at whose residence the wedding will take place on Feb. 2, to be followed by a small reception.

Owen—Brannan.

Mrs. Edward F. Giroux of 173 West Seventy-eighth Street has announced the engagement of her sister-in-law, Miss Louise Owen, who lives with her, to Dana Brannan, a son of Dr. and Mrs. John Winters Brannan of 114 East Seventy-first Street. Mr. Brannan graduated from Harvard College in 1905 and from the Harvard Law School in 1910. He has been on the local news staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES for several years. The wedding will be in March.

COMMANDER POWELL WEDS.

Takes Miss Margaret T. Dole as His Bride in St. Thomas's Church.

The marriage of Commander Halsey Powell, U. S. N., of Washington, D. C., and Miss Margaret T. Dole of 39 East Sixty-ninth Street took place at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Thomas's Church, the Rev. W. L. Caswell officiating, with none except the relatives of the bride and bridegroom present. The wedding was set for Wednesday at 4 o'clock at St. Thomas's, but Miss Dole was taken ill Tuesday and her physician ordered complete rest. There were no attendants. Commander Powell and Mrs. Powell left a little later for Washington.

Armstrong—Naylor.

Mr. and Mrs. De Witt Clinton Baker of 46 Neptune Avenue, New Rochelle, N. Y., announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Marie Baker Armstrong, to Charles Edward Naylor of Houston, Texas, which took place on Monday, Jan. 14, in Trinity Church, New Rochelle. Mrs. Naylor was the widow of Lieutenant Roger F. Armstrong, U. S. N.

Fleisher—Davenport.

Mrs. Millia Davenport, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Davenport of Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., and Walter L. Fleisher were married yesterday by the Rev. John Haynes Holmes at 126 Waverley Place, this city.

Mrs. Fleisher attended Barnard College, class of '17, and left college to devote herself to theatrical designing, her latest success being in "Helen of Troy, New York." Mr. Fleisher is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and is President of W. L. Fleisher & Co., industrial engineers. During the war he worked on food preservation in connection with the Department of Agriculture.

This is the second marriage of both Mr. and Mrs. Fleisher. They will live at 126 Waverley Place.

AID CHRISTODORA HOUSE.

Throng at Ball at Ritz—Cora, Countess of Strafford, Hostess.

The Christodora ball was held last night at the Ritz-Carlton for the benefit of Christodora House, and was largely attended. Cortez and Peggy appeared on the program of entertainment.

Among the dinner hostesses who took their guests afterward to the ball were Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, President of the Board of Managers of Christodora House; Mrs. Francis Fitz-Randolph, Mrs. Edward Peasley, Mrs. Frank N. Doubleday, Miss Florence Sullivan, Mrs. Walter B. Jennings and Miss Julia Ryle.

Miss Marion Willard was Chairman of the Dance Committee, which numbered over a hundred, including many leaders among the younger element of society, and Lawrence Smith Butler was Chairman of the Floor Committee.

Cora, Countess of Strafford, gave a small dinner last night at the Plaza, taking her guests later to the theatre.

At the Ambassador a meeting was held yesterday of the Débutante Committee of the Charity Ball, which is to take place on Feb. 5 at the Waldorf-Astoria. Nominations were made at the meeting for members of the Floor Committee, which is under the Chairmanship of Lawrence Smith Butler. Miss Virginia Pratt, Chairman of the débutantes, outlined plans for the grand march, a feature of the ball for many years, and Miss Marjorie Cleveland, who is the Chairman of the Program Committee, arranged for their sale that night.

BID FOR CAR "AD" SPACE.

Three Companies Seek Privileges on Rapid Transit Corporation's Lines.

Artemas Ward, Inc., and the Union Car Advertising Company informed the Transit Commission yesterday that they wished to submit bids for advertising privileges on the rapid transit lines of the New York Rapid Transit Corporation, a B. M. T. subsidiary, which has submitted a contract with Barron G. Collier for the commission's approval.

In view of the large amount of money involved and the proposed length of the contract the commission decided to request the Rapid Transit Corporation to consider bids from the two firms mentioned, although there is no legal requirement for competitive bidding. The hearing was adjourned for two weeks.

CINCINNATI JEWS CELEBRATE CENTENNIAL

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 18.—"The four great Churches—Roman Catholic, Greek Orthodox, Jewish and Protestant—have come to stand in closer fellowship," said Charles Franklin Thwing, President Emeritus of Western Reserve University, at the opening of the centennial celebration of the Bene Israel Congregation at the Rockdale Avenue Temple tonight.

Rabbi David Philipson characterized the celebration as a story of Jewish progress, and said there was a better co-operation and a finer understanding between Jews and non-Jews in Cincinnati than in any other city in the universe. He attributed this to the "undiluted Americanism" which had distinguished the pulpit of the Rockdale Avenue Temple.

"Jewish men and women are responding more readily to the call of their Jewish heritage, and, as a result, are taking their Judaism more seriously," said Rabbi Abram Simon of Washington, D. C., President of the Central Conference of American rabbis.

The speakers were introduced by Ralph W. Mack, President of the congregation, and messages of congratulation were read from President Coolidge and from churches and organizations of all creeds.

The Bene Israel Congregation was organized Jan. 4, 1824, by a small band of hardy pioneers. Today the organization is the oldest Jewish religious congregation west of the Allegheny Mountains. Its history has been interwoven with that of Cincinnati.

Those who assisted in the organization of the Congregation were Simon Moses, Morris Moses, Joseph Jonas, David I. Johnson, Jonas Levy, Solomon Moses, Phineas Moses, Samuel Jonas, Solomon Buckingham and Morris Symonds. At the first general meeting of the Congregation, which was held fourteen days after the organization, Joseph Jonas was elected President and Phineas Moses and Jonas Levy were made yestrymen.

In 1835 the Congregation built the first Jewish temple in Cincinnati at Sixth Street and Broadway and it was regarded as one of the "skyscrapers" of its day. It is now known as Allen Temple and is occupied by a negro congregation. A new temple at Eighth and Mound Streets was built in 1868 and dedicated the following year. The present house of the Congregation in Rockdale Avenue was built seventeen years ago. The membership is more than 750.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Jan. 18.—One of the biggest society events of the Winter season was the annual ball of the Masonic Club, held in the State Armory here tonight, which was attended by about 1,200 persons. Many of the prominent residents occupied boxes. The hall was brilliantly decorated with lighting effects. Governor Charles A. Templeton of Connecticut was an invited guest. The general committee in charge of the ball were Dr. E. N. Schofield, Dr. F. W. Hummel and Henry Ritch.

BOK PLAN OFFICIALS READY TO TESTIFY

Policy Committee and Jury of Award Wire Senate Investigators.

WILL FURNISH ALL DETAILS

Miss Lape, Called With Mr. Bok, Asks to Be Heard Wednesday Instead of Monday.

The Senate Committee appointed to investigate the American Peace Award and the selection of the prize-winning plan for the $100,000 offered by Edward W. Bok will be afforded full opportunity to investigate the award.

"The Policy Committee of the American Peace Award," said a statement issued last night, "had a meeting this morning after receipt of the news that the Senate wished to investigate the American Peace Award through the special committee appointed under authority of Senate resolution 107. This resolution was introduced by Senator Reed of Missouri.

"The committee was appointed to investigate 'whether there is any organized effort being made to control public opinion and the action of Congress on legislative matters through propaganda or by the use of money, by advertising or by the control of publicity.' The resolution provides that the committee is to inquire especially into methods being employed 'to control the action of Congress upon revenue measures and whether or not the profiteers of the war are now contributing to defeat the soldiers' adjusted compensation bill by money or influence, and what, if any, such influences are being employed, either by American citizens or by the representatives of American Governments or foreign institutions to control or affect the foreign and domestic policies of the United States.'

Committee Accepts Call.

"The first action taken by the Special Committee appointed under this resolution, which on the face of it would seem to apply particularly to the revenue and bonus bills, was to call the representatives of the American Peace Award. At the meeting of the Policy Committee this morning, the following telegram, signed by every one of the twelve members of the Policy Committee, was sent to Senator George H. Moses, Chairman of the Senate Committee:

"Hon. George H. Moses, United States Senate, Washington, D. C.:

" 'The Policy Committee of the American Peace Award begs to assure you and the members of your committee that they are entirely at your disposal and will be glad to furnish individually or collectively any information you may desire with reference to the American Peace Award.' "

The signatures were: John W. Davis, Learned Hand, William H. Johnston, Esther Everett Lape, Nathan L. Miller, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, Mrs. Ogden Reid, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Henry L. Stimson, Melville Stone, Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, and Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr.

Miss Lape, who was asked to appear with Mr. Bok as a witness, sent the following message to Senator Moses:

"Your telegram has just been received. I and any and all other members of the Policy Committee will be delighted to appear before your committee and to give you all information in reference to the American Peace Award. It would be highly inconvenient, however, for personal reasons, for me to come on Monday. I ask if convenient to the committee the matter be set down for Wednesday next. Please wire the hour."

Jury Ready to Appear.

The jury which selected the prize-winning plan sent the following telegram to Senator Moses, signed by General James G. Harbord, Colonel E. M. House, Ellen F. Pendleton, Roscoe Pound and William Allen White:

"The undersigned members of the Jury of the American Peace Award beg to assure your committee appointed under Senate resolution 107 that they are of course available and that they will be glad at any time to furnish to the committee any information it may desire touching the selection of the winning plan and the manner in which the selection was made."

It was said at the offices of the Peace Award at 342 Madison Avenue that since the publication of the winning plan on Jan. 7 the number of organizations and institutions writing in daily for copies of the plan for taking the referendum in their groups and in their communities has more than trebled. Railroads are taking a vote, industries are polling their employes, farmers' organizations are sounding out sentiment, and churches, cities, schools and women's organizations are considering the plan.

ENRIGHT PRAISES HIS FORCE

Says "Thin Blue Line" of Patrolmen Guards the City.

Police Commissioner Enright, in an address yesterday afternoon before the members of the Seaside Home for Crippled Children Association in the Biltmore Hotel, said that a "thin blue line of 1,700 patrolmen stand on the battle line of law and order in this great city. So many men were allocated to traffic, court hearings, strike duty and special assignments, that this number represented the men available at any time of the day or night," he said.

"It has been proven that New York's police force is loyal to the core," he continued. "In fifty years only one man has been tried for cowardice. On the walls at headquarters are the names of hundreds who have made the supreme sacrifice in the performance of duty."

Commissioner Enright said that foreign cities, such as Paris and London, had larger police forces than New York.

TINY LONDON PAGE HERE.

Carries Greetings to Coolidge From British Empire Exposition.

Cyril William Peter Rees, said to be the smallest page in London, who is 15 years old and weighs 78 pounds, arrived yesterday on the President Polk of the United States Lines with a letter to President Coolidge extending the greetings of the British Empire Exposition of 1924, which he will deliver in person at the White House. Peter wore a smart blue uniform, trimmed with gold braid and a jaunty cap.

Peter has been insured at Lloyds for $25,000 for the trip to New York and back, and will have charge of a party of American show girls on the return voyage of the President Polk. In New York the page will be the guest of William Morris, the theatrical manager.

POPE RECEIVES ANDREWS.

Gives Benediction to Other Officers of Our European Fleet.

ROME, Jan. 18.—Rear Admiral Andrews, commander of the American naval forces in European waters; Captain Kleinann, in command of the U. S. S. Pittsburgh; Lieutenant Commander King and Lieutenant Hunter were received in private audience today by Pope Pius.

Father Burke, Vice Rector of the American College here, who at one time was a naval chaplain, made the presentation. The Pontiff gave expression to his pleasure over the visit. He granted the Papal benediction and said he hoped the fleet would have a successful cruise.

WALTER W. LAW DIES IN THE SOUTH

Founder of Briarcliff Manor and Retired Merchant Was 87 Years Old.

Walter W. Law, retired merchant, founder of Briarcliff Manor and President of the Briarcliff Realty Company, Yonkers, N. Y., died Thursday at the age of 87 in Somerville, N. C. At his death Mr. Law was attended by only his nurse and doctors as he had gone South for a rest cure and was expected home shortly. Henry H. Law, one of Mr. Law's sons, left immediately for Sommerville yesterday afternoon and the body is expected here tomorrow night. The funeral services will be held in the Briarcliff Congregational Church at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Law, who was born in England in 1837, came to America as a youth and began his career as a clerk in a New York store. Later in his business life he became affiliated with the W. & J. Sloane Carpet Company, and rose from clerk to partner and Vice President, retiring in 1898.

Thirty years ago he purchased several thousand acres of land north of Yonkers, N. Y., which was known as Briarcliff Manor. He devoted his energies to developing this tract as a real estate project, at the same time maintaining a large dairy and stock farm on part of the property.

Mr. Law is survived by two sons, Walter W. Law Jr., former Chairman of the State Tax Commission under Governor Miller, and Henry H. Law, and three married daughters.

WOMEN DEBATE ON LABOR.

Frau Schreiber and Miss Helen Fraser Give Opposite Views.

Frau Adele Schreiber, Social-Democrat Deputy of the German Reichstag, and Miss Helen Fraser, Liberal candidate in the recent British Parliamentary elections, debated last night at the Carnegie Hall the proposition "that the hope of civilization depends on the continued growth of labor parties throughout the world." The German took the affirmative and the Englishwoman opposed her.

Frau Schreiber asserted the wording of the debate motion showed her belief in continued growth, not in violent action. She contended the growth of labor parties was an evolutionary process. She argued that other parties had denied education to the masses which labor would remedy. Her principal point was that after the war labor alone had tried to reconstruct and reconciliate.

Miss Fraser in rebuttal charged that socialism was grossly materialistic and the reason why liberal thought had not prevailed in Europe after the cessation of hostilities was that a war neurosis was still present. When Europe came back to sanity it would come back to liberalism at the same moment. She charged that labor preached a class warfare.

Amen Corner Eulogizes E. G. Riggs.

The directors of the Amen Corner passed resolutions yesterday on the death of Edward G. Riggs, a founder and four times President of the organization. The resolutions read in part:

"A newspaperman by inheritance and inclination, he practiced his profession in instinctive compliance with its highest and most exacting standard. He carried into the business engagement which occupied his later years the same uncompromising ideal of truthfulness and chivalry that inspired him as a journalist."

At the funeral services at 2:30 this afternoon in St. Ann's Church, Clinton and Livingston Streets, Brooklyn, the committee representing the Amen Corner will be composed of Harold M. Anderson, President; Thomas O. McGill, Vice President; William Leary, Treasurer, and Directors Luther B. Little, James J. Montague, Louis Seibold, Charles Steckler and Charles T. White. Luther B. Little will act as an honorary pallbearer in the place of N. O. Messenger, who is ill.

The Rev. Pincus Minkowsky.

The Rev. Pincus Minkowsky, for many years cantor of the great synagogue in Moscow, died suddenly at noon yesterday in Boston, according to an announcement last night by the Rev. Jacob Rapoport, President of the Jewish Ministers Cantors Association of America. The cantor was 67 years old and was regarded as one of the most erudite members of his calling. He came to this country in 1884 and for a year was cantor at the Eldridge Street Synagogue, returning in 1885 to Moscow, where he filled the office of cantor until the hostile attitude of the Bolshevists drove him from Russia. Services will be held tomorrow morning from the clubhouse of the Jewish Ministers Cantors Association, 40 Second Avenue.

J. A. Martin Dies on Train.

J. A. ("Jerry") Martin, general agent in New York for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, died early yesterday morning while aboard a Baltimore & Ohio train near Connellsville, Pa., according to word received in New York. His body was found in the smoking car by a porter shortly after 2 o'clock. Death is believed to have been due to apoplexy.

W. S. Dewey, general agent for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy in Philadelphia, was returning from Chicago with Mr. Martin. They had been attending a meeting of the Chicago Traffic Club. Mr. Martin lived with his wife at 3,945 Broadway.

Ex-Minister Ren Nakashoji.

TOKIO, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—Ren Nakashoji, 58, member of the House of Peers and one of the noted legal experts of Japan, died yesterday.

Nakashoji was Minister of Agriculture and Commerce in 1912 and 1913 and in 1916 and 1918. He served as chief councilor of the Department of Justice in 1901 and 1902. He was a director of the Seoul Fusan Railway in 1903 and 1904, and was a director of the police bureau of the home office.

Mrs. Ann Clark Dies at 104 Years.

CANASTOTA, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Mrs. Ann Clark, 104 years old, died last night at the home of her son. She was born in Kinderhook, March 10, 1819, and was a close friend of President Martin Van Buren and his wife, her neighbors for many years. She attended his inauguration. She cast her first Presidential vote in 1920 for the electors of President Harding.

Miss Caryl Frohman.

Miss Caryl Frohman, oldest sister of Daniel Frohman, the theatrical manager, died yesterday of an intestinal ailment after a brief illness at her home, 145 West Seventy-ninth Street, which is also the residence of her brother. In addition to Mr. Frohman she is survived by three sisters, the Misses Emma and Etta Frohman and Mrs. D. H. Davison.

Thomas E. Kirby's Funeral Today.

Funeral services for Thomas E. Kirby, auctioneer, who was at the head of the American Art Association for forty years, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in St. Stephen's Church, 122 West Sixty-ninth Street. Burial will be private. Mr. Kirby died on Wednesday at his home in Haverford, Pa., where a service was held yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. Herbert F. Farrell.

The Rev. Herbert F. Farrell, for nineteen years pastor of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Mary Star of the Sea, at Far Rockaway, died last night in his rectory. He was 59 years old. Several Brooklyn charges preceded his appointment in Far Rockaway.

The Seventy-seventh Division Headquarters Post of the American Legion has adopted a resolution opposing a bonus. The resolution urges "all means which will provide adequate hospitalization or assistance to the disabled," but characterizes the bonus as "unnecessary and not in accordance with the best traditions of our country."

$10,000,000 Building Contracts.

The George A. Fuller Company, a subsidiary of the United States Realty and Improvement Company has closed new contracts for the construction of buildings valued at $10,000,000. The two principal buildings under contract are the State Capitol at Carleston, W. Va., and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Co-operative National Bank, Cleveland.

Offers a Mah Jongg Stocking.

Tying up with the vogue of the ancient Chinese game in this country, a prominent maker of silk hosiery has brought out a novelty stocking which he has named Mah Jongg. The body of this stocking, which is made to retail at a popular price, is of pure thread silk. The instep is attractively embroidered with Chinese flower and scroll patterns, many of which bear strong resemblance to the characters seen in the tiles used in the game. These are done in one and two color effects on black and other grounds. Black grounds, with white embroidery, are seen, while others show combinations of purple and gold and blue and gold, suggestive of the richness of high-priced Chinese kimonas.

There is a large field for improvement in the merchandising of notions by both manufacturers and retailers, according to opinions expressed yesterday at the meeting of the National Notion Association at the Yale Club. The prevalent feeling that "there is no money in notions" was attacked as having no foundation. Dr. Norris A. Brisco, head of the New York University School of Retailing, declared the way to get larger notion sales was to link up the activities of manufacturers and retailers to more careful study of consumer wants and preferences. He declared there was more to be had in stressing the home-mending and making over of garments than in the making of new ones. He added that 97 per cent. of notions were bought by women whose households receive $3,500 a year or less as income. Therein lay the big field for sales development. Officers of the wholesalers' association offered their co-operation to the manufacturers' organization. General E. C. Young presided.

More Napped Goods Priced.

Complete lines of napped goods for Fall, deliveries from May to September, inclusive, were priced yesterday by Catlin & Co. All of the goods previously contained in the lines showed no change from last season's quotations, but four new "numbers" were announced. The Appleton Manufacturing Company has put out a new 36-inch outing under the name of "Sunapple," in lights, darks and stripes. It is priced at 16½ cents for lights and 17½ cents for darks. The Tremont & Suffolk Mills have put out two new cloths under the brand "M. D." The 36-inch fabric is quoted at 16¼ cents for lights and 16¾ cents for darks, while the narrow cloth is held at 11½ and 12 cents, respectively. These goods are seen in stripes, checks, lights and grays. The Florence Mills are offering a new 36-inch outing under the name of "Highland Flannel" and, in lights only, it is quoted at 15½ cents.

Paper Demand Increasing.

The year has started off well in the paper industry, according to the American Paper and Pulp Association, and during the last two weeks orders have been coming in to replenish stocks and meet current demands. Fine papers are described as showing the most definite improvement. There is also more of a call for book paper, which has been in rather slow request during the last six months. Paper board production is reported as being more satisfactory. Manufacturers are taking the "middle of the road" course, neither expecting large profits nor fearing heavy losses. It is pointed cut that production costs continue high. Raw materials have remained practically unchanged, while labor conditions are favorable to the worker.

Woolen Goods Openings Awaited.

Announcement of the opening date for the heavyweight lines by the American Woolen Company is expected by the rank and file of the trade to be made some time during the coming week. While the opening itself may take place during the week, the probabilities are said to indicate that the time will be about Jan. 28, as this will allow buyers the customary notice period. Talk on the matter of prices has simmered down to the point where it is believed the suiting lines will be priced on about the basis of the Spring levels. Overcoatings may show an advance over last year, but the increase is not expected to be large in view of current market conditions.

Straw Hat Orders Good.

Despite rumors to the contrary, leading straw hat manufacturers say the advance business booked has been satisfactory. This is particularly the case with the makers of the higher grade goods. The season has already opened in the resort centres, and one manufacturer said yesterday he was filling duplicate orders from stores at these points. The new straws are somewhat different from those of the previous year in that they are bigger, having a wider brim and a higher crown. Following the efforts to push the fancy brown straws last year, it is felt that their sale will be greater during the coming season. Little headway, however, has been made in developing wider favor for these varieties in certain of the larger cities, notably New York.

Piece Goods Adjustments Made.

In the report of the Mutual Adjustment Bureau of the Cloth and Garment Trades for 1923, made public yesterday by Secretary J. J. Nevins, it is stated that 1,070 cases came before its judicial department for attention. Of these cases, 365 were decided in favor of the clothiers. The mills had 329 cases decided in their favor and 376 were compromised. Four appeals were made, and in three of these the decision was sustained. In the other, of thirteen pieces involved, decision was affirmed with regard to eleven and reversed in the case of two. William Goldman was re-elected Chairman of the bureau. Mr. Nevins likewise continues as Secretary.

Three Sizes of Coal Wanted.

In the anthracite trade there is a good demand for stove, nut and barley sizes which together make up about 50 per cent. of the total output, Saward's Journal will say today. The rest of the list shows varying degrees of strength and weakness. No great change has occurred this week by reason of weather conditions, which from now on will play a decisive part in influencing the action of buyers. Many consumers have enough coal in their cellars to last all Winter under any circumstances, but this class is probably in the minority. The great majority of bituminous shippers report that they have sold more coal so far this month than in the corresponding period of December. In some cases, sales to date exceed those for all of last month.

Burlaps Have Active Week.

The local market for burlaps will today close one of the most active weeks it has had in some time. Both spots and futures were well taken by consumers, according to C. A. Rockstroh & Co., Inc., and the marked scarcity of spot 10½-ounce, forty-inch goods continues. Prices fluctuated quite a little during the week, but this was said to be due more to the ups and downs of sterling exchange than to any weakness in the market. Calcutta was strong yesterday, with prices for February-March shipments back at 5.55 cents for "lights" and 6.90 cents for "heavies." Spot goods locally were quoted at 5.65 cents for the lightweight cloths and 7.90 cents for the standard heavy goods. February arrivals were held at 5.60 cents for the former and 7.50 cents for the latter.

Gray Goods Prices Break.

The further drop in cotton here yesterday had the effect of bringing about lower prices for gray goods in this market. Practically all of the selling was done by second hands, with spots about as far as they were willing to go with the situation as it is. Among the printcloth sales of the day were 39-inch 68-72s, 38½-inch 64-60s and 38½-inch 60-48s at 12, 10 and 9 cents, respectively. In the sheetings second-hand trading was done on the basis of 9¾ cents for 36-inch 5.50s and a cent a yard more for the 36-inch 5-yard cloths.

Now Come Underthings of Pongee.

Something new in silk underwear has come into vogue for sports and travel wear. Chemises and step-ins of pongee, as well as nightgowns of the same material, are quite the thing now. According to a bulletin from the United Underwear League of America, they are at once practical and attractive in appearance. The garments are made of a fine grade of the silk, and are trimmed with tiny ribbon flowers, hemstitching or hand embroidery in pastel shades of silk. Some are given a less tailored look by the application of footing to the neck and armhole edges. The use of footing, instead of lace, is one of the new trimming details that have come direct from France.

NO TAX DEDUCTIONS FOR HOME EXPENSES

CREDIT ALLOWED DOCTORS

Mistakes Made in Returns on Income Are Explained in Revenue Office Statement.

Widespread misunderstanding of the provisions of the revenue act relating to personal expenditures as they affect Federal income taxes is indicated in the returns of many taxpayers, according to the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

"Claims are made," says the bureau, "for deductions of house rent, car fare to and from the taxpayer's place of business, amounts spent in improvement of the taxpayer's dwelling, and similar items. All these are personal or living expenses, deduction of which from gross income is expressly disallowed by the statute.

"A physician who maintains an office in a rented home may deduct the proportion of such rent propertly chargeable to the portion used for professional purposes. If, however, he maintains an office elsewhere and incidentally receives patients at his home, he is not entitled to deduct any part of his rent for his residence as a business expense.

"If a physician owns the home or building in which his office is located, no deduction for rent is allowed unless the amount of rent claimed is reported by him as income. The reason is that money paid as hent becomes income to some one, and, in this instance, the physician is that person. However, a professional man who maintains an office in a home or building owned by him may deduct as a business expense a proportional part of the amount properly chargeable to the use of such offices for heat, light, insurance, repairs, deprecation, &c., which he may not deduct on that part of the house used as a residence.

"Other deductions not infrequently claimed by taxpayers, but disallowed by the revenue act as 'family or living expenses', are amounts spent for food, clothing and education of children, hire of domestic servants and similar items for the upkeep of a home."

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

While the Changes Were Many, Most Were Inconsequential.

Not for many months has Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices shown more changes than it did this week. An even hundred of the more than 300 items in the list showed levels different from those of last week, and of these 59 were higher. Last week, in 66 changes, there were 36 advances. Sixty per cent. of all the present week's changes, however, were confined to the foodstuffs and the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils. The foodstuffs showed an excess of advances, but the reverse was true of the others.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities yesterday. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last year and the corresponding week a year ago:

	This Week.	Last Week.	Year Ago.
Apples, com., bbl.	3.00	3.00	3.00

Wool, dom, av. 98 quo., lb.	.797	.796	.798

†Nominal.

Of the 29 changes in the foodstuffs this week, 16 were upward. Spring patent flour advanced slightly in this market, but there was no listed change in the Winter soft straights. Middle Western lard declined here, bacon was higher, and no change was seen in hams. At Chicago short ribs and live hogs were higher, but mess pork, as well as live sheep and beef, showed no change.

Reductions in the price of butter ranging from 1½ to 2 cents a pound featured the list for dairy products. The best cheese was slightly higher, but nearby fancy eggs dropped a cent a dozen. Fresh-gathered "firsts" were unchanged. Prices on all dairy products continue to compare favorably with those of a year ago, from the consumer's standpoint.

The listed fresh fruits showed no changes either way this week. In the dried ones, however, there were higher prices for apples, prunes and loose muscatel raisons and declines in apricots and cleaned currants. In the vegetables there was a slight rise in choice Blue Rose rice, and noticeable increases were seen in cabbage and onions. The former went up 50 cents a barrel and the latter 25 cents a bag. Potatoes dropped 25 cents a barrel.

In the list for beverages teas continued to show no change, but a rise in No. 4 Santos coffee contrasted with a decline in No. 7 Rio. The spices contributed advances in mace and nutmegs and declines in cloves and red and white pepper. For the first time in several weeks there was a rise in 96-test raw sugar, but this time there was no accompanying advance in fine granulated.

Thity-one changes were recorded in the drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils, of which 18 were declines. Among the features were unsteadiness in the acids, several declines in the oils, and a rise of 90 cents a pound in menthol, in case lots, as a result of the second Japanese earthquake. A rise in resin was the only change in the listed naval stores.

All of the changes in the grains were upward this week. They were seen in wheat, corn, oats, rye and malting barley. Hides were higher generally, but for the most part leather did not move up in sympathy. An advance in the better grades of calfskin leathers put them up 4 cents a square foot.

Fewer fluctuations in lumber were seen than for some time, consisting only of a rise in North Carolina air-dried "roofers" and a drop in No. 1 Tonawanda white pine. Aside from a rise in gray forge pig iron at Pittsburgh, all of the week's revisions in the metals were confined to the minor items. These showed advances in lead and tin and declines in electrolytic copper and spelter.

Five grades of domestic wool were listed higher this week, and four items in the paint list also went up. The latter included American litharge, American red lead, dry white lead and white lead in oil. Among the miscellaneous changes were a decline in tallow, an advance in Japanese raw silk and a decline in the Chinese fibre, and a drop in the best Brazilian crude rubber.

Most of the action of the week in the textiles was seen in the cotton goods. In the finished cloths prices were made on Fall lines of napped goods at figures which showed no change from those last quoted. A standard brand of bleached 4-4 muslins was advanced a cent a yard, but unbranded bleached goods of less fine construction were reduced half that amount in sympathy with the declining market for unfinished cloths. The general tone of the burlaps was steady, with buying more free than for some time.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Felix Lilienthal & Co., resident buyers, 1,150 Broadway, have added to the accounts they are now representing in this market those of the Harris Emery Company, Des Moines, Iowa, and the T. S. Martin Company of Sioux City.

A. J. Hammerslough, who was for many years an officer in the former firm of Herrmann, Aukam & Co., is now representing in this country A. Gunther & Co., handkerchief manufacturers, St. Gall, Switzerland, and other foreign accounts. He has associated himself with Strauss Bros. & Co., [illegible] Broadway, whose sales force will carry his lines.

Siegfried Behr, formerly with the Pacific Novelty Company, and Max M. Hirtenstein, formerly with A. Steinhardt & Bro., have formed a partnership for manufacturing a popular-priced line of hair ornaments, novelties and toilet articles under the firm name of Behr & Hirtenstein, 1,123 Broadway.

The Lang Manufacturing Company, maker of women's muslin underwear, is now located in new quarters at 33 West Twenty-first Street.

Irregularity on Stock Exchange Continues—Sterling and Francs Go Lower.

On the Stock Exchange, yesterday's movement of prices duplicated Thursday's; it was a purposeless market, rising and falling fractionally as the whim of professional speculators changed. Advances and declines for the day were numerically pretty much balanced, and changes of more than a fraction occurred for the most part in unimportant or inactive shares.

This attitude of the stock market during the recent days is logical enough; it reflects, in the manner of the Stock Exchange, the stationary condition of general trade and the absence of indications either of a "boom" or a "reaction." It cannot well be overlooked that the basis for the particular financial enthusiasm at the very beginning of the year was rather assurances and predictions of prosperity than any tangible change in the industrial indices. No weekly or monthly report of industrial activity, among all those which are counted on to mark a turn in the situation, has yet indicated any change of consequence from the tendencies of the later Autumn.

Absolutely nothing occurred in yesterday's foreign exchange market to throw new light on the European situation. Sterling declined ⅝ cent, going within a fraction of Monday's low price for the season; francs yielded also, though holding substantially above the week's worst figures. But the fact that the present centre of the struggle over franc values is not New York, but London and Paris, was shown by the violence of the day's movement on those markets. On Monday the pound sterling's valuation in French currency advanced 5 francs 40 centimes; on Tuesday it declined 30 centimes; on Wednesday 3.80, on Thursday 1.85 and yesterday rose 5.70—all this commotion changing the price only from 90 francs 70 centimes to 93.40. Considered from this viewpoint, it is difficult to see in the immediate exchange market anything but a tumult of speculation, with the real underlying forces not yet responding to the unquestionably great change which has occurred in the French fiscal situation during the week.

No change of any kind is reflected in the end of the week reviews of the mercantile situation. These descriptions of the week almost exactly paraphrase the weekly reports in December and in January up to date. That "distribution of merchandise is heavy," and that nevertheless "there is disinclination to anticipate demands very far into the future," are statements which would apply to all of that period. Probably they would also apply to the midwinter period in the great majority of normally prosperous business years. The focus of real curiosity is the market for textile goods; concerning which the weekly trade reviews are as much at sea as is the daily cotton market.

That the cotton speculator, and perhaps also the Southern holder of actual cotton, has been strongly impressed by the insistent report of consumers' unwillingness to accept "retail prices on a basis of higher than thirty-cent cotton," the course of prices on the Cotton Exchange gives abundant evidence. Yesterday's price recovered slightly over Thursday, but not enough to reach the quotation of any other day since Nov. 3, and the present price is nearly 12 per cent. under the season's high mark of Dec. 1. All reasoning on this curious situation has thus far been confused by the extraordinary buying for European spinners. Yet even in that direction it is now remarked that, while British stocks of cotton are still very considerably below this date in 1923, their increase since November has been 343,000 bales, as against 147,000 in the same period a year ago.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, JAN. 18, 1924.

Although turnover was slightly better than on Thursday, evidence was plain that Stock Exchange call loan market is in a healthy condition by flat quotation of 4 per cent. There was an increase in the amount recalled by interior institutions, but the only effect of this was to reduce stock of funds left unloaned, rather than shake the present ease. Time money market was dull, with little interest either way; 4¾ per cent. ruled for a moderate amount of near-date money. Both commercial credit markets were quiet and without change in discount.

London Market.

Money in London ⅛ lower at 2⅛ per cent.; short bills ¼ lower at 3⅛@3⅜ per cent.; three months' bills unchanged at 3⅞ per cent.

Gold bullion 6d up at 97s 5d per fine ounce. Taking the British Mint standard price of 85s per fine ounce as par, the market quotation of gold would represent a London price of 114⅝, highest for year; lowest, 112½, on Jan. 7. The highest price since open trading in gold was resumed at London in September, 1919, was 149⅝ on Feb. 6, 1920; the lowest, 102⅛, on Feb. 24, 1923. Highest price last year was 114, on Nov. 19.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Meaningless Stock Market.

The movement of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday was again irregular; trading continued to be dominated by the professional element, which, judging from the attacks directed to a few of the speculative issues, was renewing its efforts of Thursday to bring about further reaction in the general list. Their operations were successful in special issues, but taking the market as a whole, there was no change. The average for fifty stocks was unchanged for the day. Taking the individual issues, many of those stocks which were under pressure on the previous day recorded small gains yesterday, as in the case of Studebaker, Pan-American Petroleum and a few other active issues. Other stocks which closed higher yesterday included Lehigh Valley, Mallinson, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Cast Iron Pipes, Corn Products and Willys-Overland preferred. On the other hand, American Can, Steel and Baldwin were fractionally lower.

Footing Up the Profits.

The Wall Street news for the next few weeks will have as its backbone the recounting and recapitulation of corporate activities during 1923. The first of these have already appeared, and in the main the operations for the last year as a whole were extremely satisfactory, although irregular; that is, most of the corporations had a very active first quarter, a dull second and third and an active fourth. In the main, it is expected, the run of corporate reports will compare most favorably with those of the year 1922. In a few cases, where an industry or its units was affected by unsatisfactory conditions, the expedient will be quite generally adopted of very heavy "charge-offs," but these will be few and far between, and in the main the corporate reports as they are issued will be classed as constructive literature.

A Week in the Stock Exchange.

Looking back over the week's trading, many of those who make a study of the market express the opinion that it has given a very good account of itself. What evidently happened was that the market worked itself into an unsteady technical position at the end of the previous week and that this was corrected to a very large extent by the swift declines of last Monday, which occurred coincident with the declines in the foreign exchanges. Since that time the market has steadied, although it has made but small progress toward recovery. Some extremely strong cross-currents have developed. It is quite evident to those who follow the market closely that new "leaders" are sought and that some of the stocks which have advanced 15 or 20 points act rather tired. On the other hand, whenever the speculators take hold of a stock in vigorous and determined fashion it responds quickly and decisively. The opinion is quite generally expressed in the financial district that the temper of the market is such that its immediate trend will very probably be determined by the tone of the "next big news" development.

A Buoyant Bond Market.

The remarkably easy trend in money since the turn of the year has had about the only effect it could have had on the security markets. This condition is literally driving funds into first-class bond issues, and there has not been a day since the first of the year when the bond market gave a better account of itself than it did yesterday. Inquiry is not confined to one class or a few classes of issues. It is evident in the Liberty bonds, which yesterday not only touched new high points for the year, but sold at higher prices than in 1923, on down through the list of foreign Government bonds and domestic railroad and industrial issues. The natural result of activity in this direction has been a moderate contraction in the supply of old bonds, an increase in the volume of offerings of new issues, and the withdrawal of offers on some issues which were in the market last week. The heads of most of the big investment houses of Wall Street declare that the bond market is in better position at the present time than it has been for many months, and almost to a man they express the opinion that its constructive possibilities are almost limitless.

Copper Market Continues Heavy.

While the belief prevails in copper trade circles that it is only a question of time before consumers will be forced to come into the market and make contracts for spring requirements, the price of copper continues to lag. The red metal is now being quoted at around 12⅜ to 12½ cents a pound, and while the larger producers show inclination to meet competition from second hands there is no desire to underbid one another, and in view of this prices are just about holding their own so far as large quantities are concerned. In the meantime, however, consumers continue to buy only for immediate needs but the trade believes that just as soon as consumers realize that the bottom of the market has been reached and that there are no signs of lower prices, producers expect another rush of buying similar to that which developed last October when copper prices dropped to 12½ cents a pound, the low record for 1923. The sales reported on that buying rush were approximately as large as the total reported in the Spring of last year.

Who Are Trying to Start Reaction?

It is no secret in the financial district that some of the speculators who pull a big oar in the market are leaving no stone unturned to start the market on a reactionary period. Their position is rather a peculiar one. These traders made lots of money on the December advance and figured the turn of the year as the market's top. With their profits they put out long lines of "shorts" in the leading issues. Thus far the profits on the short side have been meager. But these traders are clinging to that side until they receive more conclusive assurance that they are wrong in their market deductions. All sorts of expedients are being used to turn the market squarely about, the most daring of which was the rumor that the big traders, who are conducting their operations from Miami, Palm Beach and Atlantic City, have "turned bearish." This report, as many others which have been set into circulation during the last week, has proved untrue.

The Open Winter and Stocks.

Under ordinary circumstances the stock market pays no attention whatever to the weather. This year, however, it has become a factor in the market because of the warm and snowless Winter in most sections of the country east of the Mississippi River. As most Wall Street folk figure, this sort of weather is bullish on railroad and public utility companies because it is reducing their operating costs, but is bearish on the coal, rubber and textile stocks through bringing about a smaller demand for these Winter necessities.

Cuban Railway Consolidation.

From various parts of the financial district it was reported yesterday that the consolidation of the railroads of Cuba were progressing at a rapid rate and that it was not unlikely that some official announcement would be made in the near future. The fact that A. H. Smith, who is to be head of the trustees under the new plan, leaves at once for Cuba is an indication, according to those in close touch with the situation, that the consolidation under the provisions of the Tarafa bill are progressing steadily.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Japanese Yen Higher on Loan Negotiations — Sterling and Continentals Recover at Close.

The outstanding change reported in the transactions in foreign bills yesterday was that in Japanese yen, Yokohama checks rising at one time to 46⅝ cents, an overnight gain of 1¾ cents, and a recovery of approximately 3¼ cents from the record low touched on Monday. Reports that negotiations for a Japanese loan were proceeding in satisfactory manner and that definite word of the completion of the arrangements was expected shortly, coupled with the announcement by the Japanese Government of help in financing importations for reconstruction purposes through the use of funds on deposit here, as well as elsewhere, accounted for the advance.

Sterling and Continental descriptions also revealed an interesting reversal, for after the market had been moderately reactionary in the forenoon, a later sharp demand not only brought a change in sentiment but also canceled the greater part of the declines sustained earlier. Sterling recovered one cent to $4.24, at the close, while French francs moved up to 4.59 cents from 4.52, previously. Belgian, Italian, Holland and others followed the trend higher.

LIBERTY BONDS RISE ON FLOOD OF MONEY

Unexpected Overflow of Cash in Wall Street Sends Government Issues to High Marks.

MANY LENDERS OF FUNDS

Corporations and Interior Banking Institutions Contribute Unusually Large Sums for Use Here.

Wall Street is literally flooded with money. So anxious have bankers, institutions and private investors become to keep their idle funds employed that hundreds have turned to the purchase of Liberty bonds. As a result of investment buying of the very best sort, four of the nine active Liberty bond issues not only established new high records for 1924 yesterday, but, with one exception, sold higher than at any time in 1923.

These four Government bonds with their high prices yesterday and the high points in 1923, were as follows:

	High Yesterday.	High of 1923.
Liberty 2d 4s, 1927-42	99$\frac{3}{32}$	98$\frac{31}{32}$
Liberty 2d 4¼s, 1927-42	99$\frac{5}{32}$	99$\frac{3}{32}$
Liberty 3d 4¼s, 1928	99$\frac{30}{32}$	99$\frac{7}{16}$
Liberty 4th 4¼s, 1933-38	99$\frac{7}{32}$	99$\frac{3}{16}$

In addition to the high records in these issues, one other issue, the first 4¼s of 1927-42, was within one thirty-second of last year's top price, yesterday's high having been 99 5-32, as compared with the high of 99 6-32 in the same period last year.

The advance in Liberty bonds has been slowly but surely gathering momentum for about a month, but only in the last few days has it reached its present velocity of approximately $4,000,000 in bonds bought and sold every day on the New York Stock Exchange. Bankers expect considerable further appreciation in the Government issues, dependent, of course, upon a continuation of present easy conditions in the money market.

Reflects Changed Conditions.

The market advance is not looked upon as "a flurry," but in the reflection of changed conditions in the money and business situation. The first consideration has been the tremendous inflow of gold to the Federal Reserve system to a point where the reserves in gold are $3,157,000,000, strengthening the system and providing the basis for almost limitless credit. Second, the rapid marketing of the Fall crops at advancing prices, particularly the "money crops," wheat and cotton. This has caused an unusually early flow-back of funds to the central banks. Third, the fact that business and industry, although generally considered in a normal state, are not using any very great amounts of new capital. Fourth, the fact that domestic industry was dull during the Summer and that there are few large inventories in the basic lines to be "carried" by the banks, while present stocks, either in raw or finished materials, are not large. Fifth, a moderate volume of "capital in flight" from other countries, principally those of Europe, seeking safety in the American dollar and American securities.

Bankers generally had expected a moderate easing in the money situation after the turn of the year, but they were unprepared for the inflow of cash which has flooded Wall Street in the last few days. Interior institutions are particularly heavy lenders here, and to these funds must be added the cash contributed to the money market by large industrial corporations who are obliged to keep their assets liquid to take advantage of any sudden inflow of new orders.

As a consequence money rates have shaded abruptly since the first of the year, and ample blocks of call funds are to be had in Wall Street on approved Stock Exchange collateral at 4 per cent. with time money for the 30 and 60 day periods at 4¾ per cent. and with commercial paper at 4¾ per cent. to 5 per cent.

Channels for Use of Funds.

There have been several normal channels into which these newly acquired funds might be directed, all of which now are being used extensively. One is the call money market on the Stock Exchange; another is the investment of funds in Government certificates of indebtedness, and a third is in Liberty bonds. Each of these three channels insure the lender liquidity, safety and a good yield on the investment. The market in industrial and railroad issues has been by no means neglected in the last few days, and prices have been steadily rising as the demand for all classes of investment issues broadened. Bonds of all sorts have advanced approximately one per cent. since the first of the year.

Possibly the chief interest, however, has centred in the Liberty Bond market, the country's most accurate gauge of money conditions. Its steady advance did not excite a great deal of comment until four of the active issues swept into new high ground yesterday. The demand is not local, nor is it centred on one or two particular issues, dealers say. Orders for $1,000, $2,000 and $5,000 of "Liberties" are liberally sprinkled in with the ponderous institutional purchasing, which runs into the millions.

Bankers say they cannot predict, at this time, how long this condition will continue, but they do not hesitate to declare that so long as the mails and the telegraph wires continue to bring the golden flow to New York at the rate of the last ten days, the strong market and steadily advancing prices for the United States Government issues will continue.

NO RESERVE BANK CHANGES

Recent Revision in Form of Reports Was Only to Clarify Them.

The purpose of the recent change in the form of Federal Reserve Bank reports was to clarify the items listed in the regular weekly statements and of bringing into bolder relief the actual proportion of gold held against note circulation. The innovation, according to expressions of opinion by local bankers, contemplates no change in Federal Reserve policy.

No explanation was offered at the New York Federal Reserve Bank and inquirers were referred to the Federal Reserve Board in Washington.

The item which attracted most attention in the financial district was that showing the amount of gold held by the reserve system and by the individual banks, "exclusively against Federal Reserve note circulation." Heretofore the report showed only the ratio of reserves to deposits and Federal Reserve note circulation combined. The new item presents a more detailed relationship of the various reserves against liabilities.

OFFER UNISSUED SHARES.

Phillips Petroleum Co. Stockholders Get Proposal to Subscribe.

Announcement was made last night by officials of the Phillips Petroleum Company that the right to subscribe to 296,106 shares of the authorized but unissued stock at $30 per share will be offered to stockholders. The offering is on a basis of one new share for every four now held, and has been underwritten by a banking group composed of Dillon, Read & Co., Farnum, Winter & Co. and Dominick & Dominick. The subscriptions will close Feb. 18, and warrants will be mailed to stockholders of record at the close of business Feb.

The purpose of the new capital is to develop reserves, liquidate current indebtedness, and pay off all of bank loans. In a letter to the bankers, officials of the corporation said that earnings for 1923, after deducting taxes and adjusting inventories, were $19,483,202.

NEW YEAR'S BUYING IS CONSERVATIVE

Purchases Are Only to Cover Actual Needs, Says Dun's Weekly Review.

There has been practically no change in the general business situation of the country since the beginning of the year, according to Dun's weekly review on trade conditions. In certain lines, as in leather and footwear, the trade lags, but in others, as in iron and steel, and to a moderate degree in textiles, there is more buying.

"Some net gain has come this month," says the review, "as was to be expected after the holidays, and prices are distinctly stronger, with a larger excess of advances in Dun's list of wholesale quotations. The latter movement is the more significant because it is not the result of speculation but chiefly of purchases to cover actual requirements. Even where activity has increased most, conservatism governs the operations and there is little evidence that goods are being taken for purposes other than to meet real needs."

Bradstreet's review says, in part: "Trade and industry tend to quicken gradually as January advances, but weather and other seasonal conditions make for considerable irregularity in the pace reported. Jobbing trade for Spring is picking up slowly, retail trade is a trifle quieter, industry in manufacturing lines tends to broaden out further, whereas building has been retarded and collections seem to have slowed up slightly."

SURPRISED AT LOAN LIMIT.

Argentinians Expected $60,000,000 to Be Offered Here.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 18.—The announcement that the American banking syndicate had offered only $40,000,000 of the Argentine thirty-year loan, instead of $60,000,000, came as a surprise here.

As originally published in Buenos Aires, the contract between the Argentine Government and the bankers provided that the bankers should take $60,000,000 prior to March 1, of which part would be used to pay off the six months' loan which the bankers advanced to the Government last September and which matures March 1.

Finance Minister Molina was absent from the city today, but it was authoritatively explained that the fact that the bankers offered only $40,000,000 of the thirty-year loan at this time did not imply any alterations in the contract with the bankers. It was stated that the bankers were at liberty to offer the $60,000,000 in whole or in part.

It is surmised here that the bankers may not offer the remaining $20,000,000 of the long term loan until after March 1, but in that case provision for the paying off of the remaining $15,000,000 of the short term loan would be for the bankers' account.

Great Western Sugar Offering.

A banking group headed by Clark, Dodge & Co., Dominick & Dominick and Bernhard, Schiffer & Co. will shortly offer for public subscription a block of 42,000 shares of the common stock of the Great Western Sugar Company.

WEEK'S NEW BONDS TOTAL $151,774,000

Farm Loans Aggregate $60,000,000 and New Foreign Securities $46,788,000.

$13,600,000 FOR UTILITIES

State and Municipal Issues Amount to $19,386,000—Bankers Compete for New Business.

New financing this week totaled $151,774,000, the highest figure for the year to date and the highest level since the week ended Nov. 9 last. The current week's total compares with $76,493,000 for the previous week and $232,276,000 for the corresponding week of last year, in which the record industrial financing of $150,000,000 was accomplished for the Anaconda Copper Mining Company.

By groups the comparisons of this week's issues with last week follow:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Farm Loan	$60,000,000	$2,000,000
Foreign	46,788,000	9,700,000
State and Municipal	19,386,000	9,343,000
Public Utility	13,600,000	28,000,000
Railroad	7,000,000	24,000,000
Industrial	5,000,000	3,450,000

Evidence was furnished that several large issues will be offered soon. The selling of two large issues, $60,000,000 of Federal Land Bank bonds and $40,000,000 of Argentine Government bonds, was accepted as indicating good absorptive character. Both of these issues had been regarded as a "market test."

Investment bankers reported a broad market, and demand for all classes of securities was described as brisk, although still short of the intensive demand which characterized the January and February markets of last year.

The continued tendency of money rates toward low quotations resulted in a bidding up of prices on new business and competition was said to be brisk. It was reported that bids submitted by American syndicates for the prospective Canadian National Railways issue would be at higher levels than they would have been for similar business one or two months ago. The explanation, bankers said, lay in the abundance of money which has accumulated and is seeking an outlet.

In the open market, the price tendency during the week was higher, both for gilt-edge securities which reflected a good investment demand and for semi-speculative issues which were influenced by the same factors which played upon stock prices.

Extra Dividend by Pacific Bank.

An extra dividend of 2 per cent. was declared on the capital stock of the Pacific Bank yesterday. This is in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. Both dividends are payable Feb. 1 to stockholders of record Jan. 19.

Beginning March 22, 1923, the Stock Exchange officially quotes Liberty Bonds in units and fractions, the fractions being 32ds of a unit, and the quotations after the decimal point representing one or more 32ds. In the above table, therefore, the figures of highest and lowest prices during 1924 and since date of issue are reduced to the form now used in the Stock Exchange quotations.

JAPAN TO BORROW $50,000,000 HERE

Money Will Be Spent in This Country for Reconstruction Materials.

SECRET CONFERENCES HELD

Interest Probably Will Be 5½ Per Cent. and Maturity Forty Years.

A large loan to Japan to finance the purchase of materials for the rehabilitation of the cities affected by the earthquake is under negotiation here and probably will be completed in two or three days.

The main features of the loan, it is understood, have been agreed upon by the representatives of Japan now in New York and by the bankers who will sell the bonds in this market. Much secrecy has surrounded these negotiations, which have been carried on at an uptown hotel. It is known, however, that the Japanese representatives who are attending the conferences have full power to contract for the issue.

When the problem of a loan was first broached, shortly after the earthquake, it was expected that it would be an international undertaking, probably of $100,000,000, to be sold simultaneously in New York and in London. It is said in banking circles that it has been decided to offer the entire loan here. Figures ranging from $40,000,000 to $60,000,000 have been discussed, and it is expected that the bonds will carry a 5½ per cent. coupon and will mature in about forty years. The present issues of the Japanese Government are selling in the New York market on a basis of about 5 per cent.

According to bankers, the Japanese Government has succeeded in effecting economies which will considerably lessen the amount of new money that country will need for rebuilding and reconstruction purposes. It was estimated within a month after the earthquake that Japan would need not less than $100,000,000, and possibly $150,000,000. It is now apparent, bankers said yesterday, that Japan will be able to finance its reconstruction work with about half of the previous low estimate.

Two development of the last two days have foreshadowed the floating of a loan to Japan in the New York market. The first was the announcement of the release at an early date of a large amount of the specie held by Japan in New York. The second has been the strength in the Japanese yen during the latter part of this week, in which a recovery of 3.35 cents to the yen has been made from the week's low point of 43.28 cents.

It is understood that the proceeds of the loan will be expended in the United States for iron and steel, lumber, oil, copper and various other materials to be used for rehabilitation.

1923 SET A RECORD IN LIFE INSURANCE

New Business Was 17 Per Cent. Above 1920, the Previous High Year.

All records for new life insurance business were shattered in 1923, when 17 per cent. more new insurance was written than in the previous high year of 1920. These facts were revealed in a report of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents forwarded last night to the Department of Commerce in Washington.

The report is made up of figures supplied by forty companies, representing 77 per cent. of the business in the United States, it stated. Not only did the year 1923 show an increase of 17 per cent. in the gross new business, but it was 22 per cent. more than the previous year, and the month of December showed an increase of 29 per cent. over December, 1922. The new insurance actually paid for, in the forty companies, not including the revivals, increases and dividend additions, was $7,828,000,000, as against $6,402,000,000 in 1922; $5,687,000,000 in 1921 and 6,697,000,000 in 1920.

On the basis of the new business of these forty companies the association estimates that the total of new insurance, including revivals, increases and dividend additions, procured by all companies in the United States, amounted in 1923 to $11,954,000,000, an increase of $2,179,000,000 over the new business of 1922.

In discussing the figures Manager George T. Wight of the association said: "The consistently increasing volume of new life insurance is strikingly illustrated by the fact that the amount in each month of 1923 was materially greater than the amount in the corresponding month of the previous year, and each month of 1922 likewise materially exceeded the corresponding month of 1921. The new business paid for in December, 1923, established a new monthly record."

HIGH RECORD IS SET IN USE OF GASOLINE

Consumption This Month Will Exceed That of Any January in History.

Consumption of gasoline in the United States during the current month will establish a new high record for any January in the history of the petroleum industry, according to predictions made in the trade yesterday. The extraordinary demand now being experienced by the large refinery companies is due to the mild weather in most sections of the country. There has also been a corresponding increase in the demand for motor lubricants which generally move in proportion to gasoline.

The present tank wagon price of gasoline compared with recent periods follows, according to a compilation made by Dow, Jones & Co.:

Prices on Jan. 1, 1921, were probably the highest ever reached in the United States and declined sharply in that year. Prices in November, 1923, reached the lowest level since 1915.

Alliance Realty Income Expands.

The Alliance Realty Company, for the year ended Dec. 31, 1923, reports gross income of $452,427, against $280,431 in 1922. After payment of all expenses and taxes there was reported net income of $377,286, equal to $15.09 a share on the $2,500,000 capital stock outstanding. In 1922 the company reported net income of $245,736, equal to $9.83 a share.

Member Banks' Borrowings From Reserve Drop From $533,000,000 to $348,000,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Aggregate reductions of $184,000,000 in loans and investments, of $153,000,000 in demand deposits (net) and of $185,000,000 in accommodation at the Federal Reserve banks are shown in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly consolidated statement of condition on Jan. 9 of 763 member banks in leading cities. All classes of loans show decreases—those secured by United States Government obligations by $11,000,000; by corporate stocks and bonds, $109,000,000, and all other, largely commercial loans and discounts, by $16,000,000. Investments of all reporting banks show a reduction of $48,000,000, of which $11,000,000 is in holdings of United States Government securities and $37,000,000 in other bonds, stocks and securities.

Loans and discounts of member banks in New York City show a reduction of $75,000,000, declines of $9,000,000 in loans on United States Government securities and of $80,000,000 in loans on corporate stocks and bonds being offset in part by an increase of $14,000,000 in all other, largely commercial, loans and discounts. Investments of these banks in Liberty bonds increased by $8,000,000, while their holdings of Treasury notes and certificates of indebtedness declined by $5,000,000, and their holdings of other bonds, stocks and securities by $7,000,000.

Demand deposits (net) show declines in most of the Federal Reserve districts. The New York district shows a decrease of $95,000,000, the Chicago district of $31,000,000, and the Boston and Cleveland districts of $16,000,000 and $14,000,000, respectively. Increases of $9,000,000 each are shown for the St. Louis and San Francisco districts.

Time deposits of all reporting banks show an increase of $2,000,000 and Government deposits a decrease of $9,000,000. For the New York City banks reductions of $7,000,000 in time deposits and of $2,000,000 in Government deposits are reported.

Reserve balances of all reporting members show a reduction of $25,000,000 and cash in vault a reduction of $12,000,000. For the New York City banks a decline of $48,000,000 in reserve balances is shown, while their cash in vault shows practically no change.

Borrowings of all reporting institutions from the Federal Reserve banks show a decline from $533,000,000 to $348,000,000, or from 3.2 to 2.1 per cent. of their total loans and investments. For the New York City members a reduction from $150,000,000 to $70,000,000, or from 2.8 to 1.3 per cent., of their loans and investments is shown.

COOLIDGE TO AID NORTHWEST BANKS

AT WORK NOW ON DETAILS

North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana Are Reported to Need Help Most.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—President Coolidge and his Cabinet gave their approval today for a plan extending the assistance of Federal Reserve banks and the War Finance Corporation to banks in the Northwest wheat growing district whose condition has been strained by several recent failures. No details of the Government's plan were made public further than the statement that ample credit would be given.

Controller of the Currency Dawes, the Federal Reserve Board and the War Finance Corporation have been working jointly in a survey of the needs of banks, particularly in North and South Dakota and Montana, and believe that the source of credits arranged through their efforts will meet requirements.

It was said that the failure of two banks in Sioux Falls, S. D., had brought on the difficulties in which many of the small institutions now find themselves. The Sioux Falls banks served as city correspondents for several hundred small banks, whose capital seldom exceeded $25,000 each, and when their reserves were swept away by failures of their city correspondents, many of them apparently were unable to weather the storm of combined loss of reserves and loss of funds on unpaid loans.

The War Finance Corporation is understood to have been planning to aid in the recovery of the banks through absorption of additional farm paper. No indication as to the limits to which the corporation would go, however, has been given.

The larger financial institutions in Chicago, the Twin Cities and Omaha will be called upon to lend a helping hand in setting the small banks on their feet. Some communications have been exchanged between officias of the Reserve Board, the Controller's office and the War Finance Corporation and the metropolitan banks, with a view to establishing the amount of money available for the smaller institutions.

Members of the Congressional delegations from North and South Dakota conferred with Secretary Mellon several hours late in the day, going over the entire problem. It was indicated that they were unable to suggest better methods of handling the situation than already had been worked out by the three Government agencies. The delegations are expected to discuss the situation with the President tomorrow.

In some official quarters the belief was expressed that the mere expression of a Government willingness to help tide the stricken banks over the credit stringency would be sufficient to assure additional credit for those requiring it from metropolitan institutions. Just how much or for how long money will be needed is not certain, but many officials believe that loans equaling the reserves lost by the banks concerned will be ample to carry them through the emergency.

It was brought out in the Cabinet discussion today that there is a bank in North Dakota for every 800 in the State's population.

RAILWAY PLANS DIVIDEND.

New Orleans and Mexico Also Propose Stock Increase.

Stockholders of the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Railway will vote on a stock dividend of 10 per cent. at a special meeting on Feb. 4, according to an announcement mailed to stockholders yesterday. According to the notice, signed by J. S. Pyeatt, President, the stockholders will also be asked to vote on a proposition to increase the capital stock from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000.

If this addition is authorized a proposition for the issuance of $1,500,000 of capital stock to be paid to stockholders in form of a dividend will be voted upon. It is also proposed, in order to provide for the refunding of the outstanding first mortgage bonds of 1925 and to enable the company to finance future requirements, to authorize a new mortgage to secure an issue of bonds not to exceed $50,000,000. From this issue it is proposed to use $7,500,000 to refund outstanding first mortgage bonds and for other corporate purposes. A total not exceeding $13,500,000 will be issued or reserved to refund a like amount of the 5 per cent. income bonds. The remainder will be for the acquisition of new properties and improvements.

Dredge Co. Pays Extra Dividend.

Directors of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock Company of Chicago declared an extra dividend of 2 per cent. on the capital stock yesterday, in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 2 per cent. Both dividends are payable Feb. 15 to stockholders of record Feb. 8.

New Secretary for Exporters.

Harry W. Hanson has been elected Secretary of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, succeeding Maurice B. Dean, resigned.

The One dominant newspaper in the Boston financial advertising field

In 1923, The Herald—as usual—not only maintained, but increased its tremendous lead in Financial Advertising over all Boston Newspapers—with a dominant total of 766,002 lines.

For as a financial advertising medium, The Herald has practically no competition. Financial advertisers know The Herald reaches the right people—the investing public—a large, influential and exclusive reader clientele that recognizes in this preferred morning newspaper a financial authority second to none.

There is no substitute for The Boston Herald. For The Herald carries "Herald prestige," the inevitable result of hard work, concentrated effort and constructive building—the result of functioning, not only as a great newspaper, but as a public service to all New England.

Every financial advertiser that has entered the Boston territory has advertised in The Boston Herald. The type of financial institutions that regard The Herald as a business necessity is attested to by the following list—the advertisers who, during 1923, placed in excess of 5000 lines in The Boston Herald.

ALL GRAIN MARKETS AT LOWER LEVELS

Recent Profit Taking and Argentine Grain Hit Wheat—Corn Supply Freer.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—All grain markets closed at the bottom. Wheat closed ½ to 1 cent lower, corn, ⅝ to ⅞ cent; oats, ⅜ to ¼ cent, and rye, ½ to ⅝ cent. There was sufficient pressure from scattered longs to more than offset the efforts of local bulls.

The effect of the recent heavy profit taking was strongly in evidence and there was not the snap to the buying which has characterized the markets of late. This was especially so in wheat, where it was hard to trace the selling, while the buying was largely by houses with Eastern connections. The selling, however, was persistent and there was much less buying here against sales in the Northwest than in the last few days.

It is said that New York mills have bought 250,000 bushels of Pacific Coast hard Winter wheat of late, part of which is due there before the close of the month, having been shipped via Panama, and some Pacific Coast flour is also on the way. The wheat costs mills there relatively less than like quality grain shipped from the Central West.

Argentine and Australia cleared around 4,750,000 bushels for the week and was the basis for selling early. Argentine grain is offered to Europe at relatively 10 cents below the American. Export trade continues limited, with sales of 250,000 bushels, largely Manitobas.

Primary receipts of wheat were 414,000 bushels; week ago, 511,000; last year, 1,181,000, and shipments, 439,000 bushels; week ago, 364,000; last year, 632,000.

Country offerings of cash corn show a decided tendency to increase and, while the bulk of the grain sold over night went to other markets, the undertone was distinctly heavier and the finish was at the bottom.

Cash values were off ½ cent here and as much as 2½ cents in St. Louis, while Kansas City was a surprise and gained ½ to 2 cents.

The break at the close was on selling, led by Jackson. On the late decline a few of the leading bulls who sold around the top bought their corn back. There were selling of May and buying of July at ½ cent difference to close spreads, while others did the reverse.

Corn receipts were 895,000 bushels; week ago, 969,000; last year, 1,354,000, and shipments 681,000 bushels, a week ago, 795,000; last year, 745,000.

BANKER GOING TO EUROPE.

Jerome J. Hanauer Will Tour Continent and Egypt.

Jerome J. Hanauer, a partner of the international banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., sails for Europe today on the Conte Verde. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Hanauer. Mr. Hanaeur yesterday said his trip was for pleasure and that he would make a tour of Italy and Egypt, returning by way of the Continent.

Mr. Hanauer is the last of a dozen or more prominent bankers who have gone to Europe within the last twelve months. All of them on their departure said they were going abroad for a vacation, but in Wall Street circles the belief prevails that each of them while abroad made a study of general financial and economic conditions in order to familiarize themselves with the situation in the event that settlement of the reparations question results in the flotation of an interallied loan.

TO AID CUBAN RAIL MERGER.

President Smith of the N. Y. C. Goes to Look Over Properties.

President A. H. Smith of the New York Central left New York yesterday aboard the steamship Munaga for Havana to assist in the consolidation of the railways of Cuba under the provisions of the Tarafa bill. Without predicting what the outcome of his trip might be, Mr. Smith in a statement admitted that the greater part of his time would be taken up in consideration of the railroad property.

"I will be away about ten days," Mr. Smith said. "There are three roads I am interested in—the Cuban Railroad, the Cuban Northern Railway Company and Camaguey and Nuevitas. Consolidation of the roads may be effected later, but I would not attempt to forecast anything now."

Canadian National Shows Big Gain.

COTTON DECLINES ON HEAVY SELLING

Reaches Lowest Level of Past Two Months Amid General Liquidation.

The selling movement in cotton reached largest proportions in some weeks yesterday, bringing a decline to lowest levels in over two months. Liquidation combined with operations for a decline threw so much weight on the market that a running break carried May to 32.60, a level not touched since Nov. 9. With March contracts below 32½ cents, a loss of 2 cents in a few days, several interests began covering contracts, taking advantage of a weak market and started a recovery of all the early decline before the close. Final prices showed a gain of 5 to 13 points after an unusually excited session.

Week-end figures showed receipts of 227,000, against 188,000 last year, making an in-sight movement of 8,983,000, against 8,825,000 last year. Spinners took 293,000, against 310,000 last year, making 6,600,000 for the season compared with 7,280,000 last year. This brought a decrease in the visible supply of 66,000, against 122,000 last year, leaving the figures 3,253,000, against 3,512,000 a year ago.

The last hour developed an active covering movement when several large speculative interests that had been selling persistently earlier in the week decided to take profits. Lines of contracts were taken from the ring, starting a sharp recovery and before the close quotations had advanced about three-quarters of a cent. Once under way comparatively little cotton appeared on the rally, so that prices rebounded rapidly as wire house orders of substantial volume were executed. Final trading was active and excited, slightly over Thursday's closing level. Foreign buying of October was a feature of the afternoon.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

STRONGER WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"Moderate trading in wool at strengthening prices, more especially for medium to low grades, is reported this week. The trade is generally waiting for the opening of heavy-weight goods as a cue for their further activities, with hopes of a fair response from cloth buyers.

"Foreign markets are firm to higher. All primary markets are fully firm, and English markets on medium to low crossbreds are distinctly higher. London is expected to show 15 to 20 per cent. advance on crossbreds over the last sale."

Operator Purchases Twelve-Story Structure on West Side.

Journmire Silverman bought from Edward Waterman, through the Rosenberg-Colt Company, 261 and 265 West Thirty-sixth Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, on a plot 50 by 100 feet, a twelve-story loft building, which rents for about $75,000. The rental average is $1 per foot and the property was held at $525,000.

Max N. Natanson sold to William J. Daniel, through Byrne & Bowman, as brokers, 742 Seventh Avenue, at the northwest corner of Forty-ninth Street, a new four-story business building of substantial construction, supplied with steam heat and passenger elevator, on a plot fronting 25 feet on the avenue and 96 feet on the street. There are eight stores on the ground floor and offices above, the gross annual rental at the present time being about $55,000. The entire property is leased to one tenant for a term expiring Feb. 1, 1941. The property was held at $300,000 and was sold for all cash over a first mortgage for $150,000. Mr. Natanson purchased the property only a few weeks ago from the Garfield National Bank.

Commercial Leases.

The Realty Managers, Inc., leased the entire fourth floor in the new twelve-story building at 389 Fifth Avenue, northeast corner of Thirty-sixth Street, to Bianchini Ferier, importers of French silks and velvets, for a terms of years. Carstein & Linnekin were the brokers.

Matthew Levin, dealer in lingerie, has leased a store on Forty-sixth Street between Madison and Vanderbilt Avenues in the new Roosevelt Hotel, now under construction. J. M. Ferriss represented the tenant in the transaction and Douglas L. Elliman & Co. the landlord.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have leased the entire eighth floor in the building at 6-8 West Forty-eighth Street to Ritz-Carlton Pictures, Inc., a moving picture corporation, which will exploit Rudolph Valentino.

Operator to Erect Apartment.

M. Rosenthal, operator, has purchased from the Esperanza Realty Corporation the three five-story buildings at 114, 116 and 118 West Seventy-third Street, near Broadway, on a plot 61 by 102. The plot will be improved with a nine-story apartment house. The property was held at $175,000. Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., were the brokers in the transaction.

Buys South Street Loft.

The Charles F. Noyes Company sold for Frederic J. Agate to Philip Edelstein 269 South Street, a five-story loft building, on a plot 35 by 65. The property was valued at $25,000 and is being purchased for occupancy.

REFEREES' SALE.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW York — Fisher Lewine and Esther Lewine, plaintiffs, against George O. Andrews et al., defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of partition and sale, duly made and entered in the above entitled action, and bearing date the 18th day of December, 1923, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 25th day of January, 1924, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, the premises directed by said jugment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, situated in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly side of 49th Street distant 237 feet and 6 inches westerly from the northwesterly corner of 49th Street and the Sixth Avenue; running thence northerly, and parallel with the Sixth Avenue, 100 feet and 5 inches more or less to the centre line of the block between 49th and 50th Streets; thence westerly, along said centre line and parallel with 49th Street, 20 feet and 10 inches; thence southerly, and parallel with Sixth Avenue, 100 feet and 5 inches more or less to the northerly side of 49th Street; and thence easterly, along the northerly side of 49th Street, 20 feet and 10 inches to the point or place of beginning, the east and west walls of said premises being party walls. Said premises are now known as number 117 West 49th Street.

Said premises will be sold subject to any state of facts that an accurate survey may show, and subject to existing tenancies and covenants, if any, affecting said premises, and orders or violations of orders or lis pendins arising out of the same filed or issued by any of the departments of the City of New York.

Dated New York, January 3d, 1924.

MAURICE GOODMAN, Referee.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The weather chart of Friday night showed high barometric pressure over the Atlantic States, with the crest of maximum pressure off the Middle Atlantic Coast. It also showed high and rising pressure over the Northwestern States and low pressure along the North Central border and over the Southern Rocky Mountain region.

In New England and New York the weather will be cloudy and slightly warmer Saturday, with possibly light snow or rain Saturday night and fair and colder weather on Sunday. In the Middle Atlantic States the weather will be overcast with light rains Saturday afternoon or night, and fair and colder on Sunday. In the lower lake region and the Upper Ohio Valley the weather will be unsettled with light snow Saturday, and fair and colder on Sunday. In Kentucky, Tennessee and the East Gulf States the weather will be unsettled, with local rains Saturday afternoon or night, and generally fair and colder Sunday. In the South Atlantic States the weather will be cloudy and unsettled Saturday, with rains in Florida and extreme Southern Georgia, and unsettled with probably local rains on Sunday, with lower temperature by Sunday night.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday, the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M., and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M., and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

BRADY RELATES RISK HE TOOK FOR ESTATE

Nicholas F. Testifies That He and His Brother Guaranteed Company's Loans.

PAID $200,000 INTEREST

But This, He Says, While Beneficial to the Trusts, Was Not Charged to Them.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—Nicholas F. Brady testified today before Surrogate Lawyer that he and his brother, James C. Brady, had personally paid more than $200,000 in interest on obligations incurred by companies in which the estate of their father, Anthony N. Brady, was interested.

These obligations, totaling $4,400,000, were undertaken, Mr. Brady said, by corporations in which the four trusts created by the Brady will held stock. To insure this stock for the estate, the brothers had guaranteed the loans which the companies found necessary to make to expand or develop business.

Mr. Brady said that although the result of these guaranteed obligations had been beneficial to the trusts, neither he nor his brother had charged the beneficiaries any part of the interest involved.

Removal of the brothers and of the Central Union Trust Company as trustees is sought by Mrs. Francis P. Garvan and Mrs. Carll Tucker, daughters of Anthony N. Brady, who have filed sixty-six objections to the accounting for 1919 and 1920.

Mr. Brady related circumstances surrounding an investment for each of the trusts in 400 shares of Maxwell Motor Car Company preferred, at a time when that company had not been paying dividends, a transaction severely criticized by the objectors. It had been shown that loans made to the company by the trusts were made, in a measure, because of a letter by Carll Tucker, an officer of the Maxwell company and husband of a contestant, urging the loans.

The witness testified that when the investments were made he had before him information that earnings the previous year had been good and that prospects were bright for increased earnings the following year.

Taking up sales of stock of the American Tobacco Company, also objected to, former Governor Miller, of counsel for the trustees, presented a series of letters in which the Tuckers protested against further sales scrip dividends. The trustees agreed not to make any further sales of the scrip. In one letter to Mrs. Garvan on this subject the trustees asserted that the beneficiaries' earnings had been increased, and that if Mrs. Garvan desired to buy back the stock in the market she could obtain it at a price less than that which the trustees had realized for her. She did not take up the offer.

As to the failure of the trustees to make a physical separation of stock certificates which included their own holdings as well as those of the trusts, Mr. Brady said that he had asked the estate accountant, Mr. Freeman, to make such separation so that he and his brother could obtain their individual certificates. Mr. Freeman replied that the transfer work would require six months.

In many instances, the witness said, the splitting up of certificates would result in fractional holdings which could not be voted because they were fractional. Transfer taxes would have to be paid. Delays were experienced in cases in which transfers were effected. The Central Union Trust Company always had possession of the certificates, and "there never was a time when it was not possible to identify on the books the interest of each trust in these certificates."

Taking up the maintenance for the trusts of a cash balance with the Central Union Trust Company, which sometimes was more than $4,000,000, and which the objectors contended should have been invested in securities returning more than the 2 per cent. paid by the bank, Mr. Brady said, in explaining why this deposit was maintained:

"We had to pay income to the beneficiaries quarterly. That had to be accumulated. Often that income comes on the 2d, or so, of January and must be held for the next quarter. We had to provide for obligations that would come due. We had to prepare to take up stock offered by public utilities in which we were interested, or sacrifice our position in these companies to that extent. It had been my father's practice to finance the companies in which he was interested when they required additional aid. The will did not authorize us to borrow for the estate, so the estate had to set aside money to meet forthcoming obligations.

"Many of the public utility companies, because of fixed rates and increased costs, were on the very verge of requiring aid to save them from bankruptcy. Their needs were great and their credits were not so good. They had to be pretty carefully nursed. It was prudent for the estate to be in a position to meet demands that might arise from the needs of the companies.

"In 1919 conditions in business were not so bad. But 1920, after the first part of the year, was very bad; in a state of flux. It was the part of prudence to proceed slowly in making investments."

Mr. Brady's examination will be resumed Monday. His brother may follow him on the stand.

TWO ADMIT TAX FRAUDS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Earl G. Rickmeier, former chief of the personal audit section of the income tax division of the Treasury Department, and Garnett Underwood, Washington insurance broker, who were indicted in April, 1922, in connection with an alleged tax fraud amounting to about $1,000,000, entered pleas of guilty today in Criminal Court No. 1 to a charge of conspiracy. The case was referred to the probation officer.

Rickmeier was said to have obtained and passed on to Underwood certain information relative to additional tax levies on certain firms and persons, who are said to have been represented by Underwood. Between the two of them, the Government charged, they were to receive fees amounting to $160,000, but they were trapped after they took hold of a "dummy" package which they thought contained this amount.

Other charges alleging the theft of Government documents and the unlawful divulging of confidential information in this case were nolle prossed.

WANT POST FOR PILSUDSKI.

Bomb Discovery Revives Demand That He Be Chief of Staff.

WARSAW, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—An unexploded bomb was found last night in a hall where Marshal Pilsudski, former Chief of State, was going to lecture.

The incident has drawn attention to the acute controversy between the adherents of Marshal Pilsudski and the Nationalists. The radical groups are strongly urging the Marshal's return to political power. One group has presented a written request to Premier Grabski to appoint Marshal Pilsudski Chief of the General Staff.

DECLARES THE WEST TURNS TO COOLIDGE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Sentiment favorable to President Coolidge's nomination is growing stronger in the Western States, which manifested radical tendencies last year. James W. Good, Western manager of the Coolidge campaign, reported today. He said the President's position on taxation had strengthened him and the demand for bonus was lessening.

Mr. Good said Senator Johnson was making very little progress in the Western States and the situation was very encouraging to the men in the Chicago headquarters. Michigan, which had been thought disposed to support Johnson, he said, was turning to Coolidge, with indications that the State would be carried by the Administration.

Mr. Good went over the situation with C. Bascom Slemp and also informed Frank W. Stearns of the developments. Later he had lunch with the President.

Further difficulties over selection of a man to fill the Federal Judgeship in Oklahoma were forecast today, when it became known that President Coolidge had tried unsuccessfully to interject into the fight a "personal candidate." Following continued failure of the Republican leaders of Oklahoma to agree upon a candidate, the President sent a mutual friend to Senator Harreld to inquire as to the acceptability of Ezra Brainerd of Muskogee, who formerly lived in an adjoining county to Mr. Coolidge's home in Vermont.

Senator Harreld immediately let it be known that Mr Brainerd's appointment would not be acceptable. While he had no personal objections to the President's candidate, the Senator felt, it was said, that Brainerd was a resident of a Congressional District which already has had more than its share of Federal patronage. This district is largely Democratic, and the United States Marshal and the United States Attorney for the State were appointed from it.

Mr. Harreld is "standing pat" on the appointment of George Schwabe, who, he says, is the compromise candidate agreed upon between himself and the State leaders. Backers of other men, however, are now trying to dissuade Mr. Coolidge from selecting Mr. Schwabe.

Meantime, Mr. Herreld's original candidate, John B. Meserve, has been "taken care of." Effective yesterday, Mr. Meserve became an associate counsel of the United States Shipping Board.

FREAR WOULD SUPPORT SENATE WOOD INQUIRY

But Does Not Indicate Whether He Would Withdraw His Own Resolution in the House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Representative Frear, Republican, of Wisconsin, who introduced a resolution in the House for an investigation of the administration of the Philippines by Governor General Leonard Wood, issued a statement today in which he promised to assist Senate investigators in the event the Senate adopts the resolution asking for a similar investigation which was introduced yesterday by Senator Ladd of North Dakota. He did not say whether he would abandon his request for an investigation in the event the Senate acts favorably on the Ladd resolution, but it is believed that he would.

Mr. Frear said that the committee would be offered the aid of one of the ablest examiners and best informed men in the country, who had tendered his services without compensation. It is believed that Mr. Frear referred to Samuel Untermyer.

"An investigation may cover whatever the committee decides to undertake," said Mr. Frear. "Differences between Governor Wood and leading Filipino officials have caused them to demand his recall and they have resigned their offices. He is charged by them with trying to embarrass the Philippine Bank, with trying to turn over the Manila Railway to private parties and trying to control sugar centrals and forcing a heavy loan upon the Filipinos. Over ninety bills were prepared for them by him and over twenty acts vetoed, but the most sensational disclosures since the introduction of my resolution relate to stock transactions that should be explained because of tips received from New York that enabled a fortune of $800,000 to be built up in a brief time and $2,500,000 to be transmitted by cablegrams through a youth 10,000 miles and thirteen hours away from the stock market under circumstances that do not explain.

"These are all matters that may properly be gone into with exposure of stock methods that need remedying by law."

BURIED IN JAR OF ALCOHOL.

French Lawyer in Will Ordered Precedent Started by His Father Followed.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—Following the precedent of his father, Hector Grante, a lawyer and well-known archaeologist of Auvergne, who died last week, specified in his will that his body should be preserved in a huge glass of alcohol. Conforming to his wishes, Grante's family yesterday after the obsequies interred the body in its glass coffin, which was then placed in the chapel which had been built specially for the jar holding the body of his father.

The elder Grante, who died thirty-five years ago, made the same specifications in his will. Not only did his son carry them out to the letter, but he visited the chapel regularly and looked on the face of his father.

The Grante family is one of the oldest in Auvergne and the deceased man carried on a law practice started more than two hundred years ago by his forebears.

KRUPPS GET SPANISH PLANT

Acquire Barcelona's Oldest Engineering Works and a Dockyard.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Krupp Company of Germany is to take over Spain's oldest engineering works, La Maquinista Terrestre y Maritima, established in 1855, and also the Cardona dockyard, both in Barcelona, according to a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Barcelona.

The Germans are to supply the technical staff and Spanish banks will subscribe the capital for necessary extensions of the plants. The Krupps will place at once large orders for work which cannot be undertaken in Germany under the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles. They will build steamers for German and South American lines and locomotives for the Spanish railroads.

The dispatch adds that the agreement has been favorably received in Barcelona, where its inauguration will relieve the unemployment brought about by the closing down of other works.

Indict Five Former Boston Brokers.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—An indictment charging the larceny of $150,000 from customers of the former stock brokerage firm of Burgess, Lang & Co. was returned by the Suffolk County Grand Jury today against William H. Burgess, Howard Lang, Henry F. Palmer, John G. Williams and Francis H. Coleman, former members of the firm.

All except Lang pleaded not guilty and were held in $500 each. Customers' losses as revealed by the new indictment include $64,800 lost by Matthew C. Brush, former President of the Boston Elevated Railway, and $57,450 by Frederick S. Weymouth, of Orange.

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's Bran, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's Bran will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's Bran is a necessity!

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL BRAN—is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's Bran is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran in the Red and Green package.

Dependable Used Car Market

The censorship exercised over advertisements offered for insertion in The New York Times Automobile Exchange creates confidence in the announcements accepted for publication.

Good used automobiles may be obtained through these columns. Owners who must sacrifice cars advertise daily. Rebuilt and renovated cars, many of low mileage, including the best known and most expensive models, offered at advantageous prices.

Reward of $100 is offered by The New York Times for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any one who may have obtained money under false pretenses through the medium of a misleading or fraudulent advertisement published in The Times.
